Is the control of the state of Oregon to be turned over to such men as these?

NORMALS ARE NEEDED.

Of the last four teachers just chosen for the Pendleton public schools one has been teaching in the country; another at Weston, the third at Albany and the fourth at Oregon City. They will fill positions left by former Pendleton teachers who have been elected to positions in the large cities. In other words Pendleton is recruiting its teaching force from the country and from towns within this state that do not pay as high salaries as Pendleton. Very well, but where will the small towns and the country districts go to secure competent teachers? With the normal schools closed for want of funds new teachers are not being turned out as in the past. Consequently Oregon is threatened with a dearth of competent teachers unless the normal schools are revived. The situation merits the serious attention of those who want to see the standard of our public schools maintained.

COVERING THE FIGHT.

The East Oregonian is not an advocate of prize fighting. On the contrary it regrets ring contests as something the world can well do without and predicts that pugilism has seen its best days. Nevertheless this paper will cover the Jeffries-Johnson fight and do so in metropolitan style. A report of the fight by rounds will be received from the United Press and East Oregonian bulletins will be posted in various places within the city during the progress of the fight. The detailed story of the fight will be published in Monday evening's issue. This issue will go by motor car and evening train to the various towns of the county and extra copies of the paper will be for sale by East Oregonian agents in their respective towns. If you are interested in the fight look for the East Oregonian.

AS YOU PREFER.

Pendleton is not celebrating the fourth of July this year. We are "summer-fallowing" and local people will be free to go where they please Monday. From indications many will attend the celebrations at Stanfield and at Pilot Rock. There will be big doings at both places. Still others will hunt the cool shades and the pool at Wenaha springs. Those who cannot get so far away from home may take in the Indian celebration at Cayuse or they may stay in the city, take it easy and get the early news from the big fight. There will be "hot" doing" Monday and people may pass the day as they see fit.

Echo is to have another alfalfa meal factory. In the Echo country there is enough alfalfa raised to supply many meal factories with the raw product. Furthermore alfalfa is a profitable crop to raise and it continues to be a profitable crop despite the great increase in alfalfa acreage caused by the adoption of irrigation in the northwest.

Great strikes have been "impending" so frequently of late that the public is becoming used to the danger.

But it is not likely Jack Johnson will rely entirely upon prayer.

The wheat land near Pendleton is thirsty and it is entitled to drink. Why let the river go to the sea?

THE POWER OF FEAR.

Authentic instances of the hair turning white in a few hours or a night through fear or sudden shock could be multiplied indefinitely, says Orison Sweet Marden in Success Magazine. It is well known that when Ludwig of Bavaria learned of the innocence of his wife whom he had caused to be put to death on suspicion of her unfaithfulness, his hair became as white as snow within a couple of days.

When Charles the First attempted to escape from Carisbrooke Castle his hair turned white in a single night. The hair of Maria Antoinette was suddenly changed by her great distresses. On a portrait of herself, which she gave to a friend, she wrote, "Whitened by affliction."

This power of fear to modify the currents of the blood and all the secretions, to whiten the hair, to paralyze the nervous system and even to produce death is well known. Whatever makes us happy, whatever excites enjoyable emotions, relaxes the capillaries and gives freedom to the circulation; whatever depresses and distresses us disturbs us, worries us; in fact, all phases of fear contract these blood vessels and impede the free circulation of the blood. We see this illustrated in the pale face caused by fear or terror.

VICE IN AMERICA.

Guglielmo Ferrero in the July Atlantic: All that I have seen and heard concerning the vice of great American cities, alcoholism, gambling, immortality, seem to me to be neither more nor less than I have seen in all the great cities in Europe. I have noticed these sad features of modern civilization, but they are no more hideous in America than elsewhere; the women are too emancipated; the men shall never forget the evening which I spent with an agreeable and clever journalist who took me to see the horrors of New York. For several hours we went about to restaurants, bars and places of amusements. I saw and noted with great attention what was pointed out to me, but I could not help, at least, coming to the conclusion that some day, if I were to take my guide on a similar tour around one of the great capitals of Europe, I could show him much more. Taking the Catholic countries of Europe as the basis of comparison, the only difference that I could perceive was that in America the family tie is weaker. Divorce is too easy by far; children too independent of parental control. In this respect it has seemed to me that America has reached a limit beyond which really dangerous social disorder lies.

