AUGUST.

Welcome month of the bursting crops,
Of the glowing suns and the rich ripe fruit,
Month of the startle languorous nights,
With their air as soft as a lover's kiss,
Where bursting life calms to quiet joy,
When rest and living are both staid;
Welcome, days of earth's rich rewards,
Month of the Harvest Moon.

From your hayfields come up the strong, sweet smells,
Filling the lazy, amber air,
With a drowsy sense of a perfect peace,
And the soft, fresh, subtle perfume care,
When the toil of summer is ending fast,
Bringing along the crops' fall boon,
Then does your golden glory shine,
Month of the Harvest Moon.

Reigning Queen of the summer time,
The golden grain in your sceptered hand,
The garnered labor of all the year
Springing to wealth at your command,
Come with your blessings and mirth and cheer,
Your glowing flowers and bird's soft croon,
With the lads' and the lassies' merry dance
Month of the Harvest Moon.

HE CANNOT UPHOLD BOTH.

In the nominating petition he has filed with the secretary of state Jay Bowerman, assembly nominee for governor says he believes in the assembly system and in the direct primary law.

How can he? If he favors the assembly system how can he also uphold the direct primary. The two systems are diametrically opposed. The assembly plan calls for the nomination of men in conventions—in conventions that may be picked and manipulated in behalf of certain men and certain interests just as the recent convention was controlled.

The direct primary plan calls for an open race in which all may enter upon an equal footing. The law specifies that all men may have equal opportunities to seek office and the law specifically prescribes that nominations shall no longer be made in conventions. The law was enacted by the people because they had become tired of the convention plan for the reason that experience had proven that did not go to the best men but to the shrewdest and busiest manipulators. Also because under the system it was easy for special interests to wield undue influence in political affairs.

Jay Bowerman and everybody else knows that the assembly system is in direct conflict with the spirit and the letter of the direct primary. If the assembly wins out the life will be taken out of the direct primary. It will be left an empty shell—a mockery. This being the case Mr. Bowerman's profession of friendship for the direct primary cannot be accepted as sincere. It is plain that he gives it but a surface endorsement and that he does this for political reasons. He professes to uphold the law because it is a popular law and it would not do to openly oppose it.

Republicans who really believe in the direct primary and want their party to observe that law in spirit and in letter will have nothing to do with Bowerman.

JUDGE BEAN'S CANDIDACY.

The announcement that Circuit Judge Henry J. Bean will enter the race for the republican nomination for supreme judge in opposition to Wallace McCamant is welcome and interesting. His candidacy will be halled with joy by those who do not want to see the supreme court of Oregon packed with corporation lawyers and his candidacy will be especially pleasing to Judge Bean's many friends and supporters in this section of the state.

The nomination of McCamant for supreme judge was one of the most objectionable steps taken by the Portland assembly. For years Wallace McCamant has been a corporation attorney and if the reputation he has acquired fits his character then he is so prejudiced and so partisan in his views that he is manifestly unfit to sit upon the highest judicial tribunal in this state. For many years he has been a trusty co-worker with Joe Simon and as such he was formerly bitterly denounced by the Oregonian. In view of McCamant's record it seems strange he should have been nominated even by the assembly. He was evidently named while the assemblymen and their corporation backers were "drunk with sight of power." Had they used more judgment they would have chosen a man upon whom the corporation brand is less distinct.

Judge Bean stands out in pleasing contrast with McCamant. As a citizen, practitioner and judge and as a resident of Pendleton for many years Judge Bean has been singularly free from those things that tend to impair a man's usefulness as a public official. During the four years he has been upon the circuit bench he has served with dignity and ability. His standing at this time is such as to make him a fit man to seek the high honor of membership on the supreme bench of this state. It is the belief of the East Oregonian that he will be enthusiastically supported by the people of this judicial district and that he stands an excellent chance of being nominated at the republican primaries.

YOUNG MEN BEHIND IT.

When the frontier celebration association was formally organized last night the officers and directors were chosen from the younger business and professional men of the city. J. R. Raley, a young man is at the head of the affair and practically every one of the 15 officers and directors were chosen from what is commonly called the "young bunch."

Being intrusted with the success of the enterprise it is now up to the young men to make good. That they will do this is insured by the enthusiasm and energy with which they have started upon the work. The frontier celebration was originated by the young men and they have been the moving spirits back of it from the very start. They are going to make this affair a success and a greater success than most people dream of.

Now let everybody get in and work and boost for a rousing district fair and the greatest frontier celebration ever held in the west.

