PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

plated in the establishment of a naval base and station in the Philippines, and have expressed their judgment, in which I fully concur, in favor of making an extensive naval base at Pearl Harbor, near Honolulu, and not in the Philippines.

Tour of Fleet Noteworthy.
"The return of the battleship fleet from its voyage around the world, in more efficient condition than when it started, was a noteworthy event in the interest in our affairs and the naval authorities of the world. Besides the beneficial and far reaching effect on our personal and diplomatic relations in the countries which the fleet visited, the marked success of the ships in steaming around the world in all weathers on schedule time has increased respect for our navy and has added to our national prestige."

"Early in the coming session, a comprehensive plan for the reorganization of the officers of all corps of the navy will be presented to congress and I hope it will meet with action suited to its urgency."

More Economy.
"Owing to the necessity for economy in expenditures, I have directed the curtailment of recommendations for naval appropriations so that they are $33,000,000 less than the corresponding estimates of last year and the request for new naval construction is limited to two first class battleships and one repair vessel."

Legal Procedure Reforms.
"The deplorable delays in the administration of civil and criminal law have received the attention of, committees of the American Bar association and many state bar associations, as well as the considered thought of judges and jurists. In my judgment, a change in judicial procedure with a view to reducing its expense to private litigants in civil cases and facilitating the dispatch of business and final direction in both civil and criminal cases constitutes the greatest need in our American institutions. I do not doubt for one moment that much of the lawless violence and cruelty exhibited in lynchings are directly due to the uncertainties and injustice growing out of the delays in trials, judgments and the execution thereof by our courts. The procedure in the federal courts should furnish an example for the state courts. I therefore, recommend legislation providing for the appointment by the president of a commission with authority to examine these laws and equity procedure of the federal courts of first instance, the law of appeals from these courts to the courts of appeals and to the supreme court and the costs imposed in such procedure on the private litigants and upon the public treasury and make recommendation with a view to simplifying and expediting the procedure as far as possible and making it as inexpensive as may be the litigant of little means."

Injunctions Without Notice.
"Recommending that legislation be adopted to carry out the platform pledges with regard to injunctions the president says:

"The ends of justice will best be met and the chief cause of complaint against ill-considered injunctions without notice will be avoided by the enactment of a statute forbidding hereafter the issuing of any injunction for restraining order, whether temporary or permanent, by any federal court, without previous notice and a reasonable opportunity to be heard on behalf of the parties to be enjoined, unless it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that the delay to give such notice and hearing would result in irreparable injury to the complainant and unless also the court shall from the evidence make a written finding which shall be spread upon the court minutes, that immediate and irreparable injury is likely to ensue to the complainant, and shall define the injury, state why it is irreparable and shall also enforce upon the order issued the date and the hour of the issuance of the order. Moreover, every such injunction or restraining order issued with previous notice and opportunity by the defendant to be heard should by force of the statute, expire and be of no effect after seven days from the issuance thereof or within any time less than that period which the court may fix, unless within such seven days or such less period the injunction or order is extended or renewed after previous notice and opportunity to be heard."

"My judgment is that the passage of such an act which really embodies the best practice in equity and is very like the rule now in force in some courts will prevent the issuing of ill-advised orders of injunction without notice and will render such orders when issued much less objectionable by the short time in which they may remain effective."

Political Contributions.
Under "political contributions," the president says:
"I urgently recommend to congress that a law be passed requiring that candidates in elections of members of the house of representatives and the committee in charge of their candidacy and campaign, file in proper offices of the United States government a statement of the contributions and the expenditures incurred in the effort for such elections and that similar legislation be enacted in respect to all other elections which are constitutionally within the control of congress."

The president in calling attention to the big postal deficit, recommends the idea of making magazines and periodicals pay a higher rate of postage than one sent a pound, the average cost of the transportation of this matter being more than nine cents a pound. He adds:

Postal Savings Banks.
"The second subject worthy of mention in the postoffice department is the real necessity and entire practicability of establishing postal savings banks. It has been proposed to delay the consideration of legislation establishing a postal savings bank until after the report of the monetary commission. This report is likely to be delayed and properly so, because of the necessity for careful deliberation and close investigation. I do not see why the one should be tied up with the other. It is understood that the monetary commission has looked into the systems of banking which now prevail abroad and have found that by a control there exercised in respect to reserves and the rates of exchange by some central authority panics are avoided. It is not apparent that a system of postal savings banks would in any way interfere with a change to such a system here. Certainly, in most of the countries of Europe where control is thus exercised by a central authority, postal savings banks exist and are not thought to be inconsistent with a proper financial and banking system."

Admission of States.
"The successful party in the last election in its national platform declared in favor of the admission as separate states of New Mexico and Arizona and I recommend that legislation appropriate to this end be adopted."

"With respect to the territory of Alaska, I recommend legislation appropriate to this end be adopted."

Legislative Council for Alaska.
"With respect to the territory of Alaska, I recommend legislation which shall provide for the appointment by the president of a governor and also of an executive council, the members of which shall during their term of office, reside in the territory and which shall have legislative powers sufficient to enable it to give to the territory local laws adapted to its present growth. I strongly deprecate legislation looking to the election of a territorial legislature in that vast district. The lack of permanence of residence of a large part of the present population and the small number of the people who either permanently or temporarily reside in the district, as compared with its vast expanse and the variety of the interests that have to be subserved, make it altogether unfitting in my judgment, to provide for a popular election of a legislative body. The present system is not adequate and does not furnish the character of local control that ought to be there. The only compromise it seems to me which may give needed local legislation and secure a conservative government is the one I propose."

White Slave Trade.
"I regret to have to say that the investigations made in the bureau of immigration and other sources of information lead to the view that there is urgent necessity for additional legislation and greater executive activity to suppress the recruiting of the ranks of prostitutes from the streams of immigration into this country--an evil which for want of a better name, has been called 'the white slave trade.' I believe it to be constitutional to forbid, under penalty, the transportation of persons for purposes of prostitution across national and state lines; and by appropriating a fund of $50,000 to be used by the secretary of commerce and labor, for the employment of special inspectors, it will be possible to bring those responsible for this trade to indictment and conviction under a federal law."

The president recommends the holding of an exposition in 1913, the fiftieth anniversary of the issuance of the emancipation proclamation, to show the progress the negroes have made.

"I have thus, in a message, compressed as much as the subjects will permit, referred to many of the executive needs of the country with the exceptions already noted. Speaking generally the country is in a high state of prosperity. There is every reason to believe that we are on the eve of a substantial business expansion, and we have just garnered a harvest unexampled in the market value of our agricultural products. The high prices which such products bring mean great prosperity for the other hand, they mean a very considerably increased burden upon those classes in the community whose yearly compensation does not expand with the improvement in business and the general prosperity. Various reasons are given for the high prices. The proportionate increase in the output of gold, which today is the chief medium of exchange and is in some respects a measure of value, furnishes a substantial explanation of at least part of the increase in prices. The increase in population and the more expensive mode of living of the people, which have not been accompanied by a proportionate increase in acreage production, may furnish a further reason. It is well to note that the increase in the cost of living is not confined to this country, but prevails the world over, and that those who would charge increases in prices to the existing protective tariff, must meet the fact that the rise in prices has taken place almost wholly in those products of the factory and farm in respect to which there has been either no increase in the tariff or in many instances a very considerable reduction."
