ONE FUGITIVE IS CAPTURED

Bert Wilson Captures First of Seven Prisoners Who Escaped From Jail Saturday.

TAYLOR PURSUING THREE HEADED FOR MOUNTAINS

Wholesale Jail Delivery Saturday Evening Gives Seven Freedom—Bailey, the Forger, First to Be Retaken—Caught at Umatilla—Three Steel Horses and Make for Mountains—Are Armed With Winchesters—Sheriff and Deputy in Pursuit.

One of the seven prisoners who made the successful sensational daylight break for liberty Saturday afternoon, is again behind the bars, while Sheriff Taylor is in hot pursuit of two who are riding into the mountains. A third man was with these two but had to drop out of the race and abandon his mount because the animal gave out. He is thought to be hiding somewhere in the country south of this city. Not the slightest trace has so far been obtained of the route taken by the other three. Bailey insists that he separated from the others as soon as they escaped from the jail and that he has seen nothing of any of them since. He says he first went north of town, then doubled back south of the city and finally took to the railroad, landing at Umatilla, where he was picked up by Deputy Wilson. He refused to tell who the confederate was who passed in the saw.

Saw Was Passed In. It was understood, however, that Sheriff Taylor is well satisfied in his own mind concerning the identity of the person who made the escape possible and that an arrest will be made as soon as the escaped prisoners are recaptured.

The break had evidently been well planned beforehand and was executed without a single mistake. Remarkable good fortune was with the prisoners at every step.

As it was not considered that any of the eleven prisoners in the jail were desperate characters, they were all given the liberty of the jail corridor during the day. Selecting a time when the deputies were all busy in caring for the Saturday rush of taxpayers two bars were sawed from a window in the jail farthest from the office. This left an opening about a foot square through which the men crawled, one at a time, and dropped to the lawn, ten feet below.

Much Time Consumed. The aperture was small and at least one of the escapes was large and how all seven of them ever managed to crawl through the hole without being seen by anyone on one of the two streets which were in full view, is a mystery. At least 20 minutes or an hour must have been consumed in getting through the window and it is estimated that the last one was through before 6 o'clock.

It was nearly 6 o'clock when Sheriff Taylor entered the jail to lock the men in their cells for the night and found that all his birds had four had flown. One of those remaining was Thomas Lair, with a broken collar bone. Anthony Bloom, aged 65 years; A. C. Smith, who had been arrested the day before and had not been taken into the confidence of the other prisoners and Louis Mottie, the Ukiah boy who is charged with breaking his parole also remained.

Those Who Escaped. Those who escaped were: Wilbur Bailey, the Milton young man, who was arrested for forgery after a chase of two years. He was picked up at Umatilla at an early hour this morning by Deputy Bert Wilson.

O. L. Simpkins, aged 22; height, 5 feet 11 inches; weight, 180; broad round shoulders, brown hair. He was charged with forgery.

James Carter, aged 21; weight 120 pounds; slender; height five feet six or seven inches; dark hair and eyes. Charged with forgery and larceny.

Peter Bloom, aged 27, 5 feet six or seven inches in height; heavy dark hair; charged with larceny from a building.

Cleveland Gould, age 19, 5 feet five inches high, 135 pounds in weight; has one peculiar eye; charged with larceny.

Harry Ray, aged 17, height five feet six or seven inches, weight 150 pounds. Carter and Simpkins are wanted jointly for passing a forged check in this city, while Carter is also wanted for the larceny of money from the till of Elliott's restaurant. Lent is charged with assisting to burglarize the Meacham store and the East End grocery. Bloom is accused of robbing a neighbor's cabin in Coombs canyon while Gould and Ray are the two young men who robbed the Indian camp on the reservation.

All of them would undoubtedly have been indicted by the grand jury, which was convened today, would have entered pleas of guilty and been sentenced to the penitentiary.

