FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR
for children; safe, sure. No opiates

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Sugar Water for Hands.
Wash your hands in sugar water; dry them with corn meal night and morning.

Fairy Butter.
Cream one-half a cup of butter and one cup of sugar with one tablespoon boiling water. Beat with an egg beater until foamy.

To Clean Knives.
In order to keep your knives clean and bright take some wood ashes and mix with fine scrapings of a raw Irish potato. Rub this over the blades with a cloth, and after rinsing, dry with a soft flannel.

Oatmeal Bread.
Four cups oatmeal, three cups boiling water; let this cool. Add three-quarters cup of molasses, one-half tablespoon salt, one-half yeast cake in water. Finish with white flour, as you would white bread.

To Label Tin Cans.
For sticking labels to tin, mix dextrine and vinegar to the consistency of suit, then add about 2 ounces of honey to the pint of paste. If too much honey is used the labels will have a greasy appearance and will not dry right.

To Clean Lamp Chimneys.
An excellent cleaner for lamp chimneys is made by fastening to the end of a stick a sponge just large enough, when immersed in water, to fit the chimney. Wipe your chimney inside with this, and after rinsing, dry with a soft piece of linen.

Chocolate Bread Pudding.
Mix three-quarters cup sugar and one and one-half tablespoons cocoa. Add one tablespoon butter, four slices bread. Pour on boiling water till you can beat this to a mush. Add one egg yolk, three quarters tablespoon vanilla. Bake twenty minutes. Frost with the white beaten with two tablespoons powdered sugar.

Peach Ice Cream.
One pint of milk two tablespoonsful of flour, one cup of sugar; cook in double boiler twenty minutes; add two well-beaten eggs and cook five minutes. Cool and add one teaspoon of vanilla extract and half a pint of heavy cream. Cook six peaches with their kernels and the rind and juice of a lemon until tender. Press through a sieve and add to the custard. Freeze and let harden before serving.

Give the Children Sugar.
Children may eat too much sugar and they may also stay too long in their bath tub, or in the creek when they go in swimming, or get tanned in the sun, or chilled by staying too long in the open air; but is that any sound reason why they should be deprived of sweets, sunlight, baths and fresh air, or discouraged from indulging in them?

All that is needed, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine, is a little common sense regulation and judicious supervision, not prohibition, or denunciation.

To Make Sleep Come.
If you can not get asleep try a sponge bath made thus: Into 8 ounces of alcohol put 2 of ammonia and 2 of camphor. Shake thoroughly, and when well mixed add four ounces of sea salt and enough hot water to fill a quart bottle. To apply it, add the Family Doctor, pour a little of the liquid in a shallow dish, moisten the whole body a little at a time by dipping a small sponge in it. Rub on only a very little, then finish with a vigorous rubbing with a coarse crash towel. Get into bed, and we'll insure the quick arrival of "nature's quick restorer, balmy sleep."

Cultivate a Graceful Walk.
Very few girls walk gracefully nowadays, in spite of the craze for physical culture. The most generally noticeable faults are a forward droop of the head, sticking out of the elbows and scraping the feet.

The girl who walks with a forward stoop accentuates all these faults and lays herself open to various diseases as well.

Because, if you slouch forward, you compress the lungs, and prevent proper expansion of the chest. Consequently the lungs are insufficiently supplied with fresh air and the body does not get enough oxygen for the requirements of health.

Melting Lead in Paper.
Here is an interesting little experiment for you to try. Take a small leaden bullet or buckshot and wrap it tightly in a single thickness of tissue paper. Then hold with your fingers the bullet over the flame of a candle, or even over a lighted match—just far away not to burn the paper—and after a few moments you will find that the lead has melted without scorching the paper. It is possible to boil water in a paper sack in the same way, as the paper will not burn so long as it is wet inside. The water is such a good conductor of heat that it keeps the temperature of the paper below the burning point.

New Houses.
The plastering in new houses is being dried by a new apparatus so effectively in three days that exception in favor of the method is being made by the authorities in places having in force the German law forbidding the use of residence of any house, until it has been built six months. The apparatus employed is a cook stove, with a number of small tubes surrounding the fire box, and with supply pipes leading dry air from outside to these pipes. As the tubes become heated it rises and passed along the ceiling and falls. It absorbs and becomes saturated with moisture from the plastering, then sinks, enters the fire-box of the stove and escapes with the coke gases through the chimney. The current of heated dry air not only carries off the dampness rapidly, but furnishes an abundance of carbonic acid to harden the mortar. The effect is exactly the same as that of slow natural drying, and the rooms are made speedily habitable instead of being unsafe to live in for many weeks.

Steak Porcupine.
Take a good thick slice of bottom of round steak, make a dressing, spread on half, turn other half over a skewer into place, now slices of bacon covered over the top and held down in place by tooth picks. Put about a half inch of boiling water in the pan and bake about an hour in rather hot oven.

COSTLY HORSE SHOW.

$50,000 Will Be Spent in Preparing for Equine Exhibition.

London.—Details of the plans for decorating Olympia for the International horse show in 1910 show that the vast hall will be more gorgeous than ever during the fashionable equine carnival next June.

A sum of $50,000 is to be spent, and briefly, Olympia is to be transformed into an old English garden. Overhead there is to be a sky, with its own moon and stars, and a possible glimpse of Hawley's comet!

Round the arena there will be the representation of an old creeper-clad wall, and at the base masses of old fashioned flowers. At intervals will stand clipped box-trees and yews, brought from the nurseries belonging to the show authorities in Holland and Belgium. Horses' heads, birds and dogs have been shaped and modeled from these trees, but the chief work to be shown is a Dutch box-tree, some forty years old, clipped to portray the seated figure of President Kruger.

Flowers in profusion will be everywhere, and the members of the royal family are to sit in a bower of roses. The royal box is a representation of an old garden tea house, with time-stained, jasmine-covered walls and leaded windows.

At the end of the hall, facing the oak doors which are to lead from the model of Lowther castle, Lord Lansdale's seat, with extensive lawns and shrubberies sloping gracefully down to a Grecian temple. Here, in the midst of rhododendron clumps, and in pleasant proximity to a cool fountain the band will play.

Forty feet from the arena, above the balcony, a most ingenious device is to be employed to form a base for the sky cloths which will hide the roof. A substantial circle of ballustrading is to be erected, to support an old garden wall, eight feet high.

Over the wall will clamber jasmine and ivy and mistle; beneath it will grow masses of old English flowers—hollyhocks, delphiniums, larkspurs, lupins and roses, flowering, almonds, laburnums and thorns. Over the wall will be a panorama of hills and trees, and then—the sky, with its special supply of stars and comet for evening performances.

Hidden lights—more than 3000 of them—are to glow in all the gardens at night time and upon these old walls and flowers, and a festive brilliance is to pervade the chief rooms of Lowther Castle.

Olympia will never have been more pleasantly disguised, and the whole of the transformation—owing to the brief interval between this show and the military tournament—must be accomplished in three days.

Stubborn As Mules
are liver and bowels sometimes; seem to balk without cause. Then there's trouble—loss of appetite, indigestion, nervousness, despondency, headache. But such troubles fly before Dr. King's New Life Pills, the world's best stomach and liver remedy. So easy, 25c at Tallman & Co.
