THE PEOPLES WAREHOUSE--Where it pays to trade

NEWS-OF THE NORTHWEST

Shear 13,000 Sheep. Prosser, Wash.—The Yakima Sheep company has just finished shearing about 13,000 sheep. The clip was made at the company's shearing pens one mile east of this city, and the wool has been stored in the Sprinkle warehouse. The clip amounts to about 125,000 pounds.

Eugene Woman 100 Years Old. Eugene, Ore.—Tuesday was the one hundredth birthday anniversary of "Grandma" Todd, who is an inmate of the Old People's Home of the Christian church in this city. She appropriately celebrated the day by inviting 30 of her intimate friends in for dinner. Mrs. Todd is remarkably active, more so than many people at 60 and 70 years of age.

Sheep War Ends Fatally. Prineville, Ore.—A. F. Randle, a sheepman in the employ of A. F. Jones of this place, was shot and killed by George Estes Tuesday night on the range north of here. Bates was herding his own sheep and had been in conflict with Jones over his sheep range. Three shots were fired by each man. Randle missed Estes each time, but all of Estes' shots took effect on Randle, one breaking his neck.

17-Year-Old Girl Missing. Spokane, Wash.—The police of the whole northwest are likely to be brought into the search for Bodika Redfield, 17 years of age, who is believed to have eloped. She quit work in Graham's paper store the latter part of last week, saying her mother in Orofino, Idaho, was sick and had called her home. The girl has not been seen since. The mother is in Spokane conferring with the police. She says the girl did not come home.

W. U. May Get Endowment. Portland.—Announcement has just been made that R. A. Booth, president of the Booth-Kelly Lumber company of Eugene, Ore., has offered to endow Willamette university with $100,000, adding to his previous endowment of $10,000. Mr. Booth will give the amount, providing an additional $300,000 can be raised. As the university already has an endowment of $100,000, the raising of the sum proposed, together with Mr. Booth's latest gift, will bring the total endowment to half a million.

La Grande Man a Perjuror. La Grande, Ore.—Orlie Chandler, a young man of this city, was late last Tuesday night convicted by a jury on the charge of perjury and will be sentenced in a few days. A year ago Chandler and two others were tried for stealing some land from the Oliver ranch near this city. The other two were found guilty, but Chandler was acquitted because he swore that he had not been out of the city on the night of the robbery. Tuesday evidence was adduced to show that he perjured himself.

Second Trial for Murderers. Baker City, Ore.—The second trial of Jim Layton for the murder of Cal Carnes began in the circuit court here yesterday. Layton was tried and his case went to the jury last Saturday and after staying out until Monday morning the jury disagreed. Three jurors stood for conviction on the charge of murder in the first degree, two for acquittal and others for second degree murder and manslaughter. Layton is being defended by Claude McCulloch. He claims self defense. He shot Carnes in a quarrel at Huntington.

Thus far the state is out $1000 and will be out several hundred more before the second trial ends. Layton has lived here several years.

A Timely Protection. Everyone knows the after effects of a gripple are often more dangerous than the disease. So often it leads to pneumonia, which a weakened heart can't strain and weaken the system that strain and weaken the system yield quickly to the healing and strengthening quantities of Foley's Honey and Tar. ROYAL UTOPIA IS IN DANGER OF COLLAPSE

Milan.—The International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, founded by King Victor Emmanuel, with the cooperation of most foreign governments, is in danger of complete collapse because of international difficulties. The administration of the institute enjoys an annual income of $160,000 a year, over a third of which comes from the private purse of the Italian monarch, who also erected as a gift the magnificent palace in the Borghese Park, where the institute has its headquarters. The grandiose scheme was originally suggested to the young king by an enthusiastic American sociologist, and was from the very beginning generally regarded as more or less Utopian. The admission of the idea given by so many other nations was in the main a mark of respect toward its august initiator. The creation of permanent delegates has resulted in the estab-

HAUNTING SPECTRE IS WALKING AGAIN

YELLOW PERIL GHOST STALKS FROM CLOSET

Perpetual Bugaboo Is Hauled From Temporary Oblivion and Turned Loose Upon the Timid People Again.

