STORIES OF CARNEGIE HEROES

All the heroes are not in the books, a fact which is demonstrated by the awards made last Monday by the Carnegie hero fund. Most of the cases, as usual, are rescues from drowning, but there are a number of others remarkable in their way.

Pierce D. Marsh, a young West Virginia locomotive engineer, performed a feat on June 25, 1907, which sends him into the hero class. He was running up a steep mountain grade near Jane Lew station, pulling three coaches with about 80 persons on board, when he saw seven loaded coal cars and two cabooses break from a train far up the hill above him. The runaways were 2900 feet from Marsh's train when he saw them first. He stopped his train as quickly as possible and started back, attaining a speed of 50 miles per hour before the heavy runaway train caught up with him. He gauged the speed so nicely that the runaways did not even jar the train as they joined him. Marsh then stopped his train and the runaways at his leisure. For this the hero commission gave Marsh a silver medal and $1000 to pay off a mortgage.

For her heroism in rescuing from fire a colored baby, the child of a neighbor, Mrs. Amilo G. Cone, a white woman, aged 61, of Raleigh, Fla., has been remembered with a silver medal by the commission.

On May 5, 1908, Mrs. Cone found the hut of one of her poor neighbors on fire in the absence of the mother, Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Cone knew that Eveline Smith, an infant of 5 months, was asleep in the little hut, which had a tar roof and which was burning fiercely before she could get into the house.

The clothing of the baby was on fire before the woman reached it, and she was fearfully burned in trying to beat out the flames in the smoke-filled room. So serious were the burns of the infant that it died in two hours after being taken out of the building.

A well accident at Braddock, Pa., February 11, 1909, gave Frederick W. Weiher of that place an opportunity to show the heroic stuff of which he is made. Zach T. Dimpsey, with some companions, had been deepening a well and attempted to put off a blast of dynamite. Dimpsey, wondering at the delayed shot, leaned over the well just as the blast went off, and he was hit by a stone and knocked into the well, which was filled with smoke. Weiher, who was near, came running and after several experienced well diggers had declined to take a chance in the well after the injured Dimpsey, Weiher, who was not a well digger, went down and tied a rope around the unconscious man and later was hoisted himself. Dimpsey died some hours after being brought out of the well. Weiher has been awarded a bronze medal.

The babe on the track and the quick-witted engineer on the cow-catcher to save him have been reproduced by the hero commission in a new way. John Carruthers, a Baltimore & Ohio engineer, has been given a bronze medal and $10000 to help pay for a home because of his heroism in saving the life of William C. Fleming, a tot of 2 years, July 22, 1907. Carruthers was permitting his fireman to run the work train on this day, he taking the fireman's side of the cab.

He saw the child crawling across the track while the train was running about 15 miles per hour, and, calling to his fireman to stop the train, he ran out to the cowcatcher and, leaning over, grasped the child by the arm, but not soon enough to swing him clear of the engine, and the little one was carried under the cowcatcher, but Carruthers held to the little arm, allowing the child's body to drag along the ties, but still clear of the wheels, until the engine was stopped. The child was dragged about 60 feet in this way.

The cases of John A. Koonz and of Lehmann D. Lautenschlager, both of Philo, O., are most peculiar. On January 8, 1909, Leah, the 17-year-old sister of Lautenschlager, fell into the Taylorville canal with Barbara E. Kusmaul, another 17-year-old girl. Koonz and Lautenschlager dived after the girls, Koonz taking Miss Lautenschlager, while Lautenschlager tried to save Miss Kusmaul. Lautenschlager and the Kusmaul girl were both drowned, while Koonz and Miss Lautenschlager were both saved. Koonz is given a bronze medal and $250 in cash is awarded the father of Lautenschlager.

John C. Scureman of West Pittston, Pa., performed a remarkable feat in saving an 11-year-old boy named Keller from death by electrocution on March 24, 1907. The Keller boy had grasped a live telephone wire and had been shocked into unconsciousness. Scureman, who had on gum boots, went to his rescue and by some wonderful manipulation succeeded in separating the boy from the wire, but he himself was caught by the wire and knocked down, rendering one of his arms helpless. He was also badly burned.

The wife of Scureman, who had been ill for some time, almost died from the shock of her husband's injury. The boy recovered, and the hero commission awarded to Scureman a bronze medal and $2150 in money, enough to pay off the indebtedness on his property.—Philadelphia Ledger.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS.

The St. Louis Browns ran into pretty tough picking on their eastern trip.

Coonie Mack says he has a second Wa'dell in Krause, the new Athletic pitcher.

John Wille and Jack Bonner have signed for a bout in Tamaqua, Pa., June 25.

Al Lippe, the new manager of Harry Lewis, is trying to arrange a bout with Willie Lewis.

"Bobby" Lowe, an old-time major leaguer, has been engaged as a scout by the Detroit club.

Orth Collins has been purchased by Buffalo from the Terre Haute club of the Central league.

Detroit is to have a new baseball park, with grandstands and bleachers to accommodate 40,000.

Charley Griffin of Australia and Battling Hurley have been matched to box in New York June 18.

It is reported that Chester Nourse, Brown university's crack pitcher, will join the Chicago Cubs.

Maybe Roger Bresnahan thinks he will become a second John McGraw if he can draw a suspension every other week.

