COLTS WILL MEET ATHENA TOMORROW

Promptly at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon the Athena Yellow Kids and the Pendleton Colts will line up for an interesting exhibition of the great national game. This game promises more of interest to local fans than any game that has been played here for several weeks for several reasons.

In the first place it will be the first time the Pendleton fans have had a chance to see Sturgis and Baker perform in the blue uniforms. Sturgis will toe the rubber while Baker will hold down the first station.

The ever reliable Ward will be behind the bat while Harlan, the speedy twirler will play the short stop position. Powell will be on second and Dickson on third, presenting what many believe to be the strongest infield lineup Pendleton has had this season. Nelson, Strand and Alexander will probably occupy the outfield positions.

A close game is expected for the reason that the Athena aggregation has been gradually growing stronger and is now playing equal to any team in the league and is putting up a better article of ball than Pilot Rock. It will be the first time that the local willow welders have faced Athena's new pitcher, Picard, and according to reports from Weston, the new twirler is one of the best in the league.

FARMER SMILES AND CIRCUS MAN CURSES

Making glad the heart of the farmer and miserable that of the circus man, copious quantities of rain began descending last evening just as the people were preparing to wend their way to the evening performance of Campbell Brothers' big show. The result was disheartening to the show management and disappointing to the small boy who had not seen the performance in the afternoon, but it brought delight to the grower of grain and the business man and citizen whose prosperity is dependent in a large measure upon that of the tiller of the soil.

The circus, while small, was a good, clean exhibition and few who saw it were disappointed in the presentations offered. The aerial performers were probably as good as any ever seen in the city. There were some thrillers and some that were just plain but clever performances.

Those who went in the afternoon were more fortunate than those who waited for evening for the reason that while the main tent shed the water very satisfactorily, the menagerie tent leaked like the proverbial sieve and it was almost necessary to carry one's umbrella raised in order to keep dry.

SAYS JAPAN IS PREPARING FOR WAR WITH U. S.

San Francisco, June 18.—Japan expects war with the United States, and is preparing for it, according to Reverend H. C. Morrison, pastor of the Methodist church of Louisville, Ky., today. He has just returned from an extended tour of the orient. He said: "Japan is watching the United States narrowly. She has spies in the Philippines to keep the government well informed about American fortifications. She is not prepared to fight any power now but considers war with this country inevitable. Completion of the canal will cause the United States to become aggressive, think the Japanese."

Injunction Is Dissolved.

Judge Bean this afternoon dissolved the temporary injunction which he had previously granted to F. A. Yates and E. P. Dodd against H. D. Newell, the engineer in charge of the reclamation service work at Hermiston. The purpose of the injunction was to prevent the government opening up the Old Maxwell ditch across their farms.

RAINS CAUSE O. R. & N. WRECK

runs but a few feet from the track. The tender was the only car to topple into the stream.

The speed of the train was such that 400 feet of track was ripped out of the roadbed before the flying wreckage came to a stop, and debris was scattered for several rods about the scene.

Wreck Unavoidable.

The wreck was entirely unavoidable as the watchman had passed the spot only a short time before and found the track clear. The accident could not have happened at a more fortunate time, for none of the eight passengers which were laid out by the wreck was due at the spot for several hours. Had the rockslide occurred at almost any other hour of the night it is almost inevitable that some one of the numerous passengers Nos. 4, 10, 12, 6, 9, 3, 11, or 5 would have met with the fate of the extra freight.

As soon as word of the disaster had been flashed to The Dalles and Portland, General Superintendent Buckley, Superintendent Bollons and Assistant Superintendent Ladd began the assembling of wrecking outfits, one being rushed from The Dalles and the other from Starbuck, while the three officials mentioned hastened by special train from Portland and took charge of removing the debris, restoring the delapidated track and raising the damaged equipment. The wreckers, however, gave their first attention to the injured, all of whom except brakeman Sproule were able to extricate themselves from the ruins. Their wounds were bound and the men made as comfortable as the emergencies of the situation permitted and were later removed to Arlington, where Dr. George Carl soon arrived and attended the victims. He accompanied them to Portland on the special this morning and upon their arrival said that Sproule had very little chance of recovery, and the two hoboes were in serious condition.

How Ladd Was Hurt.

It was while at work removing the torn and twisted rails that Assistant Superintendent Ladd and Section Hand Metca, who were attending the derrick, got in the way of a steel rail that had been bent and buried by other wreckage and were severely hurt as it was released from the wreck.

General Superintendent Buckley and his associates worked all night and had built a temporary track by noon permitting the four east-bound and four west-bound passengers to continue on their way.

The damage to equipment was not exceeded $2500, while damage to the contents of the seven loaded cars was merely nominal.

The train was in charge of Engineer J. G. Lebor and Conductor R. C. Taylor, neither one of whom was injured, although Fireman Hinkle and brakeman Sproule, two of the most seriously hurt, were riding with Engineer Lebor in the cab.

The two tramps, Steve and George Kozachke, are brothers, the former living in Chicago and the latter in Racine, Wis. They made up their minds to seek new pastures in the far west and, being without money, they decided to beat their way to the coast. Steve joined George and the pair had all but finished their long "free ride" to Portland when they were caught in the wreck.
