

AN INTERESTING CONFESSION

"THE NEW IDEA"
We have a hobby.

It concerns every man, woman and child in town.
Our hobby is—but wait a moment. Suppose you are sick, or one of your family is sick. You consult the best physician you know of and he gives you a prescription.

You have a right to take that prescription to any druggist, no matter whose name is printed on it. You have the same right to select your druggist that you do to select your doctor.

Particular people bring their prescriptions to us, because our hobby is prescription work.

We take the same sort of pride in compounding every prescription the very best way that an artist takes in painting the very best picture he can; the same that the conscientious doctor takes in bringing his patients back to health.

We know drugs; we know where to buy the best. We get that kind. Appearances are deceptive. Two phonograph records look exactly alike, but the phonograph gets a $1.00 Melba song from one and a ragtime two-step from the other. So, with drugs, the inferior look as good as the best.

Our hobby leads us to study each prescription to make it give the right results. There is no rule of thumb, no guessing—simply, accurate, scientific work done by men who know and love their profession. If there is any surer way than this we can't imagine what it is. And besides—

Any physician who knows us will tell you "we do things right." The best way for you to know is for you to bring your next prescription here where such work is not regarded as a druggery, or a necessary evil, or as a good chance to get a big price for something—but where it is a "hobby"—where it is looked upon as the most important service we can render to our fellow-man.

The price! We haven't said anything about the price. That won't bother you for a moment. We want all the prescription trade we can get. It would be foolish for us to charge too much. We can afford to charge a little too little, for the sake of building up a branch of our business in which we are very keenly interested.

When you have a prescription, remember our hobby. Remember, too, that we will call for your prescription and deliver the medicine—phone us at any hour.

WESTON TEACHERS LEAVING FOR HOME

LOCAL DISCIPLES OF WALTON TRY THEIR LUCK

Noted Fishermen Leave on Trip to Upper Umatilla River—Friends are Hopeful of Being Remembered—Visitors Returning to Their Homes.

(Special Correspondence.)

Weston, Ore., June 7.—Miss Pearl Edwards, teacher in the primary department of Weston's public school, has gone to her home in Vale, Oregon. Miss Edwards was re-employed by the directors, for the coming school year and will, it is presumed, be back by the opening of the fall term to take up her school work.

S. A. Barnes, W. A. Barnes, Otis Turner and Frank Price left by team this morning for a fishing trip to the Umatilla river. They expect to be gone several days, and as they are noted fishermen it is anticipated that they will return with more than the average fisherman's luck, and will remember their friends.

Mrs. McArthur of Helena, Mont., who has been here with relatives and friends for several days, returned to her home on this morning's train. While in the city Mrs. McArthur was a guest at the home of Mrs. J. J. Deeler.

Miss Claudie Kelly, teacher in the public school, left for her home at Cove, Ore., yesterday evening. Miss Kelly since the closing of the school has been the guest of Miss Stella O'Hara at the family home east of the city.

Mrs. Mary J. Powers is at present visiting her son and family at Woodburn, Oregon, and her stay may be prolonged towards the end of the summer months.

Mr. Spain, representing the underwriters' association of the coast, is here checking up the insurance companies' maps.

R. M. Powers returned last evening from a short stay at the county seat where he attended to some business matters between trains.

WITH BUTCHER KNIFE SQUAW RULES COURT

Gann Valley, S. D.—With a butcher knife Mrs. Stone Graybear, a Sioux Indian squaw, cleaned out the district court and for an hour held the room against the sheriff, the judge and all comers. Eventually the sheriff got possession of her scalping knife and took the woman in custody.

Mrs. Graybear had trouble with her husband, John Graybear, who appealed to the court for a divorce. The case came up for trial, Graybear making a charge of cruelty against the woman. The squaw was on hand dressed in full Indian costume, her head and shoulders covered with a red blanket. Through a narrow slit in the covering her black eyes shot arrows at her dissatisfied husband.

Graybear began his testimony, telling of the squaw's cruelty to him, when the woman arose and denounced the statement as false. The sheriff interfered and Mrs. Graybear pulled a butcher knife from beneath her blanket and started after the officer. In two minutes she was in possession of the court room, her husband having led the exodus. Then she sallied forth and chased court officials all around the block.

