The Pastime.
Has a good program for Tuesday's change. One of the kind worth seeing.
"Davy Crockett" Selig. 1000 feet. A moving picture feature. Is there a boy of girl in town who has not heard of Davy Crockett and cannot repeat his motto: "Be sure you're right, then go ahead." The story starts with his meeting with Mary, who has another suitor more favored by the parents. Scene 1—The barn dance. Scene 2—Mary and Davy on the way home. Attacked by wolves. Scene 3—Rescued and return home. Scene 4—Davy arrives at Mary's home just as the nuptial services are ready, in which Mary is to wed her mother's choice. Scene 5—Her escape on horseback, emulating Lockinvar's ride, closing one of the strongest dramatic pictures of the year.
"Fighting the Iroquois in Canada." 1000 feet. A true story of an incident of the war between early French settlers in Canada and the Iroquois Indians. A spectacular and stirring story. "Run, Mademoiselle, run! Here comes the Iroquois!" cried Mons. Lavolette to Madeleine Jarret de Vercheres on the morning of October 22, 1692, as the treacherous Iroquois were about to attack the block house twenty miles below Montreal.
"The Cowboy's Sweetheart." Comedy drama. 1000 feet. Another interesting film.
"Through the Tunnel." Comedy.
Bonita Is Famous Beauty.
Bonita, the famous beauty and star of the big musical comedy, "Wine, Women and Song," which will be presented at the Oregon theater Tuesday, May 10. During the long run of four hundred nights at the Circle theater, New York city, introduced some new vogue in fashions. During the actors' fund fair held at the Metropolitan opera house, a voting contest was put on for the most beautiful actress on the American stage—Bonita won the prize, that of a diamond star, valued at $5000. Bonita Bonita, besides being the handsomest woman on the stage, is without a doubt the best dresser. She has ten Parisian gowns, all made by Edelle, of Paris, her latest is the much talked of Chantecler gown, the only one in this country, and worn by Bonita at every performance. "Wine, Women and Song" has more novelties and features than any other musical comedy on the road, and will be presented here with the original New York city cast and production. A company of fifty people are in Bonita's support.
For rent—A suit of pleasant housekeeping rooms. 502 Water street.
Baker cab stand, Hotel St. George. Phone Main 12.

WHAT OUT-OF-DOORS MEANS.

George Wharton James in Life and Health: Have you really ever thought before of the vastness and wonder and marvel of it all—of what God's out-of-doors really means, that it was and is totally independent of man or his will? It is here regardless of man, can not be affected by man and would remain here, doubtless, if not a soul were left in the whole earth to witness it.
Browning is said to have regarded the world of nature as a mere stage for the showing off of man, the background that sets him forth. As a rule, I find all of Browning's thoughts very helpful to me, but this one I can only partially accept. Nature's charms and glories are totally independent of man, for they are dependent solely upon God; they are reflections of his mind, even as man is a reflection of the divine mind. And man can not afford to look down or look carelessly or indifferently upon anything that reveals God to him.

Odd French English.

A correspondent has been studying English pronunciation in a French dictionary (Pierre Larousse, 1890) and picks out a few examples to show how much effort is necessary for a Frenchman to acquire a true articulation of English. They are all taken from a surprisingly long list of English phrases current in France. "Broken down" (as applied to a race horse) is "bro-k'n-daoun." "Dead heat" is rendered as "did-hith," which is ingenious, but hardly correct. "At-half" is not a bad attempt for "high life," although the aspirate is missing. "Self government" looks an even more imposing political ideal as "self gheuvernement," and the word "shocking" is quite applicable when rendered "chok-inn-que." The opening words of Hamlet's famous soliloquy have a decidedly foreign look. "Tou bi or nott tou bi, that is thl koness-tcheunn."—Manchester Guardian.
