STUDENTS DO HARVESTING.
College Men in Denmark Make Lark of Work in Fields.
Copenhagen.—Copying the example of Western American students, ambitious young Danes have of late years, undertaken harvest work in the summer vacation. But this year they have a step further in organizing a bureau at the University of Copenhagen for regulating the supply and demand.
No longer the student tramps from farm to farm in search of work. The farmers send in their statement of the number of hands required and the bureau allots the men for the work. The Danish harvest lasts about a month, and the farmers have found the dusty college men are just the help they need for speedy crop lifting. At first only the students with no coin in their jeans undertook the work; now there is a rush for health and harvesting by all grades of college men.

There is the more favor shown to the high class farm help because of a high thieving scheme has just been exposed at Aarhus, where the grain trade is handled by lower grade workers. Two foremen and several assistants of a local grain company are awaiting trial for wholesale robbery. The plan was to run an independent concern to which they sent wagons of stolen grain every day. For a long time this did not excite suspicion, for the grain entrusted to them amounted to a big total. The investigation is still continuing, but it is clear a huge sum is involved.

Insane Man Attacks Pedestrians.
Madrid.—At Canillas de Acetuno the other day a man named Antonio Jimenez suddenly went mad, and attacked people in the street with a large knife. He killed an old man, a woman carrying a child and a young girl, and he injured many others. The greatest consternation prevailed, and people fled in every direction. He was not overpowered until after a most desperate struggle.
Anyway, the man who chloroforms you and cuts out your appendix doesn't stab you in the back.

MILTON PEOPLE ARE HELD FOR KIDNAPING

Shell Hopkins Charges That Mr. and Mrs. John Woods Took His Children Away from Family With Which He Had Left Them—Arrests Are Made—Trial Next Saturday.

(Special Correspondence.)
Milton, Ore., July 19.—Warrants were sworn out this morning before Justice J. L. Miller, charging Mr. and Mrs. John Woods with kidnaping. The charge was preferred by Shell Hopkins, a son-in-law. It seems that Mr. Hopkins, whose wife is dead, went away to harvest and before going left two of his children at the Neils McCracken home and two with Paul Young at the power plant. As soon as he had gone Mrs. Woods went and took the former two and also tried to get the two at Young's, but was refused. As soon as Mr. Hopkins heard he returned to Milton, secured Constable Terwilliger, went to the Woods home and got the children. The arrests followed.

All the parties live up the Walla Walla river. Trial was set at Milton next Saturday in Alliance hall. Prosecuting Attorney Phelps of Pendleton having charge of it.

Miss Summerville of Pendleton, is a guest at the H. M. Cockburn home in Milton this week.

Mrs. M. Mahoney and daughter, Katherine have gone to Athena to be absent several weeks.

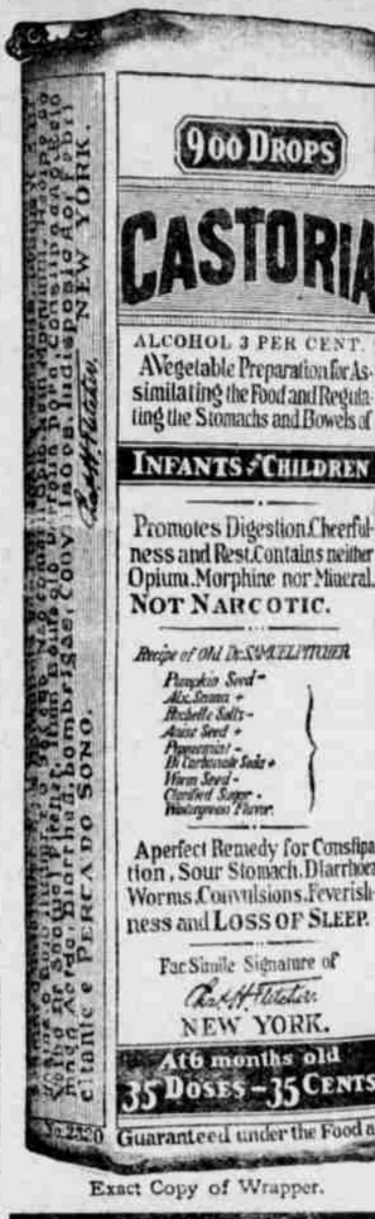

Mr. J. E. Cherry left for La Grande this morning on business.

