Hardly had last evening's Oregonian containing the story of the search for Mr. Johnson left the press until the office was besieged with telephone calls from people who were well acquainted with Mr. Johnson. Mrs. Valentine has been notified by letter of her brother's whereabouts and will soon be in communication with him.

CARTER HARRISON IS BOOSTED FOR PRESIDENT

Los Angeles, Cal.—Carter Henry Harrison, four times Mayor of Chicago, has listened to the lure of a fifth term, and is packing his belongings in Pasadena to return to the windy city next week. His declaration, "I will not return to this section until I am old and have rounded out my career," has strong significance.

Private advices are that a great political welcome and demonstration awaits the temporarily deposed Democratic chieftain, and that the Harrison henchmen have already decided in what ward he must live the next few years. That selected is the 25th.

From the same sources comes the information that Harrison is to be put in the field against any and every candidate, and after his next Mayoralty term is to be sent to congress. His loyal followers do not stop at that, but declare they will eventually see him nominated for President.

Harrison will not discuss politics directly. He admits that that is his business, and says he is going back to attend to business.

The new arrival from Kentucky had succeeded in getting through the pearly gates. He had donned his halo, his bary was in readiness, and his celestial robe hung loosely from his broad shoulders. Still he seemed ill at ease. At intervals he would fumble at the back of his flowing garment and look puzzled.

"Anything wrong, my friend?" asked the kindly Peter, noticing the actions of the new arrival.

"I was just feeling for the hip pocket," sighed the shade from Kentucky. —New York Times.
