OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Too Much Water on the Hair.
If your hair is becoming dry and brittle, breaking off and losing color, follow the lead of the many who have abandoned the use of soap and water and taken up the new method of dry shampooing." said Claribel Montague in her lecture on "Beauty." It has been proven beyond question that too frequent wetting and the application of alkaline substances to the hair is a mistake.

Even those who formerly were devoted to shampooing with eggs now use therax and orris root, and they unhesitatingly declare that this dry shampoo makes the hair as bright and fluffy as ever did eggs.

To make the dry shampoo mix four ounces of powdered orris root with four ounces of therax. Sprinkle a tablespoonful of the mixture on the head and brush it well through the hair. Do this once or twice a week if the hair is thin and scanty and you will soon notice a new growth of hair. Nothing will make the hair so beautifully fine and lustrous as this dry shampoo.

Care of Toilet Brush and Comb.
The care of the toilet brush and comb is of the utmost importance in order to preserve their mountings as well as for sanitary reasons.

Celluloid brushes and combs should be washed daily in a pint of cold, soft water mixed with a tablespoonful of harshness solution, which is liable to discolor the wood. In cleaning a soft cloth should be dipped into the mixture, then rubbed over the bristles of the brush and between the teeth of the comb, while the wooden mountings may be polished with sweet oil.

Silver or brass mountings of brushes and combs may be polished with whiting or permanently preserved with lacquer, and tortoise shell may be brightened with a chamomile cloth.

Ivory mounted brushes and combs are most of all difficult to keep in good condition, as they are apt to become yellow unless put away in a dark blue lined box when not in use. They must be kept out of the vicinity of ink or any dark colored acid, as ivory readily absorbs such liquids and the stains cannot be eradicated.

How to Clean White Shoes.
What girl has not at some time gone off to the country and found when she was far away from the base of supplies that she had forgotten to take with her any of the usual whitening preparation for her white canvas shoes?

As nothing is more universally worn in summer nowadays than these same white shoes, and they soil rather easily, the lack of whitening is often an uncomfortable predicament. In a large hotel the boy who polishes the shoes would probably be supplied with it, and sometimes it can be borrowed, but there are times when this useful article cannot be obtained in any way. When this time comes a very good substitute for it can be found in ordinary scouring soap and a stiff nail brush. If the girl who wants to clean her shoes has shoe trees, the best way is to put the shoes on them and scrub hard with the nail brush; but if she has no trees the cleaning can be done on her hand.

Dip the nail brush in warm water and rub it hard on the scouring soap till it is covered with a thick lather, then scrub the shoes, giving special attention to the dirty spots. Wash the soap off with a soft cloth and clean water and if the shoe is not quite clean repeat the process. They can be made to look very fresh and clean, and if cleaned often, so that they never become badly soiled, it will be comparatively easy work, and one will hardly miss the whitening.

Honey for Women.
Mrs. E. G. Beck has won a prize offered by the Massachusetts Society of Beekeepers for the best honey. She has been a bee fancier for 15 years and has found it profitable. She keeps on an average, 50 hives, and is looked upon as one of the foremost experts on bees in the country. Mrs. Everbeck has made a close study of the bee and advises every woman who has the opportunity in a patch of garden to keep a few hives.

French Rolls.
These can be easily made. When baking bread take out dough for making a medium sized loaf of bread. Work a scant half cupful of butter or lard in the dough; also three tablespoonfuls of sugar. Then roll out the dough to a quarter of an inch in thickness and cut with a biscuit cutter. Spread with butter and fold over. Put in a pan an inch apart and let rise until very light. They will become twice the former size. They are fine.

Working and Voting.
An exchange says: "It is said (and can safely be believed) that in New York, 27,000 women support their husbands, and being wage-earners, some one wants to know why these women should not be allowed to vote. Perhaps not one woman in a hundred knows, or cares anything about political affairs, but it would only be a fair deal if these non-supporting men were not permitted to vote. That would be a better arrangement, as, if a man can not provide for his own household, he is a poor piece of material to have the making of the laws for those who have the ability to not only care for themselves, but for these men."

Soft Molasses Cookies.
Two cupfuls molasses, one cupful brown sugar, one cupful lard, one cupful brown sugar, one cupful lard, one cupful sour milk, one teaspoonful soda; stir together and mix stiff as possible; let stand over night; roll out fairly thick, spread with sugar and cut; bake in quick oven. When made according to recipe they are thick, yellow and creamy, fine grained and simply delicious.

SPOKANE MAN DIES BUT DON'T STAY DEAD

Spokane, Wash.—Two minutes after his heart had ceased beating and after life had been pronounced extinct by two physicians, Fred Gotzner, a lumber jack, was brought to life at the Emergency hospital today by administering a heavy hypodermic injection of strychnine.

Stewards I. W. Dure and G. P. Milburn, who were in attendance on the case, were astounded when the man's heart first fluttered, then broke into a steady beat after all hope of life had been abandoned. Gotzner was seen to reel over in a fit directly in front of the police station. Officer Lester and Steward Dure rushed to his side and he was carried to the Emergency hospital. Suddenly Gotzner gave a gasp for breath and straightened out. Dure felt of his pulse, but found none. Steward P. C. Milburn grasped the man's wrist. No sign of life could be perceived, and he was pronounced dead. A companion who had accompanied the dying man, ran out to tell acquaintances of his death.

As a final resort the powerful hypodermic injection of strychnine was administered. The "dead man's" heart fluttered, then it rose from a flutter to a steady beat. Respiration started and his life was saved. His heart was still fully two minutes, according to the statement of the physician.

The strongest and most powerful centralized labor union in Italy is that of the railway men, with 44,961; then come the mechanics and laborers in the building trades with 41,732; printers with 12,500; textile workers, 11,000; government employees 9000; journeymen bakers, 8500.

It is well that most people can't afford to buy automobiles; if everybody could, no other kind of travel would be possible.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, and bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N.
