ANY WOMAN CAN HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Many women do not realize the attractions they possess because they do not give proper attention to the hair.
The women of Paris are famed for their beauty, not because their facial features are superior to those of other women, but because they know how to keep young by supplying vigor, luster and strength to the hair.
Three years ago Parisian Sage could hardly be obtained in America. But now this delightful hair tonic and dressing can be had in every town in America. Tallman & Co. sell it for 50 cents a large bottle, and they guarantee it to grow beautiful, luxuriant hair; to turn dull, lifeless hair into lustrous hair; to stop falling hair; to stop itching of the scalp. Ask for Parisian Sage.

THE GERM PLAY.

"In Germland" is Vehicle for Educating the World's People.
Chicago.—Do you know Bessie Bulgariou, the sour milk germ?
If not you should make her acquaintance at once, for she belies her name utterly, and as food for poets' verses has the elixir of life backed clear off the boards.
Bessie is a heroine. She is the new leading character of a play that threatened to steal the thunder from Rostand's "Chantecler" until someone discovered that it had an advertising angle. But Bessie has saved the day. She has stepped into the ring as the sworn foe of old Tim Tubercle of Mrs. Tubercle and of all the little Tubercles. She pursues the whole family relentlessly and without pause through each of the acts of the play, and when the curtain descends on the last scene she stands gory with the blood of her enemies, dead bodies strewn about the stage, but smiling triumphantly and entangled as a representative of mankind whose life she has saved.
Is Under New Auspices.
With "In Germland" completely revised, and all reference to vacuum cleaners eliminated, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis has taken the unique play in hand and will use it to educate the people of America in the habit of germs and the way you can tell a good microbe from an evil one. When it was presented with a cast of coeds and men students of the University of Wisconsin in bizarre costume representing the players as germs and microbes, it was hailed as the American rival of "Chantecler."
Theatre managers in Chicago and New York entered into negotiations for its appearance on the professional stage, and there was promise of one of the most unusual stage productions ever conceived until the discovery was made that the play had been conceived as an advertisement for a vacuum cleaner. This put a damper on the enthusiasm in America, but according to Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the bacteriology department of the University of Wisconsin, letters from playwrights and savants in France, Germany and other parts of Europe are still coming in asking for information. Some of them express regret that it did not precede "Chantecler."

According to the revised version Teddy, the hero, falls in love with Thie Tubercle, the dairymaid daughter of old Tim Tubercle, instead of with Bessie Bulgariou, the strong, competent and beneficial sour milk germ, who steps in to save Teddy from the fatal charms of the pretty but vampirish Miss Tubercle.
And it is to Bessie, spirit of the sour milk, his rescuer, and heroine of the occasion that Teddy pledges his eternal devotion and settles down to live long and happily ever after.
Three new characters, Tony, Theophilus and Tom dairy apprentices to Tim Tubercle, have been added to the cast of the revised play. These dairy hands do their best to thwart the beneficial efforts of Bessie Bulgariou and illustrate in allegory what is meant by unsanitary milk.

SAFETY OF ASSASSINS PUT UP TO ARBITRATION

Paris.—French jurists point out that the case of Porter Charlton, who killed his wife at Lake Como is identical with that of Paul Roy, the young Frenchman who married the American actress known as Glacia Galla.
Roy killed his wife's brother, George A. Carkins, in New Hampshire two years ago and succeeded in reaching Paris. Here he was arrested at the request of the American government and held on the charge of murder. France refused to extradite him, but agreed to try him for murder in the French courts. As no witnesses were sent over Roy was promptly acquitted.
A similar legal question has been just submitted to the arbitration of England by two nations which were unable to agree as to the disposal of a murderer. After being condemned to death a robber named Francois Albertin escaped to Portugal. There he was arrested, but as no death penalty is ever inflicted in Portugal, Albertin's lawyer argued that he could not be delivered to a country where such "cruel and unusual punishment" was inflicted.
England has been asked to decide between the Portuguese contention and that of the French.
A dispatch from Como stated that the Italian authorities are willing to furnish the results of their investigation as well as a post mortem report. In case Charlton is tried in the United States it is believed that a strong case can be made out. A Como newspaper says:
"If Charlton had given himself up immediately after the murder he probably would be a free man now, as it is known that the woman had already tried to kill one man in New York. Como desires neither the expense nor the notoriety of the murder trial."