George Tebeau wants a manager for his Kansas City team. It seems that Jake Beckley is not able to make the Blues win.

Manager Stallings of the New York Highlanders has secured a new battery—Vaughan, the Princeton pitcher, and a catcher named Paultis.

Joe Cantillon says that his Washington team will beat out at least two of the eastern clubs. What league are the clubs in, Joe?

Jersey City started in the Eastern league race like a winner, but later on failed to make the high turn, rolled over a couple of times and hit the bottom.

Two goods fights in the near future are to be furnished by Joe Jennette and Sandy Ferguson at Boston, and Paaky McFarland and Young Erne at San Francisco.

It begins to look as though the Chicago Cubs will have a hard time winning their fourth straight pennant. Both Pittsburgh and New York are playing in nobby fashion.

Men Past Fifty in Danger.
Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate glands, which is very common among older men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate glands and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." BONAPARTE LEAVES DESK OF MYSTERIES

Washington. — Ex-Attorney General Bonaparte has left an air of deep mystery behind him at the department of justice. Whenever one wishes to probe into any case which had its genesis in the Roosevelt administration and seeks the records of the department of justice, he is confronted by stacks of documents labeled "secret" or "not to be opened."

"Why he did not take them away with him," said one senator this morning, "I cannot understand, unless it was because he remembered the embarrassment experienced by the late Senator Mitchell because of his destruction of records."

When the senate judiciary committee sought to examine into the case against Dr. Perrin it found that the report of W. R. Harr on Perrin was labeled "secret." It believed that this report contained important information, and it insisted on having access to it. Finally Attorney General Wickersham violated the secrecy of the report sufficiently to permit the members of the committee to read it, but he would not allow it to go out of his possession.

Everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for constipation, stomach and liver troubles as it sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives. Why not try Foley's Orino Laxative today? Koeppen Bros.

Strawberry raisers have had a hard stunt before them this season, with the frosts and the dry weather. In addition to these troubles an insignificant little sparrow has been unusually numerous and destructive. It makes the rounds of a patch and pecks the red cheeks of every berry it comes to.

Foley's Honey and Tar is especially recommended for chronic throat and lung troubles and many sufferers from bronchitis and asthma and consumption have found comfort and relief, by using Foley's Honey and Tar. Koeppen Bros.

Richland Irrigated Lands

I represent the Richland Land Company at Pendleton, and have for sale on Easy Terms 28,000 acres of Choice Fruit Lands under the gravity canals of the Lower Yakima Irrigation Company.

WATER RIGHT

The water for these lands was filed on 18 and 20 years ago, being two of the oldest water rights on the Yakima River, and the present company bought out and completed the canals of the two older companies, making one system, covering 25,000 acres of the best lands on the Columbia and Yakima Rivers. The United States government has recently made three large dams near the head of the Yakima River, converting three lakes into immense reservoirs, holding back all the flood waters of the mountains drained by the river, making an ample supply for all the lands tributary to the Yakima River, and the government projects being among the more recent ones, it practically guarantees the water supply for the Richland project.

WATER FOR DOMESTIC USE

Wells of pure water from the Columbia River can be gotten on any part of the lands for sale, at a depth of 25 to 40 feet, and all the way through dirt and gravel. The water in these wells is absolutely as pure as any in the entire Northwest.

LOCATION AND CLIMATE

These lands lie along the Columbia and Yakima River, at an altitude of 365 to 400 feet above sea level and have the earliest, warmest springs of any lands under irrigation in the Northwest. Early fruits and vegetables from this section of the Columbia River basin reach the market from two to three weeks earlier than any other section, and consequently bring the highest prices paid for such products. This fact alone makes these lands worth double the value of lands not so well located, for many early vegetables and berries can be raised here that cannot be marketed at any price a couple of weeks later.

R. E. TARBET, Agent at Pendleton.

TRANSPORTATION

Richland at present has a daily steamboat service to Kennewick, 19 miles down the river, and from that point, produce can be shipped to Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and Spokane, in one night, giving the fruit the cool night ride to market, and placing it actually on sale in the retail stores of the largest cities of the Northwest within 15 to 18 hours from the time it is picked in the orchard.

Seven railroads are being constructed at present, that run directly through this country, two of them running through the lands of the Richland Land Co., and it is expected that one of them, probably an electric line, will be completed and in operation before winter. If this happens, lands now being sold for $100 and $125 per acre will be worth nearly double the present prices within a year's time.

POPULATION ESTIMATES

The present size of the farm unit, based on the sales made to date is 15 acres to the family, and if the entire lot of land is sold on this basis, there will be about 1800 families or 7200 people in the vicinity of Richland in a short time. Such a farm population will support a town of 10,000 people. Lots in Richland can be bought now for $100 and up, and are certain to increase in value.

PRICE OF LAND AND TERMS

Prices on this land range from $75 to $250.00 per acre, owing to distance from town, and the amount of work necessary to place the land in shape for cultivation.

Terms are: One fourth down, and the balance in 5 equal annual payments.

These lands offer today one of the safest, and most attractive investments for capital, and to the man who has enough money to meet the first payment and can move onto the lands and make a home, they offer a chance to build up comfortable homes that will soon render the owners independent.