After an hour's fight the woman weared and finally was arrested. The court resumed its session and Graybear got his divorce without further testimony. Mrs. Graybear was graduated from Hampton Institution, in Virginia, and while at that school was one of its brightest lights. After her return to the reservation she returned to the blanket.

Charges Against Patent Medicines.

Most of the charges against patent medicines as a class have no foundation in fact and are manifestly unfair and unjust.

There are a large number of standard remedies like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound used in thousands of American homes which have saved hundreds of dollars to families who could not afford to consult a physician and they have answered the purpose equally as well.

INJUNCTION SUIT AFFECTS VALE RAILWAY

Vale, Or.—Construction trains of the Malheur Valley railroad are now running 10 miles toward the new town of Brogan, which is situated 24 miles north of Vale. According to a statement of Engineer D. H. Ashton, the rails could be laid to Brogan within the next 10 days if railroad laborers could be secured. Men are quitting every day and agents are after new gangs. Under present conditions, Mr. Ashton states Brogan will not be reached before July 1.

The Malheur Valley railroad right of way passes through the eastern Oregon company's land holdings and although an engagement was made with the eastern Oregon company, the land company through United States Marshal McDonald, Saturday attempted to serve an injunction on the railroad officials.

When asked relative to the injunction, Engineer Ashton stated that work would go on without interruption so far as he was cognizant. "They tried to locate the railroad officials here, but did not find any, so no papers were served," said Ashton.

Ed O'Donnell, one of the promoters of the Willow river irrigation project, was obtained the right of way for the railroad through the Eastern Oregon land company's holdings, yesterday stated that it was a scheme to hold up the Willow River Irrigation company for water.

BUILDERS ACTIVE IN STANFIELD

CITY JAIL WILL SOON BE READY FOR PRISONERS

Concrete Mixer Begins Run to Full Capacity—Work Being Pushed on the Bell Building—First Potatoes of Season Brought in—Good Crop Promised.

(Special Correspondence.)

Stanfield, June 7.—Dean B. Spaulding and wife have gone to Portland for the rose festival. They are staying at the Thorndyke.

John Oescher goes to Hood River today to meet his parents who are coming to Stanfield on the Columbia Land Co.'s seventeenth special car.

Mr. H. E. Allen has taken the contract to build the new city jail. The building will be built of reinforced concrete with complete compliment of bars, cage, and steel door. The jail will be finished in about two weeks.

W. W. Williams is today running the concrete mixer used by the Reclamation works at Hermiston and is working it to its full capacity.

The Bell building is fast taking form. Contractor Allen has a large force of men on this structure and is pushing work as fast as possible. He expects to have all of the concrete work and the roof in place by the twelfth of the month.

Tom Carlyle brought in the first of his potato crop today. He reports that the yield will be an unusually large one.

Girl Has Perfect Record.

Lawrence, Kan., June 8.—Commencement day at the University of Kansas has brought to Lawrence today the usual number of fond papas and mammas to see their young hopefuls launched upon the world. A considerable portion of the graduating class is composed of the sons and daughters of farmers, and the records of men on this structure and is pushing work as fast as possible. He expects to have all of the concrete work and the roof in place by the twelfth of the month.

Tom Carlyle brought in the first of his potato crop today. He reports that the yield will be an unusually large one.

Miss Zurcher is from Newton. While she has made an exceptional record in her studies, she is not what is called a "grind." She finds time for other things besides her books. Last year she was a member of the junior promenade committee, and held a place on the sophomore social committee in her second school year. She is at present the secretary of the all-senior class. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Easy courses have not caused Miss Zurcher's success. She chose Latin and Greek for her major studies and has specialized in the ancient languages.

Got Your Share?

TEACHER HAD PLANNED TO MAKE DISAPPEARANCE

That Professor J. M. Hanna, the missing principal of the Edwall, Wash., high school deliberately planned and executed his disappearance is now the belief of many of his friends, says the Inland Herald.

Further trace of the man was found in Spokane Saturday and it is expected that he will later be heard from through friends in Rochester, N. Y.