WILL ORGANIZE DRY FARMERS FOR EXHIBIT

Spokane, Wash.—Alfred Atkinson, chairman of the board of governors of the fifth Dry Farming Congress, announces that a special agricultural commission acting under the direction of the organization has been placed in the field by Thomas Cooper land commissioner of the Northern Pacific railway company to organize the farmers in Washington, Oregon, Montana and North Dakota, to make a comprehensive exhibit of their products at the International Dry Farming Exposition in Spokane the week of October 3.

"The stories of crop failures are everywhere discredited by experts reporting to the Dry Farming Congress," said Mr. Atkinson, "except in the cases of farmers who have combated the theory of so-called dry farming and have held that climatic conditions have so changed that the methods advocated by the Congress were unnecessary. Thousands of these self satisfied farmers have been buried out by drought and even the best farmers—those who have followed systematic dry farming—have felt the effect of the drought though not so seriously as has been reported."

"A discussion of the conditions as they are reported between the members of the executive committee of the Dry Farming Congress indicate that even in the face of the drought everywhere the practice of dry farming methods has increased the acreage yield of wheat not less than five bushels this year. In some instances reports show that scientific dry farming has given as high as 15 bushels to the acre over the careless farming of immediate neighbors."

"I am satisfied that the showing to be made at the Spokane exposition by the northwestern states will be the most positive proof of the efficiency of dry farming methods in overcoming drought."

His Usual Vigor Restored.
W. H. Fleming, Litchfield, Ill., suffered with kidney and bladder trouble until he took Foley Kidney Pills. "For more than a year I had backaches and pains across my kidneys. I had also had spells of nervousness which left me exhausted and worn out. Foley Kidney Pills recommended to me and after taking them I soon noticed a nipmprovement. After some time I found my backaches all gone, my kidneys and back strengthened, tired spells left me and I again feel my usual vigor restored. The nervousness has been overcome and I feel much better in every respect."

PRaises AMERICAN TROTTERS.

English Expert Declares They Are Only Horses Worth Driving.
London.—"Do I think that American trotters are suited to this country?" said Walter Winans. "I think they are the only animals worth driving in any country that has roads fit to drive on, and the reason that almost all Englishmen so to speak fight shy of them is a mystery to me. I can attribute it only to our intense conservatism and to our rooted objection to what we call 'making a new departure.' Personally, I think that American trotters are infinitely preferable to English.
"Certainly American trotters can be driven in comparatively heavy carriages, though a beller is prevalent that they are suited only to very light two-wheeled vehicles. Until a man has driven trotters of this stamp he doesn't really know what driving is, and comparatively few men who have driven such animals regularly for a little while have ever gone back to the ordinary slow movers—if I may call them so without giving offense, to anybody.
"Yet it is a fact that hardly any interest is taken in this country in trotting races with American trotters."

I am inclined to think that many Englishmen confuse the American trotter properly so called, with the American horse that 'paces' rather than trots.

"By rights the pacer is not a trotter at all, and he is not a pleasant beast to drive. My trotters are all true American trotters. They look magnificent as they literally sweep over the ground, and in their every stride there is grace combined with strength and suppleness. To sit behind them is a pleasure, to drive them is a joy.
"As to the speed at which an American trotter ought to travel, that, of course, depends upon a variety of circumstances, but with any of my animals I can swing along at thirty miles an hour if I choose to let them out.
"At the beginning of this month I drove one of my fastest trotters into the park on the first day it was thrown open to patrol motors after 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The police had received strict orders to hold up any car traveling in the park over ten miles an hour. When I started shooting past the cars at twenty and five miles an hour the public were much amused.
"The popularity of cars has had one good effect. I mean from my point of view, for I believe the people have now become so accustomed to rapid locomotion that when they again take to driving horses—as I feel convinced the men who drive for pleasure will do before long—they will not be content with the slow motion of what I call the old fashioned carriage horse, but will finally adopt the fast American trotter, to which the ordinary undulations of a high road make no difference, so far as his speed is concerned."

Entirely Cured of Rheumatism.
Foley Kidney Pills clear the blood of uric acid, and by so doing eliminate rheumatism from the system. Mr. John P. Cutton, Sterling, Ill., writes of her relief: "I have been afflicted with rheumatism in my shoulder for over a year and at times it would be so severe I could not attend to my household. Foley Kidney Pills were recommended to me for my trouble and after taking these for some time I am entirely cured of rheumatism. Koepfen & Bros.