Washington.—Once more the lowering yellow war cloud glooms the country. Once more the threatening skeletons of our national helplessness are dragged forth from their dusty closets and furnished up to be placed before the trembling public. Once more the tales of 500,000 little yellow men dumped onto our western coast to savage and destroy are told in tones of apprehension and dismay. War, bloody war, with the dissolution of the United States at the end of it, the entire country impoverished, and the now free American citizen ground beneath the yellow heel of the little men from the east, is again foretold with the grave wagging of heads and much bewailing the disappearance of the "good old American spirit."

"Absolutely defenseless." "at the mercy of the invader," "our unprotected coasts," "our merchant marine—the minus quantity," and all the old stock phrases of the patriotic prophet of the dire disaster of the nation are again in evidence. Up and down the corridors in congress, in the ante-room at the white house, in hotel lobbies, along the spacious streets of the capital, and most of all in the newspapers are the words of warning to be found.

Once more appears the "Japanese plans for invading the Pacific coast," found by the ubiquitous "secret service agent of a foreign government," who pursues his Machiavellian vocation from capital to capital. Half of the mikado's navy is to remain at home to guard the "British of the east," and the other half conveying a fleet of transports is to dump half a million little yellow men "at a point of vantage on the Pacific coast," and from thence the rich and prosperous west is to be overrun.

Again we are told that the American navy is an antiquated tea service; that the navy personnel is too small, and badly officered; that the American army is a "tin soldier organization" offered by "mossbacks."

And—horror of horrors—it is now discovered that the American financiers hold millions of dollars worth of Japanese bonds, and that the gold those bonds took from America—real American gold—is to be used to finance a war against America.

But pause—the worst is yet to come—we have no modern battle-ships. There—the secret is out. We need a few billion dollars worth of floating iron and steel. The danger of invasion is immediate—therefore let us lay the keels of a couple of Dreadnoughts along the Atlantic coast in the shipyards, and scarce the courageous enemy away.

A few slow-going plodders ask themselves—what is all the fuss about? One answer is: Congress is considering a recommendation for two brand new Dreadnoughts, and it is a matter of that history that every time congress faces an appropriation for augmenting the navy, there is the same old war scare with the same old horrors, and the same old warnings bob up more or less serenely. The president has asked for two big battleships, but he is not pressing the matter. Secretary of the Navy Meyer endorsed the recommendation. But he is not begging congress for the ships. Who is kicking up all the fuss? Shush!—whisper—Maybe the ship-builders need the money.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR HONORS BRAVE LAD

Vienna.—The courageous deed of Seymour Donahay, a fourteen-year-old American, who is a student at the High school in Vienna, has caused a sensation.

Donahay's father, a rich landowner of Long Island, is seeking a divorce and wanted the boy to be abroad while the divorce suit was pending. Seymour went to the Danube last week with some comrades to take a ride in a boat. While standing on the shore two of his companions jumped in the boat. The current immediately caught the boat and overturned it, precipitating both boys in the icy water.

Neither boy could swim and Donahay threw off his coat, plunged in and brought one boy to the shore. He plunged in again and rescued the second, who was already unconscious.

