WORK STARTED ON FURNISH-COE DAM

FULL CREW WILL BE WORKING BY JUNE

Big Structure for Storage of Flood Waters With Which to Reclaim Land Now Under Way—Men in Charge Are Arriving.

Work on the big Furnish-Coe dam at Coe station has been started by the Eschbach-Bruce Co. of North Yakima, and by the first of the month a full crew of men and machinery will be engaged in erecting the fifty foot high obstruction which is to store up the flood waters of winter for the reclamation of the land under the Furnish-Coe project. The dam is to be completed by November 1.

W. J. McEachern of Seattle, who is to be employed in the construction company's Coe office, arrived yesterday and went to the site of the dam this morning to superintend the unloading of cement and other work now in progress. He expects to return to Pendleton this evening. Alex Bruce, who is to be superintendent of the construction work on the dam arrived at noon and has been in conference with W. J. Furnish since that time.

According to Mr. McEachern, most of the work to be done on the dam

BREAKS MOTHER'S HEART; SHE GETS ONLY $5

New York.—I give and bequeath unto Edith Alice Ogilby Titmouse Druse the sum of $5 with the advice that she purchase some reliable authority on the sin and folly of ingratitude.

This clause is contained in the will of Mrs. Louise Ogilby Warner, who died on April 18 last at No. 43 Fifth avenue. The testament was filed in the surrogate's office and gives to Clarence Maud Ogilby, the other daughter of the testatrix, the residue of the estate valued at above $1000.

"In the event of the death before me of Edith Alice Ogilby Titmouse Druse, I give and bequeath the said $5 to the issue, if any, of her marriage," the will continues.

"I make this provision for reasons well known to Edith Alice Ogilby Titmouse Druse and myself because of her lies, deceit and cruel behavior that broke my heart."

The present address of Edith Alice Ogilby Titmouse Druse is No. 39 Champs Elysees, Paris. Clarence Maud Ogilby lives at San Ysidro, San Diego, Cal.

MARRIAGE IN ST. PAUL'S.

Attaches of Cathedral Honored by Rare Privilege.

London.—For the first time in fourteen years a wedding has been solemnized in St. Paul's Cathedral. The great church is not licensed for marriages, and only in exceptional cases is the Archbishop of Canterbury's license granted for the purpose.

In this case both bride and groom were closely connected with the cathedral, for the daughter of Canon Newbolt, canon-in-residence for the time being, was being wedded to Sub-Organist Charles Macpherson. The Bishop of London tied the knot, and the full choir of the cathedral took part.

HOME FOR TURNER WORKS

Nearly 20,000 Paintings of Famous Artist in New Gallery.

London.—The new wing of the Tate gallery is now rapidly nearing completion, and the opening ceremony will take place during the summer. The public will then have an opportunity of viewing a more comprehensive exhibition of Turner's work than it has hitherto been possible to display.

The Turner section will consist of two large galleries in which oil paintings will be exhibited. There will be three smaller ones for water-color paintings, and below these there will be five rooms in which drawings and water colors will be displayed.

The national gallery, which is the present repository of the Turner collection, will retain some of the representative works in oil, but the remainder will be housed in the new wing—or at least so many of them as room can be found for.

There are between nineteen and twenty thousand Turner drawings and paintings in the possession of the National Gallery at the present time, and the process of final selection, preparatory to the official opening of the new wing, will therefore be a considerable task.

NEWPORT COUPLE TO WED AND THEN FARM

Newport.—The call of "Back to the Land" has sounded so alluringly that two of Newport's popular young people who are to be married on May 28, will become society truck farmers.

They are Miss Marianna Fullam, daughter of Commander William F. Fullam of the naval training station, and Austin Ledyard Sands, son of Mrs. Frederick P. Sands and brother of Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Jr.

The bride-groom-to-be is at present in his new home at Edgemoor, N. Y.—a beautiful home surrounded by one hundred acres of the finest farm land. He is making everything ready for the reception of his young bride, who is said to be just as enthusiastic as he is about their plan to become farmers.

The district is one in which the best vegetables and fruits grow finely, and the Newport market is always demanding such supplies. So by next summer the cottage colony will be receiving its garden truck from members of its own set.

GIFT FROM INDIAN CHIEF.

Yellow Wolf Sends Historic Rifle to L. V. McWhorter of Yakima.

North Yakima, Wash.—Yellow Wolf, one of the best-known Nez Perce chiefs, a veteran of the Nez Perce war, has given to L. V. McWhorter, who is adopted into the Yakima tribe under the name of Old Wolf, the rifle which he carried in the war, and also an Indian bow. He sent at the same time, as a loan to Mr. McWhorter, the eagle feather headdress, which is his most-prized personal possession, and a flute, 18 inches long, supposed to be made from the bone of a bird, which he carried in many battles. The flute and the headdress are regarded by their owner as skookum medicine, which have brought him good luck which he wishes to share with his friend. Mr. McWhorter is writing a history of the Nez Perce Indians.

Saved Sailor Feeds the Poor.

Gloucester, Mass.—Fulfilling a vow made sixteen years ago, when a sudden shift of wind saved his storm beaten vessel from driving on a lee shore off Cape Cod, Captain Joseph Mesquita, one of Gloucester's best known fishermen, has given away to the poor 2000 loaves of bread. The gift was made at the Church of Our Lady of Good Voyage after a special mass attended by the captain and his crew of sixteen men. Then, headed by a band, the shipmates marched in picturesque array from the church to the captain's home, where open house was held until late in the evening.

In Rhode Island the industrial population has received many advances in wages. The cotton mills have been running full time, notwithstanding a curtailment agreement. The outlook shows steady employment for 40,000 operatives.
