

DISCRIMINATION WINS !!!

In every walk in life discrimination between the true and the false wins and enjoys success. In questions of form, of style and of values, whether financial, commercial or medicinal, the judgement of the men and women who select and appreciate and utilize the true and genuine product, proves most profitable and most satisfactory to themselves and to all who follow them.

Therefore, in connection with so important a subject as the physical well-being of the people, the most eminent physicians insist on full information as to the wholesome nature and truly beneficial character of the component parts of the remedies used and prescribed by them, and the wise manufacturer not only supplies them with the knowledge desired, but also combines for them in proper proportions the very substances most approved by them and omits every objectionable substance. The world-wide acceptance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna by physicians and the well-informed of the world, as the best of family laxatives, is due to the universal satisfaction which it has given for more than a quarter of a century and also to the fact that it is a remedy of known quality and known component parts and to the further fact that the California Fig Syrup Co. presents it to the world simply as the ideal strengthening personal laxative to cleanse and sweeten the system gently, yet effectually, and to dispel colds and headaches and to assist in overcoming constipation. To get its beneficial effects—always buy the original and genuine, for sale by all leading druggists. The full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always plainly printed on the front of every package.

THE "RED MILL" HAS A RECORD BREAKING SHOW

The scenes of Martin & Emery Co.'s production of the musical play, "The Red Mill," in which those two clever comedians, Swor and Woods, take the leading roles, are laid in Holland. It is believed that this is the first play ever presented in America devoted exclusively to the portrayal of Dutch character and location. The quaint atmosphere of the country of dykes, windmills and wooden shoes is said to have been capably caught by the author, Henry Blossom, and tunefully portrayed by the composer, Victor Herbert.

"The Red Mill" is in two acts. The first depicts a square in the town of Katwyk-an-Zee, a picturesque place on the North sea. The picture is said to be absolutely correct and a duplication of an actual scene. In the background is the great, practical red windmill, from which the play takes its name, with its slowly sweeping sails and at one side is a funny little dutch inn, which has an important bearing on the story. The second scene shows a Delft blue interior representing the house of the burgomaster. Both these settings are typical of the artistic distinction that characterizes all the Martin & Emery Co.'s productions.

The plot revolves around two stranded Americans, played by Swor and Woods. They are unable for some time to escape from the wind-mill region because they can't pay their board bill. In an effort to evade it, which calls for a sensational sortie from a gabled window, they are captured by the burgomaster.

A trial package will be sent FREE to any mother who will address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

and put to work, one as a waiter and the other as an interpreter. The burgomaster's daughter has a love affair with a young sailor, and when her father finds out about it he imprisons her in the old red mill, which has the reputation of being haunted. How the two Americans rescue her from the mill is a spectacular development of the first act. In the second act the two Americans, in their efforts to flee hard luck and Holland have to resort to various disguises, the one having the most important bearing on the story being a wonderfully clever representation of Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson. In these characters they finally bring about a happy ending to the story and reap pecuniary reward for both and the hand of a charming damsel named Tina, for one.

"The Red Mill" has been the most pronounced hit that has been made in musical comedy in the last quarter of a century. Its engagement here will be on Monday, May 2, for one performance only, at the Oregon theatre.

"COUSIN KATE."

A Play That Has Stood The Test of Time.

The strongest play that Hubert Henry Davis, one of the heavyweights in the world of literature, ever wrote was "Cousin Kate," which he wrote especially for Ethel Barrymore, and which aided her greatly in making the tremendous hit she did in London and New York.

In fact, there is more good material in one act of "Cousin Kate" than in a great many of the later successes combined. It is an author's finest achievement in dialogue, characterization, repartee, and in development.

The author has realized that ideas as well as emotions, have value, and has also introduced a vein of comedy that runs the gamut, together with chances for heavy emotion and noble self-sacrifice. He has not overlooked a single point, and the play is a constant delight.

But even "Cousin Kate" had not proven itself, the appearance of Jeanne Russell in the title role would insure its value when presented at the Oregon theatre on next Sunday, May 1.

Miss Russell is one of the most talented young leading women, a close personal and professional friend of Ethel Barrymore, and a finished artist of the first magnitude. She is surrounded by a company of merit and ability. She seems to have the peculiar knack or tact for absorbing the fine points of the many, moulding them into a symmetrical consummation, to present to the public—an ensemble—a gem in a perfect setting.

Franklin Model G

is good for all kinds of work that you want to put it to. It is swift, strong and wonderfully able, and like all Franklins it is always ready.

For business or pleasure it is the handiest vehicle imaginable and has the comfort peculiar only to the Franklin.

Model G is as refined and modish as the larger Franklin models. It has an elegance of design and perfection of detail found only in automobiles of much higher price.

It is of the same mechanical design and of the same material as all other Franklin models, only smaller—a size and price within moderate means.

You can tour in Model G and put it to service which will enthuse you with its wonderful ability.

It has the only cooling system which requires absolutely no attention and will not overheat or freeze.

Model G is equipped with the Bosch high-tension magneto, selective transmission, large wheels and large tires. The tires are larger and stronger than used on other makes of automobiles selling at a much higher price. So all the way through Model G has the best and is not at all in the class of the cheap automobile.

There is no other medium size automobile of this high-grade type.

Franklin Model G is built in three different styles—touring car, runabout and with surrey-type body.