Three of the prisoners, believed to be Leo Lent, Peter Bloom and O. L. Simpkins, were seen to pass the Frazier farm on Tutuilla creek a few minutes after the break was made. That night three horses were taken from McKay creek ranchers, Dan Shaw losing two of them. One of them was later abandoned. Two saddles were stolen near Lee's crossing and the two remaining mounted men struck for the headwaters of McKay creek. Sheriff Taylor is in pursuit and will probably have the men within a short time as they will be apprehended if they keep below the snow line and will be easily tracked if they go beyond that line.

Men Are Armed. Lent went from the jail to his home where he secured a revolver and rifle and both the men seen going toward the mountains this morning were armed with 30-30 Winchesters. The second rifle was evidently stolen from some farm house or supplied by the same confederate who assisted them in escaping.

Taylor is also armed and if the two men do not submit to arrest without a fight, a fight will surely ensue.

FINAL STAND OF OCTOPUS

Last Battle of War Between Standard Oil and Department of Justice is On.

DID FINAL HEARING PROMPT JOHN D. TO BENEVOLENCE?

Final Struggle in Big Dissolution Suit Commences Before Supreme Court—Government Alleges Standard Oil is Monopoly in Restraint of Trade—Perhaps Rockefeller Had Utter Motive in Announcing Proposed Gift of His Fortune to Charity.

Washington, March 14.—The final stage in the three year legal struggle between the department of justice and the Standard Oil company was reached today when the argument began before the supreme court. The case was appealed from a decision of the federal circuit court at St. Louis, which ordered the trust dissolved.

John G. Milburn opened the argument for Rockefeller. The court has granted three days for each side. The government contends that the Standard Oil company is a monopoly in restraint of trade.

The argument and submission of the dissolution suit to the supreme court is attracting special attention in view of the recent introduction in the senate of the Gallinger bill providing for "a Rockefeller foundation." The statement is freely made that the "foundation" proposal may have been introduced just at this time for the purpose of creating public sentiment.

The announcement that Rockefeller proposes to donate his enormous fortune to charity and the welfare of the human race, coming at the time of the final hearing of the suit, is believed by many to have more than its apparent significance.

The permit has been secured from the government, the launch has been ordered and will soon be in operation. Dr. Coe has accepted a contract to sell about 10,000 acres of the land under the Umatilla project and will take up this work tomorrow. He has already sold a greater part of the land under the Furnish-Coe project through his extensive eastern system and he expects to dispose of the Hermiston lands as rapidly.

The launch and two automobiles which he will keep at Hermiston will be used by him in showing the tourists the advantages of the country. One of

SENSATIONAL MURDER TRIAL

Two Men and Woman Charged With Killing of Illinois Banker.

DISLOYAL WIFE, ATTENTIVE DOCTOR, JEALOUS HUSBAND

Dr. Wm. A. Miller, Mrs. J. B. Saylor and latter's Father Held for Murder of J. B. Saylor—Trial Opens Today—Defense Conceals Its Hand—Case Attracts Wide Attention—Doctor Was Devoted to Banker's Wife—Mystery Surrounds Killing.

Waukegan, Ill., March 14.—The cases of Dr. William A. Miller, Mrs. J. B. Saylor and John Grundens, indicted for the murder of J. B. Saylor, a banker, at Crescent City, Ill., Sunday, July 11, was called in the Iroquois county court for trial today.

The state will answer ready and it seems probable the defense has agreed to go to trial.

So far the defense has not shown its hand, but the belief is general here that it will be content to allow a jury of Iroquois county citizens to pass on the case.

There has been no murder in Illinois in a quarter of a century which has attracted so much attention as the Saylor murder.

J. B. Saylor was a wealthy banker living at Crescent City, eight miles from here. Lucy Saylor, his wife, the central figure in the tragedy which broke up two homes, went to Crescent City many years ago as the bride of the banker. Her beauty and vivaciousness attracted a large circle of friends.

Story of the Crime. Dr. William A. Miller, a young physician, came to Crescent City from Pennsylvania. He and Mrs. Saylor were thrown much in each other's company. Mrs. Saylor accompanied the physician on riding trips and her husband knew this.

