SECOND ASS'T SEC. OF STATE IS INDISPENSABLE

Most Unique Character at the Nation's Capital-Has Risen from the Ranks and Will Die in Present Station-Is Guide in Intricacies of International Diplomacy.

Washington.-The only man in Incle Sam's pay who is absolutely indispensable to the government!

Alvey Augustus Adee is his alliterative appellation, and he is second assistant secretary of state. His is the omniscient intellect that guides the United States government through the ntricacies of international diplomacy; the universal encycloped a of knowledge of world politics; the repository of more state secrets than that of any one human being.

Besides all this, he is the most interesting, lovable and yet, at times, rascible, public man now in the government service, Another Bos-well will be needed adequately to bronicle his career. No man in Washington is productive of more tories than A. A. Adee a new one crops up every day—and all of them are good. Personally he is a slight visp of a man, with a gray imperial beard and mustache stained by devoon to My Lady Nicotine. His shoulders are stooped, and he walks nervously in short, choppy steps, his feet turned out like a drum major's He has a quizzleal, kindly face, and looks at his interviewers from underneath scrubby eyebrows, with his head bent forward. He has the French trick of shrugging his shoulders. The Adee laugh is characteristic. No one ever heard anything like it . It starts with a chuckle, increases in volume to a cachinnation, and subsides to a series of sly "tee hee's." Is Self Raised. Born with a congenital throat de-fect that deprived him of the power of his vocal chords, with only rudimentary ear drums that have forced him to go through life deaf. Adee triumphed through sheer force of will and over-mastering intellectual abilities. He taught himself to speak, although lacking the hard palate which n the average throat is the soundng board, so to speak, of the human voice. He was educated as an archiect, but abandoned that profession to enter the diplomatic service as secretary of the legation at Madrid, Spain, in 1870, having already mastered the language of the Dons. Since that time, incidentally, he has "pickeveral other tongues. He has been in the state department as an under secretary since 1886; he will be there until he dies. to one can take his place. He is ab-

A department clerk once crossed Adee's path with a corncob pipe in his mouth. The second assistant secretary stopped him and looked quiz-