GOD IN CREATION.

There lives and works
A soul in all things, and that soul is God.
The beauties of the wilderness are His.
That make so gay the solitary place,
Where no eye sees them; and the
fairer forms,
That cultivate glories in are His.
He sets the bright procession on its way.
And marshals all the order of the
year:
He marks the bounds that Winter
may not pass
And blunts his pointed fury; in its
case,
Russet and ruddy, folds up their tender germ.
Uninjured with inimitable art;
And ere one flowery season fades and
dies,
Designs the blooming wonders of the next.
The Lord of all, Himself through all
diffused,
Sustains and is the life of all that lives.
Nature is but a name for an effect,
Whose cause is God. . . . One
Spirit—His
Who were the platted thorns with bleeding brows—
Rules universal nature. Not a flower
But shows some touch, in freckle,
stroke or strain.
Of His unrivaled pencil. He inspires Their balmy odors, and imparts their hues,
And battles their eyes with nectar,
and includes,
In grains as countless as the seaside
sands,
The forms with which He sprinkles
all the earth.
Happy who walks with Him! Whom what he finds
Of flavor or of scent in fruit or flower,
Or what he views of beautiful or grand
In nature, from the broad majestic
oak
To the green blade that twinkles in
the sun.
Prompts with remembrance of a present God.
—William Cowper ("The Task")

"HOMING" PIGEONS.

Experiments have recently been made to determine the length of time through which a carrier pigeon will preserve the "homing" instinct—that is to say, how long a bird must be kept away from its original home before it will lose the instinct to return. Seventy-two pigeons in the German military service were taken from Mayence to Brunswick, a distance of 170 miles, and kept in captivity a month. Then they were liberated. They started instantly in the direction of Mayence and arrived there in four and one-half hours.

It seems really impossible to extinguish the homing instinct in a good pigeon. A story is told in this connection of a French carrier pigeon captured by the German soldiers during the siege of Paris in 1870.

The bird was being carried in a balloon from Paris to some point in the country, whence it was expected to return to Paris with a message. It was taken to the German headquarters and presented to the commander, Prince Frederick Charles, who sent it to his mother in Germany.

Here it was placed in a splendid and roomy aviary, and carefully fed and nourished. But although it was kept there, living in the lap of royal luxury, for four years, the French pigeon did not forget its fatherland.

At the end of that time the door of the aviary was left open one day. The pigeon flew out, mounted high in the air, flew about for a moment, as if to find the points of the compass, and then took flight in a straight line for Paris. It remained at the Paris Jardin d'Acclimation until it died in 1878.

WAYSIDE WISDOM.

The man who says nothing is not always saying wood.
Many a man starts out a circuit and winds up a side show.
You can usually tell an aristocrat by his plebeian tastes.
The best way to retain a favor is to do somebody else one.
It is possible for a man to have too many friends and not enough enemies.
Perhaps you wouldn't think so hard of your wife's relatives if you knew what she thinks of yours.
Several marriages take place because neither party can think up a good excuse for breaking the engagement.
Some people's idea of success is to put two and two together in such a way as to make other people think the total five.

FOR HER FATHER'S SAKE.

"I want to have an understanding with you," said the outspoken old man when the expert in voice culture had asked him to sit down, according to the Chicago Record-Herald. "I want you to tell me the truth about my daughter's voice."
"My dear sir, don't ask me to do that. It is too painful."
"What! Do you dare to look me in the face and insinuate that she is never likely to be able to sing?"
"I am very sorry, sir, but if you will compel me to speak the truth, it is as you say."

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body, and throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM—it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in Plain English; or, Medicine Simplified, 1008 pages, over 700 illustrations, newly revised up-to-date Edition, paper-bound, sent for 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Then why the devil have you been letting her come here for two years and hand you my good money in return for your lessons?"
"Because I have wished to serve you, sir. Whenever I tell young ladies they can't sing they go to a teacher on the floor below, and he charges 50 cents a lesson more than I get. You can figure for yourself what I have saved you on three lessons a week for two years."