Following the investigation which disclosed certain facts concerning the manner in which Hanna left Edwall, and the involving of the two young women, Miss Turner of Harrington, and Miss Cramer, primary teacher in the Edwall school, it was learned that Hanna cashed his last salary warrant of $100 with John W. Graham two weeks ago, the date on which he was seen in Spokane.

C. H. Hughes, 2013 Gardner avenue, whom Hanna was to have visited, is now energetic in his efforts to locate the missing man, or further trace of him that will conclusively prove that he left Spokane of his own will and intentionally created the impression he had been foully dealt with or was suffering from insanity and wandered away.

CITY OF PULLMAN WONT BUILD LEVEE

Pullman, Wash.—If Pullman wants a retaining wall to keep the Palouse river from running through the town in the spring it will have to be paid for by the property owners. The Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company has refused to move its tracks to the south bank, thus forming an effective dyke. The State Railway Commission has also refused to force the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company to move its tracks, giving as a reason that the present right of way has stood for such a term of years.

A final effort to relieve the situation will be attempted by trying to get the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company to replace the piling in the two loops of the river where the track crosses with steel truss bridges. The present piling is so close as to back up the water, and with a quantity of floating debris would effectually dam the river.

A movement is being started to organize an improvement district for the purpose of building a retaining wall.

A WARNING—to feel tired before exertion is not laziness—it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, and needs the tonic effect of Hous' Sarsaparilla. Sufferers should not delay. Get rid of that tired feeling by beginning to take Hous' Sarsaparilla today.

What little faith you have, only live it for one day, and it will be stronger tomorrow. Live with your fellow creatures as their brother today, and tomorrow God will be felt by you as you Father in heaven the more tenderly.—William Mountford.

Would Not a Little "Fertilizing" Help Your Business?

ADVERTISING TALK NO. 6.

Ever hear the story about the duck and the chickens? It is old but it will bear repeating.

A duck who had faithfully stuck to business during the summer and had laid several dozen eggs complained that she was not appreciated.

"See that hen over there?" said the duck, "she has not laid so many eggs as I have, nor so big, but she has books written about her, and verses composed in her honor, while nobody says a word about me."

"The trouble with you is," replied the wise buff leghorn cock, "you don't tell the public what you have done. You lay an egg and waddle off without telling anybody in the neighborhood about it. The hen advertises her accomplishment by cackling. If you want to cut any ice in this community you must learn to advertise."

Perhaps you spend a certain amount each month for newspaper space. This in itself, isn't learning to advertise. To reap that full measure of success to which you are entitled, it is necessary that you do a little crowing, a little spreading out once in a while.

When you make some improvement in your store, when you put in a new stock of goods, take occasion to let the public know about it.

Tell the whole story, and tell it loudly. Increase your advertising space for a day or two. Spread it on. Make people sit up and take notice.

It pays to break away from old customs and habits once in a while, in advertising as well as in anything else. More advertising and a new line of advertising is just as essential to business growth as a new stock of goods, a new window display, or some improvement in your store. It breeds enthusiasm.

Nothing succeeds like success and the establishment that prints PROGRESS in big, bold letters where people can see it always starts the crowd in its direction.

Keeping your name before the public is a splendid plan, but it in itself doesn't constitute advertising.

Such men as John H. Woodbury believe in keeping their names before the public, but they know that they must tell the whole story about their goods in order to sell them.

Increasing an advertising appropriation is just one method of increasing business.

Woodbury's facial products are known the country over. So are Mennen's talcum powder and Baker's chocolate and Beeman's pepsin gum and Royal Baking Powder and Gold Medal flour, and dozens of other products we might mention. Why? Because their manufacturers have advertised on a broad scale, have constantly kept themselves before the public and have yearly spent more for newspaper and advertising space.

Woodbury says: "I credit more of my success, the greater part, to advertising."

Advertising bears the same application to your business as fertilizer does to the soil.

The farmer who wants bigger crops knows how to get them. He uses more fertilizer.

A story is told about a certain farmer who was on his death bed and called his son to his side to impart a little advice. One of his last sentences was:

"Don't spend money recklessly—except for fertilizers."

Do you want bigger business? Why not try more advertising?
