Arsenic.

Arsenic is mined in Japan, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Germany, England and, within a limited area, in the United States. Its uses are many. As a poison it has been known from very early times. The peasant women of Austria consume large quantities of it, having faith in its virtues as a beautifier, and the men of the same region are addicted to its use in the mistaken belief that it increases their bodily strength and endurance.

WALL SPOT MAKES SLEEP.

Some months ago a friend informed me that he was a great sufferer from sleeplessness. He had experi- from, is in many cases nothing more mented with all manner of remedies -baths, drugs, exercise, dieting-but could find no relief.

"How about the 'spot on the wall' cure?" I asked him. "I haven't heard of that, What is

"It's very simple," I told him, "yet very efficacious. I presume that some light from the street lamp or the moon usually gets into your bedroom? Well, where it strikes the wall you will be pretty sure to find spots that seem to stand out vividly from the dark background. Select one of these patches of brightness, one preferably not much larger than a silver dollar. Settle down comfortably in such a way that it will be within easy range of your vision without straining to see it. Then gaze at it steadily.

"Do not, however, try to stare it out of countenance, so to speak: Instead let the muscles of your eyes relax until the spot appears to have a confused outline. At the same time, if possible, thing of nothing but the one idea-'I am going to sleep!'

"Before long your eyes will begin to feel tired, and they will gradually close. Open them, and once more gaze at the spot on the wall. Again they will close. Again open them. Presently you will find it impossible to open them, and the next instant you will be asleep." Recently I again met him, and found him full of enthusiasm. "That was a splendid scheme," said he. "I sleep like a top nowadaysme understand why that should have

WHAT'S IN M'CLURE'S.

"How Taft Views His Own Administration-An Interview With the President" by George Kibbe Turner is only one of a number of features of unusual importance in the June number of McClure's Magazine. Senator Platt begins his autobiograpy by telling the inside story of the two nominations of Roosevelt; Asher C. Hinds, parliamentary clerk of the house, explans the tremenous power of speaker and when and why it was given him; John M. Gitterman writes about "The Cruelty of Our Courts;" M. Paoli gives his reminiscences of the King and Queen of Italy: and Theodore Schlemann, professor of history in the University of Berlin and a friend of the Kaiser, has a paper on the strained relations between Germany and England. The fiction includes "The Blue Sequin," another of the John Thorndyke detective stories; "Neighbors," by Octavia Rob-erts; "A Text-Book Soldier," by Donal Hamilton Haines;" "The Griswold Divorce Case," by Frederick Taber Cooper, and "Justice While You Wait," by Owen Oliver.
