YOUNG SOMNAMBULIST HAS MURDEROUS INSTINCTS

Kansas City, Mo.—What is the strange impulse that leads Walter Schomover, 11 years old, one of the kindest and most devoted boys to his parents in his waking hours, to desire to murder them when darkness falls.
For months his parents who live in Kansas City, Kan., have attempted to determine the cause of the strange ailment that displays itself only by night, but which makes of him a veritable fiend. Failing, they have appealed to Judge Van Prather to help them solve the case.
Several times of late the boy's father and stepmother have been awakened to find the youth stooping over them with a hammer drawn, prepared to dash out their brains. It is with the greatest difficulty that they restrain him from injuring them. When awakened, he returns to bed peacefully.
The boy stoutly maintains that he loves everybody and does not know why he has such homicidal impulses. The court ordered him sent to a sanitarium.
The only way to keep some men straight is to give them a big load to carry.

PENDLETON ACADEMY OBSERVES HOLIDAY

SUSPEND SCHOOL
WORK UNTIL MONDAY

Students Departing for Their Homes
—Rally Will Be Held This Evening to Arouse Spirit for Tomorrow's Contest.

Thanksgiving will be observed at the Pendleton Academy with a vacation for the remainder of the week. The class work was brought to a close this afternoon though some of the students were excused last evening because the train service was such that if they did not start home last evening or this morning, they would not arrive in time for Thanksgiving dinner.

In preparation for tomorrow's gridiron struggle between the academy and high school teams on the Alta street grounds, a rousing rally will be held on the academy campus this evening. A great bonfire will be built and around this the students will gather for the purpose of instilling enough enthusiasm into the members of the team to enable them to win the victory. Speeches, college songs and yells will enliven the occasion.

Three of the students, Miss Myrtle Rhodes, Miss Lottie Boreland and Miss Lucia French, have gone to Echo to spend Thanksgiving. Miss Rhodes will be the guest of Miss Boreland, while Miss French will be the guest of a cousin.

Mrs. Anna Z. Crayne, instructor in domestic science and matron of Koozta Tall, leaves this evening for Walla Walla to spend the vacation with friends and she will be joined Saturday evening by Miss Harriet Young, instructor in the department of music, who is going over to hear Fritz Kreisler, the great violinist.

BLUESTEM WHEAT COMMANDS DOLLAR

With one dollar per bushel being offered for bluestem wheat and 95 cents being offered for club, the local grain market is the best that it has been since the opening of the present harvest season. That it will go still higher before the next harvest season is confidently believed by those farmers who are still holding.

The only difficulty at the present time is the fact that there is no bluestem wheat left in the country and none whatever being offered for sale. The quantity of club remaining in the hands of the farmers is also limited and those who have it, for the most part, say they will have one dollar for it or hold until spring.

One of the largest sales made recently was that of W. W. Harrah, who sold 7000 bushels at 90 cents. This is the price now being offered by the local buyers, while it is understood that the Walters mill offered 92 cents for one lot of club wheat and 95 for another. Since the local mills have shown a disposition to go so much stronger than the grain buyers, it is probable the greater part of the wheat remaining in the hands of the growers will remain at home.
