DR. ELIOT PROPHESES COMING NEW RELIGION

Boston.—Prophecy of a new religion was contained in an address made before the Summer School of Theology by President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard university. The address was based on the two great commandments—the love of God and the service of fellow men. He said:

"The progress of the twentieth century will bring about what I call the new religion. The new religion will not be based upon authority, either spiritual or temporal; the present generation is ready to be led, but not driven.

"It will admit no sacraments, except natural, hallowed customs, and it will deal with natural interpretation of such rites. The new religion will not attempt to reconcile people to present ills by the promise of future compensation.

"I believe the advent of just freedom for mankind has been delayed for centuries by such promises. The new religion will not even imagine the 'justice of God.' Civilized nations realize that legal punishments now frequently fall of their purpose, and the new religion cannot pretend to understand God's justice for there is no earthly conception as a comparison.

"The new religion will laud God's love and will not teach condemnation for the mass of mankind. Based on the two great commandments of loving God and one's neighbor, the new religion will teach that he is best who loves best and serves best, and the greatest service will be to increase the stock of good will."

FIND DOG STOWED IN CARLOAD OF POTATOES

Portland, July 24.—A carload of California potatoes, consigned to R. F. Hosking, a produce broker, was received at the terminal yards yesterday, and when the car was opened, much to the amazement of the yardmen, a handsome Scotch collie dog leaped to the ground.

The car came from Stockton, and was seven days on the trip. There was neither food nor water in the car, yet the animal seemed none the worse for its long imprisonment.

Whether the dog strayed into the car just before it was closed, or was put there by some one who wanted to get rid of it, there was no way of finding out.

Mr. Hosking took it to his home and will keep it until he hears from Stockton.

SAINT PAUL'S SCHOOL WALLA WALLA, WASH.

This progressive school is fortunate in its location in the best residence portion of Walla Walla, where its attractive buildings amid ample grounds offer a pleasant home for the school family. The plan of the daily life of the school is to surround the pupils with the refined influences of a well-ordered home and to furnish the opportunity for thorough education. Each girl is given personal attention as to health, and for the cultivation of good habits of living and study. Special arrangements are made for the care of children of eight, etc.

The teachers are refined women of character and breeding, graduates of eastern seminaries.

The milk supply and sanitary matters are under direction of the board of health. The school rooms are fumigated every week.

The courses of study have been planned for three classes of girls, viz: Those who wish the best preparation for college; those who wish to complete a good academic course, but who do not wish to go to college, and those who desire an English and modern language course. All three courses lead to a diploma in this accredited school. Also wide choice of subjects is open to the girl who wishes to do special work, to supplement her previous training by a year or two in a superior school.

These studies may be pursued to any extent the attainments of the pupil permit and for a certain definite amount of work completed, a certificate will be given.

There are all grades from kindergarten up.

In music the Leschetisky method is used, and a girl starting there can pursue her music unaffected by a possible change of teachers, for a Leschetisky student will always be in charge. The vocal work is under a teacher with the best foreign training, as is the case with the languages, French, German and Spanish.

The art school is in charge of a gifted woman trained in the Julien school, Paris, and known in the art circles of the east. The courses offered are the same as in the New York art school. A student can begin work at Saint Paul's and later going to Chicago, New York or Paris, does not suffer by the change.

The work includes drawing, painting, modeling, composition, anatomy, decorative designs applied to porcelain, enamels, metals and leather. Life class will be formed for advanced work.

A year's tuition in art is $50. A year's tuition in music is $60. A diocesan school makes such low rates possible for such unusual advantages.

The enrollment this year was 128. The four states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana were represented in the school. Of the graduates some are going to Leland Stanford, Washington University, Oberlin, etc.

Have You Worn a "Rut" So Deep and Wide That You Can Live In It

To the merchant who is destined to build a big store success, the question—"Can I afford to advertise aggressively?"—never occurs—unless it occurs as a mere absurdity.

The merchant who is absorbed in his store-making task will FIND WAYS TO "AFFORD" more and more advertising—and his very enthusiasm will breathe life into his ads.—and will make them mirror his store as it is, and as it SHALL BE.

"The Palterers who ask for certainty" will always fail as merchants. They will stay in ruts until they wear these ruts deeper and wider—and until those same ruts will seem almost like little worlds, and fit to live in.

The awake merchant will make his advertising blazon the path for his store—a new path, and leading to a new success.
