LAFOLLETTE EXPOSES ANOTHER MOCKERY

INVESTIGATION OF HIGH PRICES IS MACHINE MOVE

Wisconsin Senator Declares Senatorial Committee Appointed to Ascertain Cause of High Cost of Living is Composed of Men Who are Slaves to Aldrich—Will Find for Tariff Bill.

Madison, Wis.—"Under the modest name of an 'Investigation of the cost of living,' the Aldrich machine has instituted with elaborate formality a senatorial investigation to prepare political campaign material to prove that the tariff has not advanced prices."

In this striking language Senator La Follette, in last week's issue of La Follette's Weekly Magazine, denounced as a mockery, the proposed investigation to be made by the United States senate of the question: "Why prices are soaring." He analyzes the records of the membership of the committee, which is composed of Mr. Lodge, Chairman, Mr. Gallinger, Mr. McCumber, Mr. Smoot, Mr. Crawford, republicans, and Mr. Simmons and Mr. Clarke (of Arkansas), democrats, and shows that, with few exceptions each member has been a humble, groveling servant of the Aldrich machine.

"The Aldrich-Cannon management has had recourse to measures which are heroic, if not desperate," says Senator La Follette in exposing the method by which the committee is packed. "It has decided to meet the issue—in its own peculiar way. It has put itself on trial, but, to make sure of the outcome, it will conduct the trial itself."

Senator La Follette drags the tariff skeleton from the closet, and, in analyzing the increased cost of living, proclaims: "That the Payne-Aldrich-Cannon tariff revision was a mockery and a betrayal of the party pledges; that the tariff was a revision upward."

Senator La Follette shows the abject servitude of Senators Lodge and Gallinger, and, in speaking of Senator McCumber of North Dakota, says: "He is only in a slightly better position than Aldrich and Lodge and Gallinger to 'investigate' the cause of high prices and to report that the new tariff, most of which he supported faithfully by vote and argument and for all of which, as a member of the Finance Committee, he is in part answerable, is responsible for these high prices, and thereby to condemn his own record."

Senator Smoot of Utah, is held up to scorching ridicule in the following language:

"In the tariff session it was Smoot who wracked his brains by night and strained his voice by day, in the effort to make a good case out of bad figures and to make wobbly, weak-kneed 'arguments' in defense of the tariff bill stand erect on the floor of the senate. Smoot, too, will 'investigate' high prices and their relation to the tariff. He will struggle with the facts and wrestle with the figures! 'But he will prove that the tariff has not raised any prices! He will prove it! He has got to!'"

In discussing the record of Senator Crawford of South Dakota, Senator La Follette shows that, on 52 roll calls he voted against Aldrich, while on 79 he voted with Aldrich. The preponderance of the record is against him.

Similarly, the records of Senator Simmons of North Carolina, and Clarke of Arkansas are discussed as follows: "Democrats on such a committee can only be chiefly ornamental at best. The democrats named are not senators who will be so vigorous in their participation in the 'investigation' as to be an embarrassment to the 'safe' Aldrich majority. Moreover, their findings, if they make a minority report, will be easily disposed of on the ground of political bias."

A Nut for Someone to Crack. Why do people who do not eat pork as meat continue to use it in the form of lard? Lard is just as indigestible as pork. In a recent article on cooking fats, Dr. Paige Emery, the eminent specialist, writes as follows: "The healthful and economical solution of the cooking fat problem is the use of Cottolene. Cottolene is purely a vegetable product, is easily assimilated, and aids digestion. Dietetic experiments have shown conclusively that when a vegetable oil is used in cooking in preference to animal fat, it is more easily assimilated and yields far more nourishment to the body."

Cottolene is sold only in sealed pails, of special design, which keep it sweet and fresh indefinitely.

ASQUITH SNUBS AUTHOR OF 'SERPENT'S TONGUE'

London.—A most awkward contretemps occurred at the big liberal political reception given at Wimborne house just before the political meeting opened. Mrs. Asquith whom William Watson chose to call "the woman with the serpent's tongue" was brought face to face with the poet who thus designated her.

If infuriated glances were daggers, Watson would have fallen pierced by a thousand wounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Churchill-Guest were hosts at the reception, which really was a crush. The invitations, of which there were 200, were inscribed "to meet the prime minister." The function being of a purely political character, the guest list was not revised by the hosts. The premier stood beside the hostess and shook hands with everybody who arrived.

Mrs. Asquith, who was formerly Margot Tennant and once a central figure in a rather aesthetic set, went to the reception early and took a place by her husband and Mrs. Guest. Around them stood a group of celebrated ministers and other prominent liberal politicians. Everybody was very gay, or assumed to be, in the presence of their party supporters.

Mrs. Asquith was all vivacity, beaming on every one presented to her. Suddenly a portly footman announced most distinctly, "Mr. and Mrs. William Watson."

Asquith's wife was turned into a shapely pillar of ice, save that her eyes shot fire. A tense, appalled silence fell on the company. What was about to happen? Mr. and Mrs. Watson shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Guest. Then Watson, taking another step forward, bowed and held out his hand to the premier.

