FACTS FOR FARMERS

Gumption on the Farm.
Now 'tis spring, and weeds are sprouting. Suffer them now and they'll overgrow the garden. Shakespeare. Trade one of the pups for a pig. Roll the meadows and green fields. Beware of planting sprouted potatoes. Plant the garden when the cherry blooms. It is scabby business to plant scabby potatoes. Few farmers harrow quite enough. Harrow, harrow, harrow. He who by the plow would thrive must straighten up and look alive. Dogs can thrive on bones better than a woman can on unkind words. Keep manure near the surface; plow it deep and you lose some of it. Don't plow the ground too wet; get it just right and then rush things. Seek only that which is honorable that thou in thy poverty shouldst die rich. Don't forget to make two sowings of clover, and be sure to use one-half aiskle. Those who charge farmers with responsibility for the high cost of living tell a fib. Do not rush the teams too hard; let them have time to get their shoulders hardened to the work. The farmer who allowed his implements to be sheltered by the sky during the winter will now find himself out. When a man insists upon giving you advice, you can readily get rid of him by offering him a little in return. If there is no place in the shed for the grandstone, get a box at the store that will fit over it, thus keeping it covered from the weather.—April Farm Journal.

To Become a Good Farmer.
The man who wants to become a good farmer must not make the mistake of hiring out to a poor one. Never work for a man who cannot teach you something about the business. The successful farmer does not succeed by sheer luck. He succeeds because he knows how to farm better than his neighbors or because he makes better use of common methods. The man who learns his secrets will add to his own value and be able to earn better wages or succeed when he goes to farming for himself. The hired man who is working for wages alone and has no ambition to become an expert in his business has no sympathy from me. If he has the opportunity to learn the secrets of the successful farmer who employs him and does not do so he will be a failure. The secret of any successful business is information and the man who knows his business from every angle, whether he is a farm hand or a railroad president and then puts ginger and common sense in his work, will win as he deserves.—Fort Worth Citizen-Star.

For the Swine Breeder.
Hogs fed on corn meal and tankage require a great deal of water and this adds to the digestibility of the feed and helps to make gain. A hog will eat almost anything when hungry, but his appetite should be tempted with palatable food if he is to make the greatest possible profit. The fact that hogs require a great deal of water makes feed fed as slop more desirable than dry feed. Southern farmers have learned that feeding cotton seed meal in large quantities is bad business as it often leads to fatalities. Fed in small quantities, however, with corn and alfalfa, it is beneficial. One good way to feed alfalfa during the winter is to chop it into about 4 inch lengths. Soak it in hot water or steam it in a barrel or tank.

Feeding the Calves.
The calves should be well fed, but a lot of calves are fed to death. Four quarts of skim milk a day is enough for a four weeks-old calf. As soon as any sign of bowel trouble shows in the droppings reduce the quantity of milk. Give a calf all the hay and bran it will eat and let it run on grass, but do not overfeed on skim milk. The calf that is reared naturally gets only a small quantity of milk at a time and the wild cow does not give much at any time.

Hints for the Orchardist.
"Plant a tree, Jack. It'll be growing while ye're sleeping."—Bobbie Burns. Promptly gather up and burn all brush and rubbish in the orchard. When spraying do not work with bare hands. They'll be sore if you do. Put on a pair of rubber gloves. Remember when you plow in the orchard that the roots are very near the surface. Three inches is plenty deep enough. Some fruit growers say that it is not a good plan to plow an orchard when the trees are in blossom—better do it before or after. How long will our orchards bear the neglect seen on every hand? We need less of extensive farming and more of intensive and sensible operations. Now, don't wait until the last moment before ordering the berry plants. Give the folks who grow them a chance to fill the order in good shape without being hurried. Better for them and surely better for you. When the leaves begin to grow, the canker-worm may commence to move up on the trunks of the fruit and other trees. Bands of tar or printer's ink, if put on the tree trunks in time will catch many of the pests. As soon as the leaves start on currant or gooseberry bushes, cut out all sickly-looking or non-starting canes and promptly burn the cuttings. Borers are probably within, and in this way they can be kept in check. Get ready to fight the codling moth which causes wormy apples. Next month we'll tell you how. In the meantime, fruit growers should prepare themselves for the campaign by ordering a first class spray pump and the necessary attachments.—April Farm Journal.

A Clear Brain and healthy body are essential for success. Business men, teachers, students, housewives and other workers say Hood's Sarsaparilla gives them appetite and strength, and makes their work seem easy. It overcomes that tired feeling.

The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an atomizer, is an unseekable relief to sufferers from Catarrh. Some of them describe it as a godsend, and no wonder. The thick, foul discharge is dislodged and the patient breathes freely, perhaps for the first time in weeks. Liquid Cream Balm contains all the healing, purifying elements of the solid form, and it never fails to satisfy. Sold by all druggists for 75c, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren street, New York.

The Man Who Does Not Advertise

¶ The business man who does not advertise because it costs money, should stop paying salaries for the same reason.

¶ The business man who does not advertise because he tried it once and failed, should throw away his cigar because his light went out.

¶ The business man who does not advertise because he doesn't know how himself, should stop eating because he can't cook.

¶ The business man who does not advertise because somebody said it did not pay, should not believe the world is round because the ancients said it was flat.
