GUARDSMEN WILL TRY MARKSMANSHIP

ORDERS RECEIVED FOR ANNUAL STATE SHOOT

Company L Men Will Seek to Win Governor's Medal—Blanchett Was Second Last Year—More Recruits Needed by Company.

Orders have been received by Captain Ferguson of company L for the annual rifle and revolver competition of the Oregon national guard which will be held on the state rifle range near Clackamas from July 12 to July 14.

The commanding officer of each company is to nominate a team of four men and one alternate, all to be selected by previous competition on some outdoor range. This team must be nominated by July 6.

The receipt of this order has awakened the interest in range work and company L will hold their first shoot tomorrow. All desiring to participate must assemble at the armory by 8 a. m.

There are some good shots in company L and the boys expect to make a sufficient showing to enable them to get places on the state team. Sergeant Blanchett came within one point of winning the governor's medal last year and is determined that he will bring this trophy home this year.

Captain Ferguson has also received the medals for 1909 competition and is now distributing them. Former Lieutenant L. D. Drake was awarded an expert rifleman badge. Lieutenant Bailey, Corporal Bowman and Private Weber each received sharpshooters' badges and the following members qualified as marksmen: Captain D. P. Smythe, Sergeant Finier, Privates Skiles & Killingsworth. These medals have not arrived but are expected any day.

The work of recruiting the company up to the minimum is not progressing as rapidly as was expected owing to the opposition of a great number of the parents. If the co-operation of the town is not secured Captain Ferguson says Pendleton is apt to lose the company. The company still requires about 15 men to come up to the minimum number. The officers have worked hard and the young men are interested but the parents in several instances have interfered. This is very discouraging to the officers and may mean the loss of the company to Pendleton. It is understood the Commercial association will again be asked to use its influence to aid the officers in holding the company together.

WASHINGTON RANCHERS HAVE COMET CHICKS

Spokane, Wash.—Miss Emma La Barge of 2516 North Standard avenue, has a Plymouth Rock chick with three legs and Joseph Gump, living at 213 East Art avenue, claims distinction for a single-combed Rhode Island Red, which laid its first egg four months and 23 days after it was hatched. The Plymouth Rock has 14 toes, six of them growing on the third leg. Otherwise the chick appears to be normal. The third leg is one and a half inches in length. It is perfectly formed and is as useful as the other two, even with four toes. In scratching for food, Mr. Gump's pullet probably has broken all records for early layers, but there is nothing remarkable about the bird. The egg is of ordinary size and weight. The Spokane Poultry and Pet Stock association will award a medal to Mr. Gump on June 20, unless in the meantime the officers hear of a better record for a pullet. All claims must be accompanied by affidavits and photograph of the pullet addressed to R. H. Hughes, assistant secretary of the Spokane chamber of commerce.

ENGLAND HAS 7 DREADNAUGHTS

St. Vincent Put in Commission at Portsmouth. London.—The new, improved battleship St. Vincent has been commissioned at Portsmouth for service in the First division of the home fleet in which it is to fly the flags of Rear Admiral F. C. D. Sturdee. The St. Vincent is the seventh battleship of the dreadnought type to fly the white ensign and with the armored cruisers Indomitable, Invincible and Inflexible there are now 10 ships of the dreadnought class in commission. The St. Vincent is the third ship of the "improved dreadnought type" commissioned during the past few weeks, her sister battleships, Vanguard and Colingwood, being respectively commissioned on March 1 and April 19.

With the commissioning of the St. Vincent the First division of the home fleet now consists of seven dreadnoughts and is the strongest and fastest battle squadron in the world.

ACTRESSES ARE SCARED.

Poison Plots, Black Hand Letters and Apaches Are Cause.

Paris.—Actresses, by the way, are having rather an exciting time of it in Paris in these days of the comet. One has been the victim of attempts to poison her, another has had several terrifying warning letters, and a third spent one evening of apprehension because of the presence of a private box of four ferocious Apaches.

Mme. Marguerite Carre, wife of the director of the Opera Comique, after rehearsing a new part, went to her dressing room to take a glass of wine, inviting her dresser and stage manager to join her.

No sooner had Mme. Carre taken a sip of the wine when she felt a burning sensation. She at once declared that there was something the matter with the wine. The dresser, to reassure her, took a sip, but was ill for the rest of the evening, while the stage manager fared as badly.

As the bottle had been opened the day before and the contents were then perfectly good it was evident that it had been tampered with in the interval. The matter was placed in the hands of the police at once, and it was stated that the presence of sulphuric acid had been detected.

For days past Mme. Carre has been receiving anonymous and threatening letters. Strangely enough, Mme. Yvonne de Bray, an artist at the Renaissance, has also been receiving letters similar in character to those sent to Mme. Carre and containing mysterious hints to her to be on her guard against the flowers she is offered, the rouge she uses in her make-up, steel traps in the wings, and steps down which she might fall. The letters have been handed to the police.

Mlle Lanthelme, who is playing a principal part in "Le Costard des Epinettes" at the Vaudeville, had an alarming experience the other evening. The story of the play is that of a young man who turned Apache in lieu of something better to do. One of the first "jobs" assigned to him was to remove a young woman who held in her possession compromising papers. The young man falls in love with his victim and saves her from another Apache, who would be before him in the deed. It is intended as a skit upon the Apaches.

Therefore, when four evil looking men occupied the box on the stage on the evening referred to, a little tremor of apprehension went through the players. Had the Fabourg Montmartre sent a bloodthirsty deputation to take vengeance? Mlle Lan-

O. A. C. STUDENTS AND PEDAGOGUES JOIN IN WORK

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Or.—On Friday, May 27, every member of the college community, from the oldest and most learned pedagogue to the youngest and most verdant freshman worked on the campus grading ground, mowing grass and cutting down trees, for it was college labor day at the Oregon agricultural college. Seven hundred men, including the members of the faculty, responded to roll call at 8 o'clock that morning and immediately took up the work of improving and beautifying the campus, which continued until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Many trees were cut down, many yards of dirt moved and much rubbish cleaned away. No partiality was shown in the division of labor, professor and students worked at the same tasks. Toward the end of the day the campus had indeed witnessed a very marked change, and the work which had all been previously arranged was carried out to the letter. In the morning where large and stately fir trees stood, where piles of rubbish and mounds of dirt existed, were a thing of the past when the day was over, and the work was so complete that the ravages of a cyclone could not have done a better job. The college had surely received the best efforts of this army of seven hundred men.

The work which was performed is the first step in the execution of the campus plans recently submitted by J. C. Olmstead.

$85,000 for Sagebrush Land. Hanford, Wash.—A deal was closed last week at White Bluffs where by 1000 acres of sagebrush land was sold to New Jersey capitalists for $85,000. The entire tract will be put under irrigation immediately. A pumping plant will be installed and the tract set to a commercial orchard in the spring. One hundred thousand dollars will be spent on the improvements within a year.
