

THE NEW KING AND QUEEN OF ENGLAND

During the 1909 trip abroad made by his father, King George, then Prince of Wales, had to take on his shoulders some of the kingly duties. The result startled England.

The new king previously had been best known for the things he didn't do. Even the most loyal supporters of the royal family did not take him seriously. Good-hearted, quiet, reserved, unenergetic, perhaps a little negative—this was the general estimate.

But when Prince George took the tiller, he forced his critics to admit they had underestimated him. He showed evidences of careful study of European and colonial conditions. He was widely read on every subject. He made speeches that were clear, straightforward, illuminating, forceful. He showed himself one of the best informed men in England on naval affairs.

Previously an extraordinary ignorance prevailed, even in England about the future ruler. He wasn't the striking, showy personality that his father was. He didn't set styles for the world. He was not a gallant. He avoided the limelight.

It is apparent, however, that King George hasn't been wasting his 45 years.

The prince came into the world a "younger son." Death in 1892 made him heir to the British throne by carrying off his brother, the Duke of Clarence, who was 19 months his senior.

Prince George, then 27, succeeded his brother in the affections of the popular Princess May of Teck, as well as in the line of succession. Just a month before the Duke of Clarence was to marry the Princess May an attack of influenza carried him off. The marriage of Prince George and the princess was at the wish of Queen Victoria.

The new king of England was known as the Sailor Prince. He went to sea while still a young boy, and has gone through every grade of the naval service. He has cruised around the world, and made a long trip in visiting all the British colonies in 1901.

Queen May, whose full name is Victoria Mary, was destined for a throne from her birth. She was born in the royal palace of Kensington on May 26, 1867. She is the mother of six children.

The new king and queen are very devoted and are seen everywhere together. Queen May is pretty, a great lover of her home, and is thoroughly English in her thinking and tastes. She knows no other language.

The only cause for difference between the new rulers is King George says his wife gives away every cent she has. She has started a nurses' home, a home for cripples, supports scholarships in schools for girls, and has two secretaries to look after her general charities.

Queen May's favorite color is pink, her most treasured flower the lily. She has many feminine fads, including one for a collection of book plates. She plays tennis and drives some, but prefers to walk when it is possible. Prince Eddie, new prince of Wales, is 15 now, and is studying at the Royal Naval college Osborn, Isle of Wight. He goes through the same studies as the rest of the pupils, works in the shops and the foundry, and likes it. With a strong inherited taste for the navy, he will probably go into the ranks of the famous Gordon Highlanders.

BUILD ROADWAY TO JOSEPHINE'S CAVES

Grants Pass, Ore.—To make more pleasant the trip to the caves this summer the great limestone labyrinths of Grayback mountain, known as "Oregon's Marble Halls," will be put in shape to receive visitors at an early date. These caves are said to be the largest marble halls in the world, and every year are visited by tourists from all sections of the United States. Formerly the caves were controlled by private individuals, but are now within the confines of the Siskiyou forest reserve, and much the same as a national park. They will be protected and cared for by rangers of the forest service. In fact, one of the main camps of the rangers is near the entrance to the labyrinths.

Thousands of people would visit the caves but for the hard journey. Located 55 miles south of Grants Pass and with the last 22 miles of the distance covered only by a narrow, rough and tortuous mountain trail, the trip to the marble halls is anything but pleasant, and can only be made by the aid of pack animals. The government, through its appropriations for such purposes, will construct a road to the caves from the main highway at Williams valley, and will provide suitable shelter at the caves. Being situated in the heart of the forest and well up on the Siskiyou, the entrance to the caves is an ideal spot for camping, with an abundance of big game close at hand. "Oregon's Marble Halls" with their endless caverns of white limestone, will no doubt be visited by a far greater number of people this summer than ever before. In conjunction with the forest service officials, the Grants Pass Commercial club is giving its assistance toward popularizing the wonderful caves and making them easier of access.

RICHLAND

"ON THE COLUMBIA"

That Famous Gravity Irrigated Fruit District That Has Become So Popular Among Purchasers Seeking Rich, Well Located Apple Land

Rely on Your Own Judgment

Come with us to Richland, in the Columbia river valley, without any obligation on your part, and see for yourself the opportunities embraced here for the fruitgrower to make big money. Richland has the most up-to-date gravity irrigation system in the northwest. Instead of forcing the water through pipes at a great expense it flows by gravity from the Columbia river into a large cemented irrigation ditch, from which it is carried by laterals to each individual tract.

Everything Grows at Richland such as apples, cherries, strawberries, peaches, melons, pears, plums, grapes, alfalfa, potatoes, cabbage, corn, truck, etc., and finds a ready market because of the excellent boat and railroad transportation facilities. Richland is midway between four great markets—Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, and Portland—and is earlier by four weeks than other Washington fruit districts.

Five acres of this rich volcanic ash soil when planted to high-grade commercial apples will keep you and your family, and 10 acres means a fortune. Full bearing orchards along the Columbia river are netting their owners from $1000 to $2000 an acre each year and the land is valued at $1500 to $2000 an acre.

You can buy similar if not better land at Richland now for the low price of $150 per acre and upward on long-time payments. We know you will want some of this rich, productive fruit land when you once see it. Just come to our office in the East Oregonian building, and we will tell you some interesting facts concerning this rich fruit acreage. The coupon, properly filled out and mailed to us, will bring our illustrated booklet. Clip it out today.

Gentlemen: Please send me your illustrated booklet which tells all about Richland and shows homes of others who now live there.

Combined Harvester vs. Stationary Harvester

The following figures will show you why the progressive farmer who uses the HOLT COMBINED HARVESTER succeeds and is able to buy his neighbor's land.

Two farmers, Mr. Brown and Mr. Jones each have 800 acres of grain to harvest. Neither one have their own outfit and each must either buy an outfit complete or hire the work done.

Mr. Brown hires a stationary outfit to head and thresh his grain, under the following terms:

Heading 800 acres, at $2.00 per acre	$1,600
Threshing 800 acres, 30 bu. grain, at 7c per bu.	1,680
Waste (from header and thresher in field) 3 bu per acre at 75c per bu	1,800

Brown's total expense $5,080

Mr. Jones buys a HOLT COMBINED HARVESTER and his complete equipment costs him

Hires 26 horses to operate his machine, at 75c per day per animal, for 25 days	492
Labor, 5 men 25 days at $3.00 per day	375
Board of 5 men 25 days	63

Jones' total expense $2,940

Subtracting Jones' expense bill from that of Brown show us that Mr. Jones has a new combined harvester and $2,140 in money more than Mr. Brown from the same acreage in one harvest, besides Jones will have his harvester the next year assuring another saving of $2,000 on his next year's crop.

Figures will not lie. Can you show us any good reason why you should not own your own harvester?

If you want to buy a HOLT COMBINED HARVESTER for June shipment, see

E. L. Smith, Pendleton, Ore. A complete line of extras always on hand.
