George Strand and Herbert Thompson, the reservation farmers, will arrive in Pendleton tomorrow with 39 head of mules. The animals were purchased in the Burns country and have been driven across the mountains. PULLMAN FACULTY PUTS BAN ON ALL-AROUND ATHLETES

The faculty of the Washington State college at Pullman has recently handed out an edict which will seriously effect the future of athletes at the state college, says the Walla Walla Union. The ruling is that hereafter no athletes will be allowed to compete in more than two branches of inter-collegiate athletics during any school year. In the past the state college has always had several men who were strong in at least three branches of athletics and the recent ruling of the faculty has put an end to this.

"Moose" Englehorn and Wallace De Witt, the two Spokane boys who were the stars of the football team and are now helping W. S. C. in the fight for the northwest basketball championship, will be the first men affected by the rule as they have already won their letters in two branches of sport and will have to forego competing in the spring on the track team.

This will be a serious blow to Coach Bohler's plans, as big Englehorn was depended upon for the weight events the place left vacant by the graduation of Joe Halm, and the high hurdles.

FATAL DISEASE PLAYS HAVOC WITH HORSES

Walla Walla.—Efforts are to be made by Dr. S. B. Nelson, State Veterinarian, to have the government take up and investigate the cases of "pernicious anemia" which has been playing havoc among the horses of W. P. Reser, a wealthy farmer here. Reser has lost between 60 and 75 head from the disease, and about 75 are now sick. These are the only cases of the kind in the state, so far as known.

Dr. Nelson has left for Olympia to confer with Governor Hay on the matter, and through him will probably ask the government to help.

The origin of the disease is mysterious and it is not known how the horses on Reser's ranch became affected. The disease affects various parts of the body and is accompanied by a high fever, which is noticeable every other day.

Animals afflicted with the disease rarely recover, the death rate being about 99 per cent.

Dr. Nelson states that it is baffling him. His assistant, Dr. J. W. Kalkus, at Pullman, is working on the disease in the laboratory.

Naval Base for France.
Paris.—French naval circles urge that the Brest be made the real naval base of the Atlantic. At present France's Atlantic naval forces are established at three points—Brest, Cherbourg and Lorient. Several writers on naval topics maintain that this is a mistake, since the Mediterranean is no longer "the defensive center."

Subscriptions to be sent through the American Woman's League for periodicals, may be left at Frazier's book store. Those leaving subscription orders will please designate the person to whose membership they should be credited.

Wanted—At Peoples Warehouse, two apprentice girls for millinery department.
