X-RAY TO MEASURE HUMAN AFFECTIONS

NEW MACHINE TESTS THE QUALITY OF LOVE Will Prevent Any Deception Between Lovers—Also Registers Personal Magnetism—Is God-send to Trusting Maidens.

Romance has every obstacle put in its way these days, says an exchange. We see nothing through a rosy haze and leave nothing to imagination. Science, with crucible and testing machines of all kinds, has even trespassed into the very innermost recesses of the soul and just as we can now peep into our internal economy by means of the X-rays, so can we gauge the depth of human affections with the latest mechanical marvel. For some years past scientists have sought to achieve this uncomforable purpose. From time to time it has been stated that means had been discovered for testing the quality, to say, of love. But at last an invention has been discovered which is said to practically put an end to all deception between lovers, friends and relatives. This mechanical Paul Pry goes even further. It will register the amount of personal magnetism which one person exercises over another, and also discover the amount of resistance will a man or woman possess. Naturally such a machine has its value, but at best it would be an unanny thing to have in the house, and that love-making is likely to be revolutionized by its invention is surely not to be urged in its favor.

From the beginning of time men have sworn eternal love, and maidens have believed them, and been deceived; women, too, have played fast and loony with hearts for a good many centuries, and by mere protestations and careful acting many a fortune has been won from hoodwinked relatives and trusting friends. Things, as we all know, are not always what they seem, by any means, yet, on the whole, generation after generation has been satisfied. Maidens have continued to believe in lovers' vows, men have trusted women, so-called friendships have flourished, and relatives have been duped. But all this sort of thing will have to come to an end if the phthymograph comes into use. One will be able to tell just how much Jack and Jill love each other, whether Stiggins' apparent devotion to the rich relict of his late uncle is of sterling quality, whether the relations between the captain and the lady are purely platonic, and whether A is a true friend as she professes to be, or B is really under the influence of C.
It is not only love making that will be revolutionized by the "phthymograph." If it comes into use, playwrights and novelists will have to adopt new methods. Lawyers and clergymen will find their work very different, matchmaking mothers will have to go warily, and the plausible sundered and the artful mix will have to use wholly different tactics from those which they have adopted throughout the centuries. And without ones does not fancy we shall be much better off. You can not make people moral by act of parliament, nor will a scientific instrument save the credulous and the easily flattered from being deceived. Human nature will have its way, let the scientists plan ever so wisely.

PENDLETON MAKES 8 POINTS AT WHITMAN

ELLENSBURG HIGH WINS MEET BY SINGLE POINT
Interscholastic Track Meet—Closest Contest of Its Kind in History of Inland Empire—Baker City Second—Boysen Takes Mile and Kimball Second in 220 Hurdles.

By a single point, the Ellensburg high school won the big inland empire interscholastic track and field meet at Walla Walla yesterday. The winning score was 19 points, while Baker City was a very close second with 18 points. Pendleton finished in tenth place with eight points.

Cooke of Ellensburg was the star of the meet and was presented with the cup offered for the greatest number of individual points. He made all but one of the 19 points scored for his school, the winning score having been achieved by the relay team which won third place in the half mile race. Pendleton's eight points were made by Boysen, who took first place in the mile and by Kimball who was a close second to Shaw of Lewiston in the 220-yard hurdles.

Never in the history of the big meet has there been such a close contest. Never has the meet been won by such a low score or by so close a margin for never before has such a large number of schools made such a strong showing. Four of the contesting teams tied for sixth place with 10 points each, while the nine highest scores range from 19 to 3.

While the time made in all the events was good the only record to go was that of the high jump when Coe of Spokane lowered his own former Pacific coast record and cleared the bar at 5 feet, ten inches.

The following is the summary of the meet.

Pearson Wins in Declamation.
First place in the declamation contest which was held for the fifteen schools Thursday evening in the chapter room was given by the judges to Loren Dumas, a member of the fourth year class at Pearson's academy, while second and third places were given to Gordon Davis of Spokane and to Grace Phillips of Prosser, respectively. Dumas has for several years been prominent in the academy as an orator and it was strongly hoped by the local instructors that he would succeed in winning a place. He has won the local contest for two years in succession.

SOCIETY LADIES AS "FANS."

Denver Post.—Society is thinking seriously of attending ball games this season and today there is a good representation of smart folks at the ground displaying vast ignorance and much enthusiasm over the old, old game. They cheer because the rest do, and they really become inculturated with the wild spirit of the game, just from seeing enthusiastic plays they know nothing of. Many a beau is proving his faithfulness by trying to tell his best beloved all the rules and plays of baseball in this one afternoon. But every enthusiast is so cheerfully happy over the arrival of the opening game of the season that he doesn't mind explaining a few points. The language of the fans will be the thing most difficult for the society women to endure, and when the end of the season comes and they will have trumped up names of their own to call the offending umpires, it will be interesting to witness their demonstrations.