"Rueben Rusticus," who, by the way, is a man who believes in and practices up to date farming, wants a parade during the district fair. He believes it would be of benefit to have a parade and to have floats symbolical of the industries of this section. Surely he has made a good suggestion and one that the fair board will do well to consider.

The Oregonian now says the issue in Oregon is Bourne and not the assembly. But that is a far fetched plea especially so since Senator Bourne is not a candidate before the people at the coming election. The assembly is the chief issue of the election and the Oregonian cannot get away from it however much it may wish to do so.

For a midsummer meeting the gathering at the Commercial club last night was a good one. Though it is August the meeting was characterized by spring time enthusiasm.

If all the middle west goes as Iowa and Kansas have gone Joe Cannon will occupy a seat in the rear of the house of representatives next winter.

"I was a polar bear once."
"Where?"
"At a funeral."
"You mean a pall bearer. What kind of language do you talk, anyway?"
"I make my own language."
"What is it that makes day and night anyway?"
"Well, you see the earth turns around on an axle."
"Do you mean to say that the earth turns around and around?"
"Yes, what are you laughing at?"
"I was just thinking how funny it would be if the axle got rusty and the earth stopped."
"Why, the axle couldn't get rusty, they keep it oiled all the time."
"Where do they oil it, in China?"
"No, in Greece."

THE GIRL WHO HAS FRIENDS.

The girl with many men friends is distinctly a very modern product. Our grandmothers most certainly were never permitted to indulge in friendships with any masculine creature—even had they wished to do so. The young men of those days were either beaux or nothing, and although to the mingled horror and envy of her feminine companions—a belle sometimes indulged in the luxury of two beaux to her strings!—yet would fair brows have arched themselves indeed had either proposed to be merely her friend!

And the last generation really progressed very little.

Let him show the smallest inclination for the society of the mammas of today, and the grandpapas were prone to want to know "what are your intentions, young man?" and on learning there were none, short shift did the youth receive!

But the girl of today has indeed changed all that. She has men friends galore, and it is difficult to say whether she or they profit most by the friendship.

Sometimes, of course, they become her lovers, and then someone has to suffer; yet it would be as wise to live in a cellar for fear of sunstroke as to avoid friendship between the sexes simply lest it end in unrequited love!

Men, unless blinded by Master Cupid, are excellent judges of a woman's character. The girl with many men friends is first of all a nice girl.

She is assuredly unselfish, for man is an egotistical animal, and finds nothing for very long as interesting as himself. The girl who wants to talk about her own interests and hopes will not be popular!

The girl with many men friends has the gift of sympathy. She may know but little of the world and its hardships and temptations, yet the precious gift of sympathy will dower her with the power to understand and console.

And her manner is delightful—this maid with many men friends.

She isn't pleasant and charming because it would be ill-bred to be the reverse—but simply because she is pleasant and charming, and to be anything else would be quite foreign to her nature. Not that she is a saint! To be that would mean a lack of character that certainly would win her nothing.

Curiously enough, in one way—although it is easily understood in another girl—the girl with many men friends rarely marries young.

Her friendships satisfy her, and, indeed, her life is invariably so full and happy that it is small wonder that the little archer finds her a somewhat difficult mark.

But when love does come she is just as much under his thrall as any pretty schoolgirl who has scarcely spoken to a man.

And although they will regard her glance with mingled wrath and envy and loudly proclaim his absolute unworthiness, not one of the friends of the girl with many but will rejoice in the happiness that has come to crown her life.—Selected.

A WONDERFUL WOMAN.

(From Pittsburg, Pa., Leader, July 17, 1910.)

There was nothing to startle the world in the brief item of news that came out of Brookline, Mass., yesterday, announcing that Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder and leader of the Christian Science denomination, was quietly observing the eighty-eighth anniversary of her birth, surrounded by a few friends at her modest home.

The item itself was characteristic of the subject. Probably Mrs. Eddy herself would have preferred that nothing at all be said about it.

But there is a great deal in the plain fact that this remarkable woman is now rounding out her ninetieth year, of which the people everywhere may well take note.

Seldom do we have a subject more replete with valuable suggestion, enabling inspiration, or general uplift.

Mrs. Eddy stands among the foremost women of her time and generation. Whether or not we subscribe to the doctrine which she has founded and maintained, we cannot take from the credit which rightfully accrues through her position as one of the world's workers, as one who has been devoted to the welfare of others, who has all but given her life to the cause of humanity.

