It is doubtful if any group of musicians who have ever visited Pendleton have received such high praise as that bestowed upon the members of the faculty of the Whitman college conservatory of music who gave the recital in the Methodist church, Saturday evening. Every performer was an artist and each one would be a credit to a city of more pretentions han Walla Walla.

There was not a dull moment or a poorly executed piece from the opening to the closing of the program, and while the audience was not as Edgar L. ADMIRAL EVANS TELLS WHY HOBSON IS HERO

San Francisco.-In the course of ecture today on the Spanish-Ameri can war, or such portions of it as came directly under his notice as commander of the battleship Iowa, Rear-Admiral Robley D. Evans, retired, mentioned the sinking of the Merrimac in Santiago harbor, saying he never knew just why Admiral Sampson had selected Lieutenant Hobson to command that expedition "unless it was the Admiral thought he could spare him better than any other officer of the fleet."

Admiral Evans recounted one incident on the Iowa when a heavy batthe contest announces that the finish tie hatch was picked up by a cable will be on the carnival grounds and and carried above his head. It was shaken loose and fell, striking Evans on the shoulder and dislocating the > "Contrary to my reputation," said the Admiral, "I had not taken a drink in five years, but when I regained consciousness the doctor was standing over me with a glass of fine French brandy. I drank it, and when he asked me how I felt I replied that I felt like a gentleman for the first time in five years." Admiral Evans besought his hear> ers to work for a larger navy. He said both coasts must be protected by battleship fleets, as it would be impossible to bring a fleet through the Panama Canal, because a hostile fleet could wait for and sink its vessels one at a time.

Making the Senses Acute.

It is a prevalent opinon that if a human being is bereft of one sense, one or more of the other senses become more acute, and thus establish a compensation. The question Agent E. F. be coming here to go to school. While no move toward that end has yet been taken, Dr. Homan believes it is entirely probable that a conference of college presidents or boards of trustees, may be held in the not distant future and that the subject of union will then be taken up for discussion. What the outcome of such a meeting would be is hard to foretell.

So far as Willamette University is concerned. Dr. Homan thinks the chances are bright, regardless of what action is taken in the matter of union. The number of students is constantly while the endowment is also receiving susbtantial additions, Eaton Hall, the new $50,000 building which is a gift to the institution from Robert Eaton of La Grande, is rapidly being rushed to completion and is nearly ready for the roof. This building is of pressed brick, of modern architecture and will be one of the handsomest of any educational institution in the state when completed.

It is planned to have a big celebration in Salem in August or September. At tha time it is proposed to dedicate the new building, celebrate the 65th anniversary of the founding of the institution and have a big home-coming of alumni and former students of Old Willamette.