Mr. Asquith's face flushed angrily, and so far from accepting the poet's hand, turned his back on him.

Mrs. Asquith's countenance crimsoned, then turned deadly pale, while she flashed looks of withering fury at the Watsons and turned away. They passed along in the crush and were lost.

The Watsons seemed to imagine that the invitation to meet the prime minister intimated that the verses describing "The Woman With Serpent's Tongue" were forgiven if not forgotten. They appeared astounded when the Asquiths turned their backs on them.

The Watsons left early. Everybody is gossiping about the incident.

BLUE MOUNTAIN RANCHERS ENJOYING HUNTING COYOTES

Dayton, Wash.—Farmers and their wives living in the Blue mountains east of Dayton have introduced a novelty in the line of western sports. One day last week a cavalcade of 20 horsemen participated in a cross country coyote chase. The hunt lasted all day and terminated after a dozen of the "varmints" had been captured. The party was made up of well known young ranchers and their wives—or sweethearts as the case might be—and some of the finest mounts in Columbia county were secured for the chase which commenced at daylight.

A pack of ten hounds and as many shepherd dogs was sent ahead of the horsemen to trail the animals. Once the dogs caught a scent, the hunters pulled in close and when the coyote was overtaken the movement of the dogs, which were directed by the leader of the hunt, added the wise coyotes to such an extent, that they fell easy prey to the expert shots. Hills and valleys were scoured for a radius of ten miles and fences proved no particular obstacle. In the cavalcade were six or eight women who proved themselves expert steeple riders although most of them were unfamiliar with this sport.

A unique method of drawing a coyote from its hole was successfully attempted. A stout wire was placed down the hole and twisted in the animals fur. Then the kicking coyote was drawn to the surface and killed. In the hunt were the Stearn boys, Frank Fletcher, Joe and Chester Ables, Orval Payne and wife and James Waadward, all prominent farmers.

Coyotes have become so prevalent in this part of the country that farmers here have conceived this sport in order to make a pleasure out of disagreeable work.

KANSAS FRUIT MAN HAS HOPES FOR STATE

Topeka, Kans.—Notwithstanding the fruit crop failure in Kansas for the last two or three years, Secretary Wellhouse of the State Horticultural society, says that more farmers are planting orchards than ever before. "Kansas can produce fruit profitably," he said. "It can raise enough not only for home consumption, but can supply considerable to outside markets. Not many years ago we got our apples from Michigan. Now we hardly ever see a Michigan apple. "As the fruit industry is developed along comes the pests. Much talk is heard in Colorado, Washington and Oregon about their great apple orchards. These orchards are young and free from pests. In a few years the pests will reach those states, and then there will not be any better fruit country than is Kansas."

SUDDEN FRIGHT MAKES GIRL GO STONE BLIND

Minneapolis.—As the result of sudden fright from a swiftly closing typewriter desk, Miss Christine Canfield, 21 years old, a stenographer, is totally blind. The ablest medical men in the Twin Cities have failed to restore the young woman's vision. Dr. D. A. Angell, who is now attending Miss Canfield, says the blindness is only temporary and that the young woman's vision will return gradually. The case is thought to be the result of a temporary paralysis of the optic nerve, superinduced by the nervous shock occasioned by the sudden closing of the desk.

CHAMPION EATER OF THE WORLD IS FOUND

Washington.—Take one 10 1-2 pound boiled ham, the skin, fat and all, bone excluded, two gallons of water, one keg of kale weighing 40 pounds when dry and two gallons of beer; pour slowly into the maw of a healthy human being in two hours and forty-five minutes; let the mixture settle until assured of success, and the result will be a gastronomic freak.

That this is a guaranteed recipe was demonstrated here when "Boots" Repetti, a real man, trained in mastication and digestion at the Washington navy yard, made of himself a receptacle for the above mentioned ingredients without even a grunt. Repetti devoured the record-breaking meal in the presence of nearly a hundred reputable witnesses who vouched for the accuracy of the quantity of food and liquids he consumed in less than three hours. He devoured the gigantic repast to prove his claim to the title of champion long distance eater of the east. He still lives.

GOLD AND DIAMONDS DISCOVERED IN LIBERIA

Washington.—Gold and diamonds

have been discovered in Liberia, about 30 miles from the coast, according to a report to this government by Charge d'Affaires George W. Ellis of Monrovia. He says: "The discoverer called at this consulate general with a quantity of the metal which he had obtained near the settlements, together with photographs showing himself and the natives at work. He also had a diamond in the rough, found in the same section."

"The discoverer has been engaged for the past few months in gold washing in Montserado county, about 150 miles from Monrovia. The gold has been recovered from the beds of small streams, although the discoverer has located the metal in the larger streams. In 13 days, at a cost of about $15, he secured $57.60 worth of gold, according to his submitted statement, and with skilled labor and up-to-date appliances the product could be greatly increased."

The recommendation is that there would seem to be just now an opportunity for American capital to enter this phase of the development of Liberia, and that action should not be delayed, as Europeans are pressing hard to get all the mining rights of the republic.