By the sheer force of her personality, her untiring energy, and unflinching faith in the correctness of her beliefs, this woman has succeeded in doing what tens of thousands of men fail to do.

Under her leadership and wise counsel a religion which must be classed among the principal faiths of civilized nations has taken root, and is in a most flourishing condition.

Its devotees are as earnest and sincere and as eager for the advancement of humanity toward the ultimate goal as those of any other religion.

Hundreds of thousands of believers have found comfort in the teachings of Mrs. Eddy. Men and women, racked with physical and mental pain, have found peace under the soothing influence of the Christian Science doctrines.

They have built up a great and influential property, they have made themselves a factor in the progress of the nation and they have made the world easier to know more about the wonderful woman who has been their inspiration through it all.

She appears to the observer as one who has been inspired with a mission to bring salvation into a sin-ridden world. To her, self-sacrifice seemed an acceptable portion, and wherever it has been required or her she has made it willingly and cheerfully.

Throughout it all she has been moved by a single desire—to do something for suffering humanity and to advance the spiritual welfare of the people.

Where is it possible to find any greater work than this?

S. S. S. A BOTANICAL BLOOD REMEDY

Nature in her wisdom and beneficence has provided, in her great vegetable kingdom, a cure for most of the ills and ailments of humanity. Work and study have perfected the compounding of these botanical medicines and placed them at our disposal. We rely on them first because of their ability in curing disease, and next because we can use them with the confidence that such remedies do not injure the system as do the strong mineral concoctions. Among the very best of these botanical preparations is S. S. S., a medicine made entirely of roots, herbs and barks in such combination as to make it the greatest of all blood purifiers and safest of all tonics. It does not contain the least particle of harmful mineral to injuriously affect any of the delicate parts of the system. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, or any blood affection or disease even reaching down and cleansing the circulation of all inherited blood troubles. As a tonic S. S. S. is unequalled. It builds up the system in the proper way, by purifying the blood and supplying a sufficient amount of vigor and nourishment to the body. If you are suffering with any blood trouble, or are in any way run-down in health, you could not do better than take S. S. S., a purely botanical blood remedy. It cures without ever leaving any unpleasant or injurious effects. It is perfectly safe for young or old. Book on the blood free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Mrs. Eddy's life has been one of constant effort for her fellow beings. She has had no selfish aims to attain, no unworthy aims to accomplish, no ulterior motives to shield with the cloak of religion.

Everything was done for others, and when she has finally passed to her reward those who are left behind will reap the full benefit of her labor of love.

Mrs. Eddy is a staunch advocate of prayer. She believes in the efficacy of prayer, and upon this belief the religion she has founded leans more strongly than anything else.

Belief in the efficacy of prayer is a strong pillar in all the best known religions today.

But Mrs. Eddy and her followers, perhaps, exemplify this belief to a greater degree than is done by the people of other denominations.

From a handful of original supporters Mrs. Eddy increased the number until the Christian Scientists are now a power in the religious world. They met with many rebuffs. Critics were not sparing of the tender-hearted woman's feelings, and who can tell the pain she must have felt when the sharp thrusts of the public lance often reached their mark?

But she was resolute and undaunted. She was firmly founded in her belief, and she heeded not what her detractors said of her or her ideas.

Mrs. Eddy worked and prayed on. At times it seemed that the discouragements with which she met must in the end be too severe for a frail woman, but she conquered them all. It is Mrs. Eddy's faith that affords the world the most inspiring example in connection with her career. She could not acknowledge defeat.

She believed that a Supreme Being was the rock on which everything else was founded, and that so long as she could cling to the rock no harm could come to her or her work.

That is what has made Mrs. Eddy one of the world's greatest women. No other attribute is so marked as that of unswerving faith in her principles and in the mission which she was sent into the world to perform.

Mrs. Eddy will not be classed as great in the same manner as other women of her time. She has not filled the public mind with those things that are of earth earthy.

Hers is a greatness of love, of heart, of mind, of faith, of all the higher elements that are too often crushed beneath the overpowering weight of mundane things.

She will always be known as the contemporary of such magnificent women and world's workers as Harriet Beecher Stowe, Queen Victoria, Jane Addams, Helen Gould and their kind of which there are few.

Who can estimate the real value of such a woman's work? It is as illimitable as the universe itself.

Herself the staunchest advocate of continued prayer, Mrs. Eddy doubtless will be the subject of thousands of fervent petitions to the throne of grace at this time.

And the burden of these prayers will be that her useful life may be spared to the people for other anniversaries such as that which took place at Brookline yesterday.