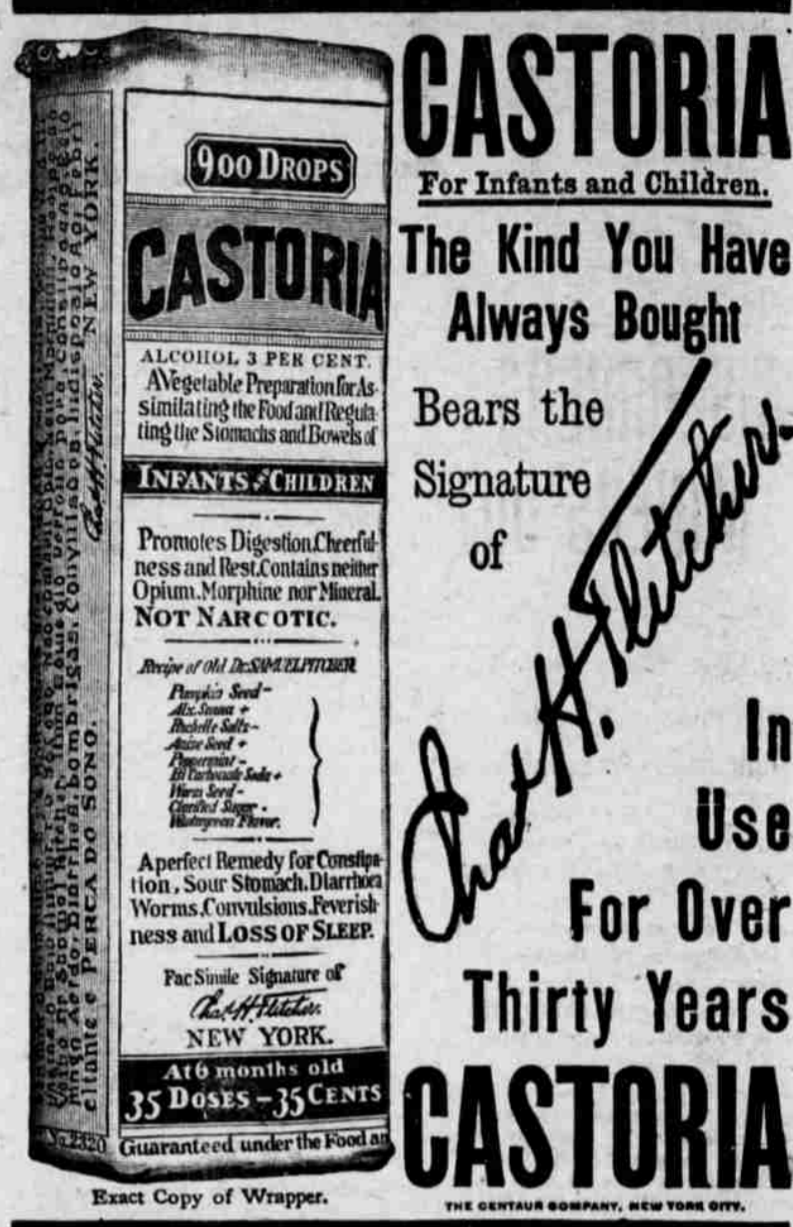

As a reward for his bravery the boy has received a gold medal from the emperor. The Vienna newspapers commenting on Donahay's bravery, declare that no Viennese boy would have dared to have risked his life twice as did this American youngster.

WON'T SELL ROYALTY CARS.

Austrian Emperor and Shah of Persia Refused Autos. Paris.—This week both the emperor of Austria and the shah of Persia tried to purchase touring cars of an American manufacturer, but were politely refused as customers. Royal patronage and American business methods do not agree, as the scores of court officials—who demanded claims left no profit but the glory of selling. Royalty pays full prices, but the courtiers intercept the money.

The birds are ahead yet; they never have to hand out any rain checks.

shipment of a sort of third diplomatic corps in Rome, after those of the Quirinal and Vatican. These are engaged in incessant quarreling, and the heads of the Belgian and American delegations have consequently resigned.

Although it is alleged that the French and Germans work well together, the British representatives are accused of striving to maintain a state of splendid isolation. A considerable part of the total income is eaten up in disproportionate salaries, among whom the Italians complain that they are very inadequately represented, while the vital work of the institute, as regards its daily information about ruling agricultural prices in diverse parts of both hemispheres, is actually being obtained through epistolary correspondence to avoid telegraphic expense.

FATHER 80-MOTHER 76

The aged father and mother of a prominent Boston lawyer safely carried through the last two winters by Vinol. The son says: "My father and mother owe their present strength and good health to Vinol. During the last two trying winters neither of them had a cold, and were able to walk farther and do more than for years. I think Vinol is perfectly wonderful. It certainly is the greatest blood-making, strengthening tonic for old people I ever heard of."

We want every feeble old person in this town to try Vinol. We will return their money without question if it does not accomplish all we claim for it.
