upon one investment is more likely to become bankrupt than the man whose fortunes are "not all in one bottom trusted."

This year for instance the crop of fruit has been enormous and the prices have been just as good as during the lean years. The same is true of the hay crop while from present indications the bumper yield of grain which was promised a few days ago will not be forthcoming. As a result the year will not be so prosperous for the wheat farmer as it will be for the man with fewer acres but who is not dependent upon any one crop for his returns.

The adoption of a system of diversified farming would do more for Umatilla county than the building of an electric railroad, or any other one thing that could be done. It must come sooner or later and the sooner the days of the land baron are numbered the better it will be for the country.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness. Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of

THE WOMAN'S PORTION.

From the coast of Brittany
Fisher fleets stand out to sea,
Golden in the sunshine gliding,
Watched by loved ones tenderly.

From their cruel caverns rushing,
And hushing
For the moment whispered prayer,
Grind the fleet in maddened crushing!

From the coast of Brittany
Fisher wives peer out to sea,
Hearing in the surf's will roaring
Screams of shipwrecked agony.

Thus forever will it be
Down the storm wind sweep,
Fear and dread the woman's portion,
Fear and dread and tragedy!
—Thomas Quinn Beesley in Rosary Magazine.

A NEGLECTED INDUSTRY.

The great profits to be derived from the pork industry, which is sadly neglected in eastern Oregon, were recently set forth in this paper. The receipt by a Portland poultry dealer last week of 200 dozen spring chickens from Petaluma, California, has been commented upon by the press of the metropolis as indicating neglect of the poultry growing opportunities in Oregon. The Oregonian goes on to say that there is a much greater economic waste in the transaction than is apparent at first glance, for the California poultry-growers are obliged to buy Oregon wheat as feed for their chickens. The Oregon poultrymen, if they would supply the home market, would thus have in their favor an additional margin of profit to the full amount of the freight on the feed from Oregon to California, and on the chickens from California to Oregon. As it is reasonable to suppose that there was a profit for the Californians in thus paying freight both ways, it is quite clear that the Oregon poultrymen could make much greater profit out of the business than is being made by the Californians.

THE MUCKRAKERS.

The chaplain of the house of representatives invoked the power of heaven the other day against the "glorifying tongue of the muckraker." The president of the United States at Ada, O. Friday, warned his audience against "a class of newspapers and of magazines that are properly criticized as 'muckrakers,' that rely for their circulation on the vicious and unfounded attacks upon the honesty and upright character and patriotic motives of men in public life, and upon those conspicuous and prominent generally."

When the chaplain of the house of representatives talks about muckrakers he refers presumably to certain sons of Belial who speak disrespectfully of that grand old political ruler, Uncle Joe Cannon. When the president muckrakes the muckrakers he is probably expressing his confidential opinion of various writers who have dimmed the halo of that peerless patriot, Richard Achilles Ballinger.

It would have been better, however, if both the chaplain and the president had been more definite in their utterances. What do they mean by muckraking? And who are the particular muckrakers that have stirred their bile? Much depends upon the point of view, as certain specific instances will prove.

A lot of eminent gentlemen out in Denver protested bitterly against Ben Lindsay's muckraking articles in Everybody's Magazine, and made them an issue in the recent campaign. When the votes were counted it was found that the citizens of Denver had sustained Judge Lindsay by large majorities to the very great damage of both political machines and the discomfiture of numerous benevolent corporations.

Mr. Taft himself is waiting impatiently for the United States supreme court to sustain the government's case against the Standard Oil company. That the government has a case against the Standard Oil company is due largely to the writings of Miss Ida Tarbell, who aroused the public sentiment that finally compelled an action.

It was not so many years ago that Mr. Taft himself repudiated the republican boss of Cincinnati, and Mr. Taft in this instance was influenced largely by the public feeling which Lincoln Steffens had aroused by his articles on boss rule and machine government in American cities.

It is reported that yesterday Roosevelt mounted to the mainmast of the Kaiserin and addressed himself to old Neptune, god of the sea, and told him of the stern necessity of curbing the wild waves, and advised the monarch of the deep to either rule the turbulent tide or get out. Whereat, so the report goes, old Neptune waxed exceedingly wroth.

PATRIOTISM VS. PETTY POLITICS.

The Jones County News, admitting it did not vote for Governor Brown in the last campaign, thus patriotically sums up its present attitude:

The editor of this sheet did not vote for Joe Brown in the primary two years ago, but he is honest enough to admit that Mr. Brown has made a good governor, and we have no patience with the movement on the part of some to pick any old thing to succeed him in the office. Our advocacy of Hoke Smith did not reach that blind infatuation as to include every old politician that supported him.

If more editors and more voters developed breadth of this refreshing nature, not only in Georgia, but in politics generally, we should see a rapid decline of the bitterness, the rancor and the narrowness that everywhere make for inefficiency in government and causeless antagonism among the people.

The day of that Bourbonism in politics that never learns anything, that never forgets, that never admits a virtue in a political adversary, and that hampers progress and tranquility by partisan hatred is past.

The new citizenship that places its civic responsibilities above personal leanings or aversions is inspiring typified in the Jones County News.

Lets have more of such examples! —Atlanta Constitution.
