BURBANK GLAD CARNEGIE'S SUPPORT IS WITHDRAWN

Santa Rosa, Cal.—Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, has a new claim to fame. An annual grant of $10,000 from the Carnegie institute, awarded to the horticulturist, has been withdrawn and Burbank declares the action is a relief, maintaining that cares and responsibilities accompanied the yearly gift.

The action of the institute's officials was based on the allegation that the plant merger was being exploited for commercial purposes. Another reason assigned was that Burbank was not the originator of the spineless edible cactus.

"I am exploited, whether I am willing or not," declared Burbank. "Moreover, I do not claim to have originated the spineless cactus, but I do claim to be the first man to make it commercially useful. But for the advice of friends I would have dissolved my connection with the institute last year. Besides cares, the grant brought a full crop of envy and jealousy. Personally I have no desire for wealth or fame. I will say, though, that it was mutually agreed with the institute that I should have the privilege of supplementing their inadequate grant by the sale of my productions, as before the contribution was offered."

WILL PANAMA CANAL STAY DUG WHEN FINISHED.

Washington.—Down on the isthmus of Panama the American Engineers have discovered that it is going to be something of a task to keep the canal dug after they have dug it.

During the past rainy season there have been two unusually heavy freshets. One came in November and another in December, the day after Christmas. The engineers are now struggling to make up the delay due to the second flood. How extensive the setback is not yet entirely known.

It has been discovered, however, that the first flood—which carried away the fluvial silt shed where the rise of water is measured—has, with the assistance of the rough seas, piled up 550,000 yards of mud in the Atlantic entrance of the canal. This is a quantity not to be joked about, even with an equipment of sea-going dredges at hand to suck it out.

Even in ordinary weather the mud piles up in the Atlantic entrance at the rate of 200,000 cubic yards a month. It is estimated, therefore, that 350,000 yards washed into the canal through the Mindi river during the month of November. Now much more was piled up in December is not yet known.

It has been discovered that flour can be made from sawdust, which may shed some light on the large acquisition of "dough" by some of our big lumbermen.

HOOD RIVER STARTS BOOM FOR NORMAL

FRUIT TOWN MAKING ACTIVE PLANS FOR SCHOOL

Commercial Club Has Launched Room to Secure Location of Normal—Monmouth Only Competitor Seek to Line up Harvey Scott.

Hood River.—At the meeting of the Commercial Club held Tuesday evening, at which Charles Hall presided for the first time, a large attendance greeted the new president. The business of great interest to come before the meeting was the report of the committee recently appointed to look into the matter of attempting to get the state normal school located at Hood River.

Attorney E. C. Smith who is chairman of the committee which consisted of himself, Chas. Hall, D. J. Treiber and C. T. Early made the report. An interview which several members of the committee had with Mr. H. W. Scott, the veteran editor of the Oregonian, Mr. Smith said, indicated that Hood River would get the support of the Oregonian if it decided to ask for the school. It was understood that Monmouth, which already has buildings that were erected for normal purposes was the only probable competitor for the school. The sanitary conditions of the latter place owing to bad drainage were, however, detrimental to locating the school there permanently.

D. J. Treiber, one of the committee, spoke in favor of the proposition stating that it was the sentiment of the committee not to put up a fight for the school, but to ask the state to locate it at Hood River on account of its central location and other desirable features. He believed he said, that it would add greatly to the prestige of the city and prove a benefit in many other ways.

J. L. Henderson spoke against going into a fight to have the school located here on the ground that he thought it would be an injury to other interests the city might ask the state to take up and from the point of view that there were already three acts of building at various places in the state which could be used for the purpose and that he thought the taxpayers would be opposed to it.

C. T. Roberts who was present spoke enthusiastically of the good he thought the school would do here in a number of ways and suggested that the committee get into communication with Dr. Elliot with a view of having him donate a site and grounds for the institution.

On motion of C. T. Early the report of the committee was accepted and the committee was continued with instructions to devise a plan of campaign and take steps to hold a mass meeting to submit the matter to the residents in general.

LABEL SUIT BASED ON PLOT OF OPERA

Berlin.—A curious libel suit will shortly be heard here. The plaintiff, Baron von Liebenberg, an impecunious Austrian, is suing the composers of the opera, "The Count of Luxemburg," basing his action on the plot wherein an officer of noble birth is paid by a royal prince to marry a woman for the purpose of providing her with a title in order to enable the prince to continue a friendship without attracting too much attention.

Baron Liebenberg acted the part of this officer in real when Prince Poachim Albrecht of Prussia induced the Baron to marry Marie Sulzer, an actress with whom the prince was enamored, promising Luxemburg a large amount on condition that he disappear immediately after the ceremony Luxemburg carried out his share of the contract, leaving his wife with the Prince in London. The promised sum of money did not arrive and Liebenberg published the story. Now he claims that the opera exposes him to ridicule.

A Little Cold.

He caught a little cold—
That was all—
So the neighbors sadly said,
As they gathered round his bed,
When they heard that he was dead.
He caught a little cold—
That was all. (Puck.)
Neglect of a cough or cold often leads to serious trouble. To break up a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable, mix two ounces of Glycerine, a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine Compound pure and eight ounces of pure whisky. Take a teaspoonful every four hours. You can buy these at any good drug store and easily mix them in a large bottle.

A Friendly Talk to Dealers About Advertisized Goods

By Seth Brown.

A good many dealers lose opportunities for making money through improper use of advertising forces.

It is very well to talk about "your store," "your trade," and "your customers."

Your trade and customers are only yours after you have done the business—not before.

You want customers and can secure them economically by featuring goods which are extensively advertised.

This is the reason. A national market requires national advertising. The manufacturer who is strong enough to advertise profitably must first solve a good many problems. The most important is right goods.

Next comes right methods of advertising.

When Mr. National Advertiser has mastered these two conditions he can produce certain definite results.

His advertising will stamp the importance of his goods on the mentality of the buying public.

Every succeeding ad makes the indention a little deeper.

Mr. Dealer, this is your asset, if you make the right use of your opportunity.

If you talk about advertised goods in your local advertising, give them prominent display in your stores and a kindly word from behind the counter; you will find that they can be sold more readily—with less expense—than goods of an unknown brand.

But you may say: "My customers know me and I explain to them the value of the goods sold."

Your trade knows that you don't make the goods. They of course believe in your sincerity of purpose, because you are an honest dealer, but why take upon yourself the unnecessary burden of guaranteeing something you do not make?

Why not leave that part where it belongs—on the manufacturer?

You can find quite enough to do in assisting customers, understanding what is best for them and in taking care of the hundred and one things which "keeping store" involves.

You can just as well make an asset of the national advertising which is being done for goods in your line, and—

Just a minute, Mr. Dealer.

Lean down a little closer. I want to whisper a word in your ear.

Chances are a little more than even that you will serve your customers better by so doing.

Only the best goods can permanently stand the acid test of advertising.

And right goods and decent service is the secret of your ultimate success.

Think it over.
