ANNOUNCES OWN DEATH.

Man Was to Fool His Absent Wife But Falls to Work.

New York.—It isn't every man who has the privilege of reading his own death notice written by himself, says the American. The distinction belongs to John H. Buttle, an insurance broker of Brooklyn, living at present at 307 West Forty-sixth street, Manhattan. Yesterday in one of the morning papers there appeared the following.

BUTTLE.—Suddenly, July 14, 1916, John H. Buttle, 40 years old, at 259 Madison street, Brooklyn. Notice of funeral hereafter. Please omit flowers. Canadian papers please copy. Was His Own Scheme.

The notice was insterted by Buttle himself. Yesterday his friends, who read it went around and said: "Poor John." Several persons who would have sent flowers to show their respect for his memory, regretted his request that they refrain from so doing.

Buttle was dead as a mackerel to his friends until a call was made at No. 259 Madison street. This is the home of W. H. Buttle, father of the supposed dead man. There was no crepe on the door and no evidence of mourning. Neither was there any show of grief at the wooden house of W. H. Buttle, No. 63 Leonard street, Manhattan.

Plan Didn't Work.

Mr. Buttle was found last night. He was alive and not inclined to be communicative, but explained that his desire was to reach the eyes of his wife with the advertisement. She is in Canada, and has, according to the husband, been away six months on a visit to her sister, Mrs. George B. Ross, in Glengary, N. W. territory. She has shown no inclination to return home, and Buttle believed if she heard he was dead she would come back. If he could fool her into returning under the belief that he was dead, he felt sure he could induce her to remain.

Just why Mrs. Buttle would return to the dead husband when she would not come back to a live one was not explained. Mr. Buttle admitted that his strategic plan of campaign has not been a great success and he feared the Canadian papers might not "copy."

His Usual Vigor Restored.

W. H. Fleming, Litchfield, Ill., suffered with kidney and bladder trouble until he took Foley Kidney Pills. "For more than a year I had backaches and pains across my kidneys. I had also had spells of nervousness which left me exhausted and worn out. Foley Kidney Pills recommended to me and after taking them I soon noticed a nimpvement. After some time I found my backaches all gone, my kidneys and back strengthened, tired spells left me and I again feel my usual vigor restored. The nervousness has been overcome and I feel much better in every respect." Koepfen and Bros.

THE MAJOR'S VALUE.

General W. H. Lemon of the Grand Army of the Republic, was recounting at a dinner at Lawrence, Kan., tales of the civil war, says the Minneapolis Journal.

"Major Banks," he said smiling, "was a pompous chap. The boys had a good deal of fun over his exchange. "It seems that on a very dark night a stalwart Confederate took the major prisoner. This fact, together with the prisoner's return to the camp, was signalled to headquarters tersely. "Major Banks, captured during night march, exchanged later for two plugs of tobacco."

Confessed a Bit Too Soon.

Chicago.—Benjamin Bianco watched the clock in Judge Barne's courtroom for an hour and a half the other day. Imagining every minute that the jury was getting nearer and nearer a verdict in his trial on a charge of stealing $1000 worth of clothing. And then, just as the first juror made his appearance in the doorway, Bianco leaped to his feet and told the judge he was guilty. He was sentenced to five months in Bridewell.

When Bianco had been led from the courtroom the verdict was opened just for curiosity, and it read, "Not guilty."

But it was too late to help Bianco.