Early this year Miller's friendship with Mrs. Saylor is alleged to have been commented on, and it is said friends of Saylor went to him and advised him for the sake of his daughter, to put a stop to their acquaintance.

Neighbors say there were many harsh words between them, but no open rupture until the evening of July 11. It is stated that early on this evening Saylor and his wife had a prolonged argument which ended by his leaving the house for several hours. When he returned, Dr. Miller, John and Ira Grundens, father and brother of Mrs. Saylor, were at the banker's home. Saylor seated himself in the front yard and at about 11 o'clock, so testimony at the inquest showed, he was called into the house to join in a game of cards.

What actually transpired after he entered that room was not made clear. It was established Saylor was found dead some time later and Dr. Miller admitted he shot him, saying he acted in self-defense.

At the inquest it was alleged that when Saylor opened the door he grabbed an ax from the parlor floor and started toward Doctor Miller. The condition of the room indicated that they fought desperately. There was blood on every chair and walls and pictures were bespattered, and there were two bullet holes found in the walls. Saylor's body was found wedged behind a couch, where witnesses say he fell after receiving the mortal wound.

As near as could be determined by the coroner the shooting occurred between 11 and 12 o'clock and about two hours later the sheriff was notified at his home in Waukegan. He drove to Crescent City at once and placed

LABOR LEADERS DISPUTE POWER

Officials of Local and National Organizations War Over Authority.

WORKMEN REFUSE TO OBEY GENERAL ORDER

Milkmen, Bakery Drivers and Others Who Deliver Necessities of Life Refuse to Quit Work at Order of Central Labor Union—Action May Lead to Serious Conflicts Between Labor Leaders—New Car Men are Arriving.

Philadelphia, Mar. 14.—The general order issued by the central labor union to milkmen, bakery wagon drivers, and others who deliver the necessities of life to quit, was generally disobeyed today, the majority remaining at work. It seems possible that the conflict of authority between the local and national labor leaders may result from the order. In most of the trades the international organizations have ordered the men to remain at work.

Pressure was brought to bear on the brewery workers and their representatives voted to join in the general strike despite the orders of their national officers. Before this action was taken the German trades section of the Central Labor union had voted to expel the brewery workers from membership and to boycott all Philadelphia beer. The brewery workers then held a special meeting and decided to join the strike.

New Carmen Arrive. Two hundred new motormen and conductors reached here yesterday, 129 of whom were from Philadelphia and 59 from Buffalo. About 70 of the recently employed men were discharged by the company in its efforts to weed out the undesirable element of its new employees.

No serious disturbances were reported from any section of the city.

Lieutenant Sir Ernest Shackleton, who last year penetrated the Antarctic circle to within 111 miles of the south pole, today disclaimed the statement recently with reference to the curious charge of robbery. Benedict number of miles a day it was possible to travel over polar seas. "I can see no reason," said Sir Ernest, "why Commander Peary, who had done with him, should not have done what he has claimed."

GRAND JURY HOLDS AN EXTRA SESSION

HAS BEEN EXAMINING WITNESSES ALL DAY

Called Primarily to Relieve Congested Condition of Jail But Recent Delivery Solves Problem—Jury Investigating Gambling.

An extra session of the grand jury was convened at the court house this morning. It was called several days ago, primarily for the purpose of relieving the congested condition of the jail. Since the call was made, however, the prisoners took it upon themselves to relieve the congestion and there no longer seems to be the necessity for the session which existed before.

The jury has been busy examining witnesses, all day, however, and some of the passengers who came in on the Pilot Rock train this afternoon, immediately repaired to the court house so it presumed that they have been subpoenaed as witnesses. Rumors on the street are to the effect that the recent visit of the detective was not fruitless after all and that indictments for illegal liquor selling may be expected.

The witnesses being examined today also indicate that the question of gambling, which recently yielded some revenue to the city, is being looked into by the grand jury.

The members of the jury are James S. Bell, foreman; L. C. Rothrock, J. W. Pinkerton, J. H. Walker, W. S. Mizer, Arthur Hascall, and James Hill.
