WAKES ON A LEDGE FAR ABOVE STREET

New York.—It required efforts of the fire department and police detachment to save Miss Catherine Soulier, a sleep walker, from death at her home in Yonkers. Miss Soulier, who had been afflicted with somnambulism for several years, rose from her bed and, with her eyes closed, walked out of a window onto a narrow ledge three stories above a well-lighted street. Passersby saw her and called the police. An officer ran up stairs and climbed out of the window. Miss Soulier had reached the end of the ledge when the policeman seized her arm. She awakened suddenly and when she looked down into the street, she became so terrified that she fainted. The fire department was called out, an extension ladder put up to the ledge and two firemen carried the young woman down.

WEALTHY PORTLAND MERCHANT GIVES MUCH TO CHARITY

Portland, July 14.—Three benevolent institutions share in the will of Solomon Lipman, recently deceased, which was admitted to probate before the county court this morning. The First Hebrew Benevolent society receives by its terms $3000; the Neighborhood House of South Portland, $1000, and the Baby's Home, $1000.

All of the property belonging to the estate is bequeathed to I. N. and W. F. Lipman, sons of the deceased merchant, to be held by them in trust until the death of Mrs. Lipman, when the estate is to be divided among the three children, I. N. Lipman, W. F. Lipman and Mrs. Rose Heller.

The will provides that Mrs. Lipman shall receive the sum of $1000 a month during her life time, and in addition the residence property, silverware and furniture. A codicil to the will provides that Mrs. Heller shall receive the dividends arising from the 200 shares of the capital stock of Lipman, Wolfe & Co.

No statement is made in the papers filed with the county clerk, as to the value of the estate as no inventory of the property has yet been taken.

The will was filed by N. R. Simon of the law firm of Beach & Simon.

ELSIE SIGEL POISONED BEFORE BEING STRANGLED

New York, July 14.—A chemical analysis by Professor George Ferguson, of Columbia university, has detected the presence of poison in the vital organs of Elsie Sigel, who was murdered in the room of Leon Ling, and whose body was packed in a trunk. Further chemical tests are being made to determine the nature of the poison. This disclosure by Professor Ferguson confirms the evidence submitted to the police 10 days ago that a Chinaman tried to buy poison at a drugstore near the Chinese restaurant over which the girl was murdered, and that this effort to procure the poison was made on the day before Elsie Sigel was killed. Another drugstore near the restaurant filled a prescription for a powerful irritant poison the night before the girl was murdered.

The result of the chemical analysis on the viscera is the first absolute proof the police have had that Elsie Sigel was poisoned before her body was strapped up and packed in the trunk. A postmortem examination led the coroner to declare that the girl had been strangled to death. Strangulation might have been the direct cause of death, but Professor Ferguson has established the fact that the young missionary worker was under the influence of a powerful drug at the time she was strangled.

PENDLETON PEOPLE ON LONG AUTO TRIP

North Yakima is at present entertaining two merry automobile touring parties that have already made many miles since they left home and are scheduled to make many more before their month's sojourn is over, says the Yakima Republic. Rev. J. S. Hays, a dominie in the Church of Christ in Spokane, has his broadcloth off and is driving one of the cars and W. E. Renner of Tacoma is driving the other. The Hays party arrived here the night of July 5 and is headed for Seattle and other points of interest on the coast. Mr. Renner made North Yakima last night, en route to Winnipeg, Ont.

Mr. Hays is accompanied by his wife, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Penland, and his granddaughter, Flossie Penland. They are riding in a big Elmore 30-horse power touring car and are equipped with everything required to make their long journey, camping by the roadside at night. Counting passengers, tents, food, etc., the Elmore is hauling about 1500 pounds and is attracting considerable attention on the street because of its heavily laden appearance. A long handled shovel tied on her and some other implement of necessity in emergency cases there suggests that the minister and his companions expected some difficulties when they left home.

Unknown Man Suicides.

Portland.—A middle aged, well dressed man, put a dramatic end to his own life at Moore's crossing on the Vancouver carline at 11 o'clock this morning. In his pocket was a card with the name E. F. Turner.

George Bowman and Bert Kale, two young men living at 368 Fremont street, noted a tall, heavily built man rapidly approaching them walking on the street-car trestle near Hayden island. When less than 200 feet from them he stopped suddenly, pulled a revolver, and firing rapidly, put four bullets through his left breast.

It was Turner's evident intention to throw himself from the trestle for he staggered toward the edge even as he was firing, but death came too soon and he fell with but a groan, spattering the ties of the streetcar track with blood.

A Vancouver car which came up at the moment carried the body to the morgue. The only thing of value found in his pockets was an old brass watch, the only clue to his identity a much thumbed card bearing his name and address. "52 1-2 Russell street, room 5, Merges building."

Writing for Oregon Jobs.

Portland.—"I'm married, don't drink a drop, cuss a little and work like the devil," constitutes one sentence from an original application for a hardware salesman's job received this morning by the publicity bureau of the Commercial. The writer was an easterner, who explained his desire to come to Oregon by saying that he had learned it it was the best place on the globe and that he wanted to get out among good people. The expressions were so quaintly put that the clerical force of the club adjourned business for a prolonged laugh fest.

The expression of the hardware salesman is a superior sample of the thousands of applications for work being received each day by Manager Richardson of the Commercial club. People in Haine, Texas, California and intermediate points are planning to come to Portland. Hundreds of letters have been received from men who wish to buy land in central Oregon as soon as transportation facilities are provided.

McCredie Won't Wear Gown.

Husum, Wash.—Judge W. W. McCredie, presiding judge of the superior court, of which this county constitutes a part of the circuit, still refuses to wear a gown while holding court. He is stated to have said that he will not wear one before the September jury session, and in all probability not then if the state did not buy it. The judge says:

"I have written to the state auditor asking him if he will accept vouchers for gowns but have received no reply. In regard to the violation of the law being a misdemeanor, I have not looked the matter up. The law itself carries no penalty, but there may be a provision making it a misdemeanor for the violation of it." From the fact that the gown would not be a part of his regular raiment, Judge McCredie holds that it is unfair for the state to cause him the expense.

Finds Body of Dead Man.

Portland.—Harold Wright, a small town boy, accompanied by a friend, started early this morning on a search for blackberries. His first find was made when he reached a point two miles west of Willamette Heights, the dead body of an unidentified white man, lying face down in the undergrowth. Before reporting the discovery to the police station the boys found a bullet wound in the head, the hair all about it burned with powder, indicating that the shot had been fired at close range and probably by the man himself.

Unable to find a telephone in the neighborhood the youngsters ran most of the way back to town before they notified the station. Dunning, McIntee & Gilbaugh sent a wagon for the body and it will be brought to the city morgue where an effort will be made to identify it.
