

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a lump came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. I wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."

A New Back for an Old One—How It Can Be Done in Pendleton.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You can not reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Pendleton residents would do well to profit by the following example.

Mrs. Putnam Teck of Elgin, Ore., says: "I had known of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills long before I had occasion to use them. When suffering from an attack of lame back, accompanied by pains through my kidneys, I procured a box and began their use. If I sat long on one position the pains were always more severe and I experienced a languid, dizzy feeling upon first arising in the morning. Doan's Kidney Pills banished the backache, regulated the passage of the kidney secretions and helped me in every way. I cannot express my gratitude to Doan's Kidney Pills for the benefit they gave me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A MYSTERIOUS ROAD IN BLUE MOUNTAINS

WALLA WALLA MEN MAKE A DISCOVERY

Run Onto Road on East Side of Blue Mountains in Region Considered Inaccessible—Ostensibly Is for Logging Purposes But Indications Point to Another Theory.

Wednesday's Walla Walla Bulletin is authority for the following: That there is already a railroad on the east side of the Blue mountains, running to the top, ostensibly for the purpose of serving some logging camps but evidently for the purpose of connecting with some big road, is the assertion of George T. Barber, a contractor.

Mr. Barber and A. A. Lutz discovered this road a year ago last summer and told of it on their return to Walla Walla, but were laughed at, as that part of the country has been regarded as inaccessible. Mr. Barber is of the belief that this road is a part of the Strahorn system and that it is to be a connecting link in the North Coast road—or whatever the road is to be known as after it leaves Walla Walla.

That the North Coast railroad is to touch Walla Walla from the west and north has been stated a number of times by Robert Strahorn, and he is also reported as having stated that the road would run through Walla Walla toward the east. It will have to cross the Blue mountains, and they have been regarded by many as an almost insurmountable obstacle. Locating Engineer E. S. Clark of the North Coast, has made two surveys up Mill Creek to get a route to the east for the road. He claims to have found a suitable grade but whether this grade leads to the newly discovered old road is not known.

Mr. Barber, about two years ago, had business which took him into the Blue mountains to a place called Paradise, at the fork of the Looking Glass river, which flows down the east side of the mountains. He was familiar with this section, having hunted and fished there as a boy, and while he was looking up some water power he took his family along for an outing, making the trip in an automobile driven by A. L. Lutz.

They reached the place Mr. Barber was looking for and found a railroad track, the right of way of which had been cleared and the small timber and brush burned off. Mr. Barber swore that he had never heard of a railroad in that section, but he was sure of his landmarks and went on. They went up in the mountains about eight miles further and crossed the track again. Inquiry at a nearby camp only elicited the information that the road served some lumber camps. Soon a big engine, with a three-wheel drive, drawing two late new boxcars, without a mark on them to indicate their ownership came puffing along. The rails, said Mr. Barber, are of the heaviest steel, weighing more than twice those ordinarily used on mountain roads.

The road, Mr. Barber states, was headed directly toward the head of Mill creek, which is just on the west side of the ridge. At that time it was said to be sixteen miles long.

"There is no timber to speak of where they are going," said Mr. Barber, "and certainly not enough to warrant the construction of a standard gauge railroad. I was unable to find out who it did belong to, none of the mountaineers seeming to know."

"When I told the story here on my return they all laughed at me, claiming that I had taken the wrong kind of 'stuff.' They said it was impossible to build a railroad there. When I saw Engineer Clark of the North Coast last summer I mentioned it to him and he said he knew all about the road, but he would give me no information about it."

Mr. Barber's statements were never given publicity and only a few have known of the road. It did not come out until this week, when Mr. Barber happened to be talking with a number of friends about the North Coast and mentioned something about the mysterious road in the Blue mountains.

Lanky Bob Bursts Into Oratory—Forwards the Ring.

