NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

New Town in Harney.

Burns, Or.—The Hill people have a party of surveyors working at the Narrows, 20 miles south of here. They have run a line from near Bend to connect with the survey they made last winter through Malheur pass. The town of Narrows is on the main line surveyed through this valley by the Hill interests and several prominent men, who seem to know what they are doing, have purchased property in and around the town of Narrows. The location for a city here is the best in the valley, as it is on high ground and water can be brought from the Blitzen river for city use, while the water of the lake can be used for irrigation. Several Portland men have land interests near the town of Narrows.

Aberdeen, Wash.—John Heitla, a Finnish laborer in the employ of Joe Tiefenthaler, a contractor, received fatal injuries through the cave-in of a cellar he was digging Wednesday. SENDS TELEGRAM TO DOG TO MEET HIM AT TRAIN

Portland, Or.—Telegraphing his dog to meet him at the train upon his arrival home was the stunt of Frank G. Micelli of Roseburg, Or., who has spent the week in Portland. The owner missed his faithful friend, who is named Dan, and so sent the following telegram:

"Dan Micelli, Roseburg, Or.—Please meet me at the 9 o'clock train to-night.—Frank G. Micelli."

Everyone in Roseburg knows Dan and the telegram was delivered promptly. W. Worthington conveyed the message to the dog, who seemingly understood. Doubters are cited to the fact that the dog was on hand at the station when Mr. Micelli arrived, wagging his tail expectantly, and he was overjoyed to see his master once more.

Mr. Micelli has refused $300 for Dan and says he would not part with him for any sum.

Library Notes

Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians.

The last volume of this remarkable encyclopedia rather than dictionary of music has arrived. It has all the important as well as the interesting though unimportant details about songs and their singers. Do you want to know the origin of Yankee Doodle or who the girl was to whom Schubert wrote his wonderful love songs, or are you trying to find all the works of Grieg, or where was the "Wearing of the Green" first sung? You will find these questions answered in full, even the score of the music is given. Portraits of all the great musicians, illustrations whenever necessary are inserted.

The physical make-up of the volume is good. The paper has uncut edges, it is smooth but not glaring to the eyes, the type is clear, and well spaced, the volumes are not too large to be clumsy.

It is to be hoped that lovers of music will find their way to these volumes and make them worth their buying.

WANT U. S. TROOPS TO HELP PRESERVE FORESTS

Spokane, Wash.—President Taft, as commander-in-chief of the army, and Secretary of War Dickinson have been requested by the Western Pine Manufacturers' association, of which J. P. McGoldrick of Spokane, is president, acting in behalf of timber owners, lumbermen and settlers in the northwestern and Pacific states, to station government troops in the national forest reservations from May 1 to September 30 of each year, to the end that the timber resources of the United States may be saved from destruction.

"The fire losses in the forests in the western states during the last 60 days will amount to at least $150,000,000," said George M. Cornwall of Portland, Or., who presented a resolution embodying the foregoing at the semi-annual meeting of the association, "and it is likely that in addition millions of dollars worth of timber will be destroyed during this and next month, unless heavy rains come before the end of the dry season."

Statistics compiled by A. W. Cooper, secretary of the Western Pine Manufacturers' association, show that fully 50 per cent of the standing timber in the United States is located in Washington, Idaho, Montana, Oregon and California, where fire patrols are maintained by lumbermen's associations and the state departments. They however, are inadequate to cope with the fire element.

A Serious Matter.

LONG LOST SON.

After Fourteen Years of Continual Effort, Mother Finds Boy.

Spokane, Wash.—After being separated from her only child for more than 14 years, seeing him last when he was a babe in arms, Mrs. Harvey L. Harrington of Spokane, has gone to Dubuque, Iowa, to claim her son and bring him to her new home at Salmon Meadows, Idaho, where she taught school last season. Mrs. Harrington has been in the Northwest since 1897, teaching school in various parts of Montana, Oregon, Idaho and Washington.

Just before boarding a train in Spokane for Burlington, Iowa, Mrs. Harrington said, while tears of gladness and anticipation rolled down her cheeks, that her fondest hope of years was about to be realized. Within a few days she will be reunited with her son, who has no remembrance of his mother.

Mrs. Harrington's story has its pathetic side. Separated from her child by strife which disrupted her home life in Iowa in 1896, she came to Washington and taught school in this and neighboring states. Her husband married the second time and died a few months later. The step-mother placed the boy in an orphan's asylum soon afterward, when all trace of the child was lost to the mother.

"The search was long and trying at times," Mrs. Harrington said, "but I never lost faith. I knew I would find my child, I admit I was disheartened when I could find no clue to his whereabouts; but something seemed to tell me that my search would be rewarded, so I continued to work and hope for 14 years."

"Only a few days ago I was advised that my son, now 15 years of age, is in Dubuque and I am going there to him as fast as steam can carry me. We are coming back to the west to make our home among my friends who encouraged and assisted me when I needed their cheering words most. I owe much to the people of the Northwest, and I know, too, that they will rejoice with me in my happiness."

PRINCESS MARY PRESENTS "THE ALEXANDRA BOW"

London.—Princess Mary, the only daughter of King George and Queen Mary, shows more than any of her five brothers, more even than the Prince of Wales, how seriously she esteems the new dignities of her position. She was born in April, 1897, so that she is rapidly approaching young womanhood, but up to the ascension of her father to the throne, she was in every respect a simple child.

Now, however, she is assuming the habits of the "grown up," and when she appears in public shows that she has given much attention to the cultivation of that sweeping elegance, which is known as "the Alexandra bow."

This innocent little assumption of the grand air is all the more noteworthy because Princess Mary has been brought up on the principles of domestic simplicity. She has also been taught the good habit of thrift and economy and it used to be no unusual scene to see her depositing her savings in the postoffice opposite Marlborough House. The banking business is conducted now by a lady of the court.