The families of Drayman Smith, A. E. McKnight and N. T. Mansel will go to the mountains tomorrow for the summer.

Mrs. Jack Hatcott was taken to the sanitarium at College Place to have an abscess removed from her side.

WOMAN CLAIMS TO BE MRS. JACK JOHNSON

New York.—A new scheme has been devised to separate Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, from his coin. "Mrs. John Arthur Johnson," a young white woman, now staying at the Hotel Albany, is preparing to enter suit for divorce and $50,000 "heart balm" against the champion. The woman, who says she was formerly Hattie McCray of Philadelphia, is having her honor paid and cause championed by George Little, Johnson's former manager, who fell out with Johnson. The woman has not produced any marriage certificate. Johnson declared it just another of Little's efforts to injure him. The McCray woman isn't the one who was office ran in Sydney. Then along came the Prince of Wales (now King George), to find all the New South Wales reception arrangements in the hands of this cool tactful secretary. There was no hitch of any kind, and the prince asked if he would care to take royal service. The following year the Australian was made a groom of the bedchamber, and now he is the right-hand man of a queen whose forcefulness and energy will surely give him scope for his executive capacity.

ALFALFA IS CURE-ALL.

Condensed Healing Element Soothes Tired Nerves.
Los Angeles, Cal.—Alfalfa, hitherto holder of a plebeian price in the food scheme, is destined to become a comprehensive medicative and reme-fries and drowned his sorrow in so many tall ones that the cobras came to get him. The condensed-hay expert beat 'em to it and cured the victim so effectively that now he shudders at sight of even a dog, if the dog is a growler.

Tobacco chewing, gloomy thoughts of suicide, insomnia and a host of other undesirable things fade away like the mists of the morning under the soothing influence of a few forkfuls of alfalfa done up in a tablet.

with him at Reno. She is still with him.
The woman in support of her claim that Johnson is her lawful husband, showed a rare collection of photographs of the "Big Smoke's" letters and telegrams. Unfortunately the wedding certificate, she says, Johnson cruelly carried off when he deserted her.
The woman declares she met Johnson in August, 1907, at Marshall's Cafe, Philadelphia. She went with him to Atlantic City where they were married September 25. She says she lived with Johnson until December 30, 1909, and saw all his fights, including the battle with Burns. Then he deserted her, she avows. As further proof of her love, she says she "hung up" family jewels and plate to send Johnson abroad when he was "broke."

ment that will put all others in the shade, according to Dr. Marian N. Clark, who announces the discovery of remarkable curative properties in the plant and blossoms.
Her idea already carried out on a small scale and suggested by the medical industry, is to electrolyze the alfalfa and condense its healing elements to vest-pocket size—a haystack of medicine in a tiny tablet.
Dr. Clark proudly recounts many instances of cures with the condensed alfalfa juice many nervous ailments from delirium tremens to "that tired feeling."
One of these was the aggravated case of a Reno sport, who bet on Jef-engagements. The great pianist's health is always so unreliable that he is heavily insured both for "life" and against loss of business. His hands alone have been "covered" for as much as 10,000 pounds.

Apart from his chronic neuritis, Paderewski has been extremely unfortunate in the matter of ill-health.

RISE HAS BEEN RAPID.

Queen Mary's Secretary Comes to Front From Obscurity.
London.—When King George made his famous tour of the British colonies he came across a smart organizer in Australia named Edward Wallington, and made a note of him. Today Wallington is installed as private secretary to Queen Mary, a billet that needs plenty of tact and diplomatic finesse to make its running a success.
Born 56 years ago, he is comparatively new to court life. It was while Earl Carrington, the new Lord Chamberlain, was governor-general of New South Wales that Wallington started his private secretariat experience, for Carrington saw there was grit in him and gave him confidential work. After that he was private secretary in succession to Lord Brassey, Sir Thomas Fowell Buxton, Lord Tennyson and Lord Hopetoun, when their periods of