The moving pictures of the fight between Bill Lang and Bob Fitzsimmons were shown for the first time on New Year's night in the stadium, where the fight took place, says the San Francisco Examiner. During the exhibition Fitzsimmons was introduced and delivered the following oration to the big crowd present: "Last boxing day I fought Lang in this ring and I put up the best fight that was in me, but I met a younger and stronger man. I think that Lang deserves every credit for winning. He is a good, game, powerful fighter, and with a little more knowledge of the finer points of boxing he ought to develop into a world's champion. In a way, I became a man in Sydney, and won my first fight here and, encouraged by the support and friendship of you people, I crossed the seas and went to America. No one knows better than you how well I succeeded. I won three titles—middle-weight, light heavyweight and heavyweight championships of the world; and only weighed eleven stone. But my 388 victories are nothing to me compared with the fact that I am among you again with clean hands. (Cheers.) After twenty years I returned to fight for the heavyweight championship of Australia. I have fought my last fight here and shall now retire from the ring for all time. One thing I am pleased about is that I fought my first and last battle in Sydney, so all there is left for me to do now is to get back to New Jersey, America, where I have bought broad acres, and settle down as the proprietor of a physical culture school among the corporations and trusts of New Jersey. The vigorous calling of the blacksmith and the warrior is soon to be changed for the pastoral vocation of the farmer, and instructor in physical culture, and before long, no doubt you will hear that Bob Fitzsimmons' pumpkins and watermelons have won the heavy-weight championship (laughter), and as I sit at home beneath my vine and fig tree, I shall no longer figure on the new brands of uppercuts and solar plexus blows, but, rather, as to whether Plymouth Rocks or Cook's Orpingtons lay the biggest eggs. For over thirty years I have done my best to be the champion of honesty and integrity in athletic contests. Age, eye and even experience must yield to youthful vigor, as I have discovered, and as gracefully as I could, I have fought, and lost my last battle, to a younger, if not a more handsome man." (Loud cheers.)

BISHOP WARNS FLOCK AGAINST DIVORCE EVIL

Rockford, Ill.—Bishop Muldoon in a Lenten pastoral to the priests of the Rockford diocese urged them to give special instructions during Lent about the sacrament of matrimony. He said:

"I would be pleased to have you explain the sacrament of matrimony and the recent marriage legislation. This legislation is very clear to us, and no doubt has been clearly explained by you at other times, but it needs reiteration. The records of the divorce courts for the past 20 years are appalling and require serious attention not only of every priest, but also every loyal, patriotic citizen."

"Although Catholics know the firmly determined position of the church against this social evil, still they are human, and, unconsciously, at times, are injured by the prevailing loose notions. Most appropriately at this sacred season may the priest, speaking with authority, warn against this corroding sin and caution his flock against the worse than pagan ideas prevalent today."

"Therefore, please preach during Lent on matrimony whenever possible, and try to instruct non-Catholics in the principles of the Catholic faith before asking for dispensation."

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the president of the Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up, pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. MAY REGULATE LENGTH OF WOMEN'S SKIRTS

Denver, Colo.—The length of women's skirts for street wear will be regulated by law if the Denver City Council acts favorably on a suggestion received by Mayor Speer in a letter from one of Denver's society leaders. Though the name of the author is withheld, intimation of the plan outlined has caused considerable uneasiness in society circles, where surprise is expressed at this attempt to curtail the dominion of Dame Fashion.

The Mayor's correspondent suggests that an ordinance be passed limiting the length of skirts so that they will not trail in the sidewalks or sweep off car steps as they wearers disembark. The bachelor committee of the Council have under advisement the suggestion, is being overwhelmed with protests by Denver women.

Cottolene Comes from Dixieland!

The source of lard is against it. Lard-cooked food may not cause indigestion and throw your stomach out of kilter, but it will be only a matter of luck if it doesn't.

The source of Cottolene is pleasing—the product is healthful. The oil is extracted from the cotton seed grown in the fields of the Sunny South. It is then refined and rendered odorless and neutral in taste. From Cottonfield to Kitchen—human hands never touch the oil from which Cottolene is made.

Cottolene is an absolutely pure product—of pure origin and ancestry, and will make palatable, digestible, healthful, wholesome food. It is the best frying and shortening medium made to-day. If the best is none too good for you, ask your grocer for Cottolene, and do not let any prejudice stand in the way. The only way to know Cottolene is to test it yourself.

COTTOLENE is Guaranteed Your grocer is hereby authorized to refund your money in case you are not pleased, after having given Cottolene a fair test. DESERTED ESKIMO WIFE AND LITTLE CHILD

Los Angeles, Cal.—Indignant over what they assert is cruel desertion of an Eskimo wife and child by Eli M. Smith, who until Tuesday was in Long Beach, J. V. Geary and Dana Thomas, former Quaker missionaries in Alaska, have come out with a public denouncement.

Dana Thomas, now superintendent and president of the Huntington Park Friends Church, has issued a signed statement telling of Smith's marriage in Kotzebue, Alaska. The missionaries say they wish to protect innocent women from his wiles, because he was recently married to a Washington, D. C., girl.

Geary combined with his duties as a missionary in Kotzebue, Alaska, the position of postmaster. He says that it wrung his heart to see a little Eskimo woman who patiently watched him for more than four years in hope that her white husband would prove true to her. He declares that Smith espoused his far northern bride in legal form before Mrs. Otha Thomas, then a Friend preacher at Kotzebue. They had a white child
