NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

To Rush Coos Bay-Vale Road.

Portland.—That the Harriman interests will rush construction of its proposed road across the state of Oregon from Coos Bay to Vale, by way of Burns, is the latest report in railroad circles on the coast. General Manager J. P. O'Brien being out of the city it is impossible to get his confirmation, but the news emanates from excellent sources, leaving little room for doubt of its authenticity.

Man Is Wholesale Robber.

Tacoma, Wash.—John I. Fitch, an electrician and a native of Tacoma, was arrested Monday morning charged with wholesale house robbing, extending over a period of more than six months and involving property in a large sum. Many homes and offices were looted by him.

Young Fitch has made a partial confession to the police, implicating his father, and the elder Fitch will be arrested as an accomplice. The prisoner is 33 years old.

Former Teacher Sues South Bend.

South Bend, Wash.—Miss Bertha Ransom of Portland, formerly a teacher in the South Bend high school, has brought suit against the city for $14,700 damages for injuries received last January by falling over a plank that had been placed upon the sidewalk to prevent boys from coasting. Miss Ransom's injuries were so serious that she was compelled to give up her school and has been in a Portland hospital for several weeks, besides undergoing a serious operation.

Bank Insolvent Through History.

Portland.—Testimony to strengthen his contention that the Oregon Trust & Savings bank was insolvent throughout its history and was looked upon with suspicion by one in a position to know as far back as 1905 was offered by Deputy District Attorney Fitzgerald in the circuit court Monday morning in the trial of W. H. Moore on the charge of receiving a deposit when he knew the bank was tottering.

By the first ledger ever kept in the bank it was shown that on the day it opened there was only $6329 in the bank.

Irrigation Fight Ended.

Portland.—Federal Judge R. S. Bean Monday handed down an opinion in which he found favor of eastern bondholders and authorized the appointment of a receiver for the Deschutes Irrigation & Power company, which is reclaiming about 100,000 acres of land in Crook county.

The decision brings to an end a legal battle which has been waging for months between Frank Shinn and Louis G. Addison of Columbus, Ohio, on one side and Roscoe Howard, Frederick Stanley, J. Frank Watson and the Merchants Saving & Trust company on the other.

TEAM OF ELKS IN RUNAWAY IN NEW YORK

New York.—Residents of Flatbush, along Rogers avenue, were treated to the spectacle of a runaway team of elk on the streets of Greater New York.

The elk are the property of Robert E. Voll of 2702 Church avenue, who bought them when the park department sold off a number of the animals in the Prospect park zoo. He made a bet with some friends that he would hitch the elk to a pony cart and drive them through the streets. He succeeded in driving them about 200 feet up Rogers avenue, when they bolted, dashed the cart against a telegraph pole, throwing Voll out, and then sprinted down the avenue.

Policeman Slattery of the Flatbush station saw them coming and, after making up his mind that he was not "seeing things," he ran out in the street and managed to stop them. Voll escaped with a few slight cuts and bruises.

BILLION AND A HALF FROM TRANSVAAL MINES

Johannesburg.—Mr. J. W. S. Langemann, presiding at the annual meeting of the chamber of mines said that the gold output showed an improvement of 27,925 oz., valued at $4,840,000. The increase in the Witwaters and at all has been greater, there being a slight setback in the outside districts. In the Witwaters and the increase, as compared with 1908, has been 258,588 oz., valued at $50,040,000.

Analyzing the results he found that approximately 60 per cent had been absorbed in the cost of production, 31 per cent in dividends paid to the shareholders, and against 29 per cent in 1908, while the remaining 9 per cent had been absorbed by the profits tax, interest on loans, and capital expenditure.

The value of the gold produced in the Transvaal from the inception of gold industry 23 years ago was $1,425,500,000.

HEROIC ACTION OF GUIDE SAVES LIFE

Chamounix.—An act of great endurance and heroism by a professional guide has just been reported. Edouard Ravenel and Jules Favret, two guides, were returning on skis after making the ascent of the Aiguille le Blaitiere, (11,550 feet) in the Mont Blanc range, when Favret fell and broke a leg on the glacier, three hours distant from the nearest house in Chamounix. Ravenel knew that he could not return with assistance in less than six or seven hours, during which time his comrade would be frozen to death, as he was unable to move and was suffering greatly from the cold and fracture.

Recently Ravenel had dislocated his shoulder, but in spite of this he decided to carry his comrade down to safety. Favret, who is a big man, told Ravenel to let him die as the feat was impossible and dangerous, but Ravenel placed his friend on his shoulders and started for the valley. Four hours later he staggered into Chamounix with his unconscious burden and a doctor was sent for. Favret will recover. This is the third guide whose life Ravenel has saved.

SHEPHERDS MUST PAY FOR FOREST GRAZING

Washington.—That herders are not to be permitted to graze sheep in California forests in defiance of the regulations of the agricultural department and the forest service, indicates the stand the government will take in regard to the same question in Oregon and Washington.

According to an announcement by the agricultural department the grazing rules are to be enforced to the letter and foresters have been instructed to report all violations and to prosecute promptly.

The announcement was made after the supreme court decision was made upholding Judge Wellborn of the federal circuit court of California, who acquitted three herders charged criminally with grazing sheep in the national forests.

La Grande, Ore.—Two weeks of sunshine ended abruptly Saturday afternoon when a cloudburst in the mountains sent a heavy shower of rocks and a great volume of water down Deal canyon, west of the city and the flood waters are covering a large section of the western and central portions of the residence districts.

Heavy rain started here at noon and the cloudburst, started the flood down towards the city. Business streets are more or less under water and cellars and residence lawns in the path of the overflowed sewer districts are being washed out.

Two young Italians named Mirrell and Molo, employed in a large blacksmith's shop, drew out two long bars of white hot steel from the furnace and made feints of attacking each other. Molo suddenly lunged forward and his friend, taken unawares, was transfixed by the white-hot bar, which burnt through his body. SITUATION IN THESSALY IS GROWING CRITICAL Constantinople, March 21.—A thousand armed peasants assembled in the province of Thessaly in preparation for an organized movement against the Turkish and Mohammedan land owners. The peasants are inflamed because several of their numbers were killed yesterday in clashes with the Greek troops at Nemboglor and Larisha. The situation is critical throughout the province and civil war appears imminent. Several Turkish landlords have been murdered by peasants despite the troops. This may result in an armed invasion by Turks.

PAYS TEN DOLLARS FOR WEARING HAT

New York.—It cost Thomas A. Nosworthy, a broker, $10 to wear his hat about 10 seconds in Justice Davis' part of the supreme court.

The broker had finished giving testimony, when, stepping down from the witness stand, he placed his hat on his head and started to leave the court room.

"Take off your hat," shouted Thomas Sweeney, a court officer, as he started for Nosworthy on the run, and Justice Davis banged with his gavel.

Nosworthy stopped short, looked around in surprise, and then removed his hat.

"You are fined $10 for contempt," exclaimed the Justice.

"To whom do I pay it?" inquired the broker.

"To the court clerk," answered Sweeney.

Nosworthy pulled out a roll of bills and handed a yellow backed $10 note to the clerk.

"Is there anything else?" he asked.

"No, that is all," replied the clerk.

"Good morning," said Nosworthy. Then the broker walked out of the court room hat in hand.