MINE ORE IN DEEP WATER.

Bottoms of Swedish Lakes Covered With Iron Gavel.
Stockholm.—The bottom of many Swedish lakes are covered to a thickness of six or eight inches with fragments of iron ore the size of peas. This lake ore exists chiefly of ochre or hydrated oxide of iron, mixed with silicate and phosphate of iron, clay, sand and other impurities, and yields pig iron of very good quality.
The ore is obtained by very primitive methods. In winter a hole is cut in the ice, a scraper attached to a long pole is inserted, and all the ore within reach is collected into a heap beneath the hole. Some of the mud which has been scraped together with the ore is removed by stirring the mass with poles and the ore is then scraped into bags which have been sunk and is then hauled up.

In summer this curious mining operation is conducted in a similar manner from rafts anchored in the lake. Two miners can bring up about four tons of ore a day. Steam dredges have already been installed in a few places. About thirty years after the removal of the ore a new layer of the same thickness is found to have been produced by natural chemical processes.

PLAYS CHESS AND PIANO AND TALKS ALL AT ONCE

London.—In presenting Sir Walter Parratt, professor of music at Oxford, for the honorary degree of Mus. Doc. at Cambridge, the public orator specially referred to his marvelous musical memory. In this connection the Warden of St. Michael's college, Tenbury, contributed a remarkable instance.
While on a visit to the college on one occasion, Sir Walter Parratt, who is a great chess player undertook to play two of the company (in consultation) without looking at the board. The game lasted an hour, and during that time he sat at the piano playing continuously from memory excerpts from the great writers for that instrument and directing the movements of his chessmen on the unseen board.
In addition, he maintained a conversation.

GO TO THE RESCUE.

Don't Wait Till It's Too Late—Follow the Example of a Pendleton Citizen.
Rescue the aching back.
If it keeps on aching, trouble comes. Backache is kidney ache.
If you neglect the kidneys' warning Look out for urinary trouble—Habit.
This Pendleton citizen will show you how to go to the rescue.
G. W. Knight, 513 Franklin street, Pendleton, Oregon, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills benefited me so greatly that I do not hesitate to recommend them. For eight or ten years I was troubled with pains across my back and kidneys and at times my loins and sides were affected. I had to get up several times at night to pass the kidney secretions and at times noticed sediment in them. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved my aches and pains in a short time and corrected the trouble with the kidney secretions."

version with others present in the room, who, in the words of the Rev. John Hampton, the warden, "did all they could to detract him, but without success." When the game was finished Sir Walter, who was the victor, explained that while playing chess and the piano, and engaged in animated conversation, he had also been speculating on other matters.
"DEAD" MAN COMES BACK.
French Police in a Quandary Over the Return of Convict.
Paris.—The Marseilles police are puzzled at a curious mixup which they are trying to solve in the face of rigid red tape. Joseph Edel, a convict, returned from one of the penal settlements, died in a hospital in the southern city. A few weeks later the police arrested Joseph Edel in the main street of Marseilles. The man who had died in the hospital and escaped from the convict settlement having stolen Joseph Edel's papers.
The police are now in a quandary. Joseph Edel has been arrested, and ought to go to prison for returning to a country which does not want him, but legally Edel is dead and buried and may commit any crime he likes, including murder, without fear of punishment, for, being dead, he is beyond the reach of the law.
The police are now trying to have the death certificate altered, but this will be a lengthy process, and mean while they will be obliged to set their "dead" prisoner, the real Joseph Edel at liberty.

FUX WITH ROOSEVELT AT LONDON MUSIC HALL
London.—It has been the established custom of the London musical comedies and music halls to poke fun at the English politicians, but such a frank and brutal roasting as Colonel Roosevelt gets in the new "revue" at the Empire Theatre is possibly unprecedented on the English stage. His every characteristic—his speechifying, hunting, teeth, strenuousness, are all grossly caricatured in a manner that calls for the unrestrained laughter of the crowds flocking to the Empire nightly.
The first scene in the "revue" called "Hallo, People," is laid in the Zoo, where Colonel Roosevelt enters in a weird suit and a sombrero made of the American flag and proceeds to tell everybody how to run their own business. Here is an example of the dialogue. Roosevelt says:
"You gave me the freedom of the city."
"Why," answers Valli Valli, "I thought you took it."
"How?" ejaculates Roosevelt.
"By making the Guild Hall speech."
Whereupon the English audience vociferously applauds.
