NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

Walla Walla Needs Help.
Walla Walla, Wash.—For the first time this year farmers are complaining of a scarcity of labor, and some of the agriculturists are having difficulty in keeping their harvest crews filled, they state. There are fewer idle men on the streets of the city than at any previous harvest ever known, owing to the activity of the police in keeping vagrants moving, and of the farmers taking every opportunity to snap up available men.

However, according to the most conservative farmers, there is no danger of a labor shortage in the valley and they believe enough help will keep drifting through to make record time in taking care of the grain this fall.

Wheat closed Saturday sluggish and inactive, with few sales made. Much grain was offered at the 90-cent figure, but buyers did not seem anxious to snap it up. One sale of new club at 83 cents was recorded, 7900 bushels going at this figure. The first of the week is expected to tone the market up and much activity is expected.

Accidentally Kills Kinsman.
Roseburg, Or.—R. L. Sears, a Southern Pacific brakeman, of Los Angeles, Cal., died at Mercy hospital, in this city, Sunday morning from a bullet wound inflicted by his brother-in-law, W. R. Young of Grants Pass during a fishing trip Saturday afternoon on Rogue river, four miles west of Merlin, Josephine county. Sears a few hours before his death wrote letters to his mother and sister explaining that the shooting was accidental.

The two men were testing the triggers of revolvers which they bought Friday, and Young's weapon, unknown to him, was loaded. With the muzzle pointed directly at his relative, Young discharged the revolver and the bullet entered the region of Sears' abdomen, piercing the intestines in four places. The northbound overland train, No. 16, brought him to this city, in company with his wife, to whom he was married only a year ago, and their infant daughter.

Two Boys Are Drowned.
Bellingham, Wash.—Julius Jacobson, 16, and Joseph Beneth, 19, were drowned at Doe Bay, a summer resort on Orcas Island, across Bellingham Bay, Sunday evening, through the sinking of a small boat. The crew of a launch rescued Andrew Twest, aged 14, by diving. He was taken ashore unconscious and resuscitated. The bodies of the two drowned youths were not recovered, having been swept out to sea.

Slides Down Mt. Hood.
Hood River, Or.—Dr. W. S. Nichol, of Hood River, while climbing Mount Hood Sunday, lost his footing and after sliding down the mountain a long distance, succeeded in stopping just before reaching the edge of a high precipice. He was slightly injured.

Indians Go Berrying.
Huson, Wash.—Numerous Indians are passing through town daily on their way to the huckleberry fields west of Trout lake. They travel horseback and in hacks, while several cayuses follow the different parties to be used as pack horses when the berries are brought back to market. The bucks and squaws as a rule are garbed in gaily colored costumes, decked with glittering beads and gaudy ribbons.

This is the Indians' summer outing, when races, pow-wows, dances and games reign supreme near the huckleberry patches for the next two months. As many as 1500 Indians will visit the berry fields before the season is over, most of them hailing from the Yakima and Umatilla reservations.

Opium Fiend Drops Dead.
Roseberry, Idaho.—Quite a little excitement was caused at the town of McGill last week by the death of a Chinaman.

He was a cook at a hotel and had gone to the butcher shop for meat and as he stepped out of the door dropped to the ground. Before anyone could reach him he was dead. It is supposed that too much opium was the cause.

CROPS BETTER THAN THEY ARE REPORTED

SO SAYS OFFICIAL OF AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT

D. E. Stephens, Executive Assistant in Grain Investigation on Tour of the Coast Declares Prospects Are Better Than Reported—Wheat Crop Falls in Montana.

Spokane, Wash.—"Prospects for grain are much better than noted in the reports sent broadcast from various points in the west," said D. E. Stephens, executive assistant in grain investigation of the department of agriculture, who is in Spokane from Washington, D. C., on a tour of Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California and Texas to investigate the needs of farmers in the semi-arid districts and the requirements of the experiment stations established by the federal government in the northwestern and Pacific states.

"Throughout Montana the wheat crop is fair," Dr. Stephens said. "It is better a distance from the railroads than alongside of the rights-of-way. It is particularly good in the Gallatin valley, where one field I saw will yield 50 bushels to the acre. Most of the farmers there are tilling the soil in the right way. The valley has little rainfall generally and this year it was lower than usual, and yet the crops are as good as almost anywhere. Farmers near Poudre Basin also will make from 30 to 40 bushels to the acre.

"Farmers in the humid districts are finding that dry farming is successful. In Minnesota, for example, the northwestern part suffered from severe drought, but in districts where dry farming was practiced the farmers report good crops. Farmers everywhere are learning that it pays to till the soil thoroughly even in wet seasons, while doing so during seasons of drought it insures a crop."

Mr. Stephens had a conference with John T. Burns, secretary of the Dry Farming congress, during his stay in Spokane and promised he would "boost" for the fifth session of that organization in this city, October 3 to 6, on his trip through the Northwestern and Pacific states, saying also that the educational side of the big convention of farmers and the exposition of dry farmed products are of greater value than can be measured in dollars and cents.

RECORD HAY SALE IS MADE AT WALLA WALLA

Walla Walla, Wash.—Thirteen hundred tons of alfalfa hay, the pooled crops of several Gardena and Touchet farmers, sold here for $16,900, or $13 a ton. Two records are broken, it being the largest hay deal ever closed here, and the price being the best ever had here at this time of the year. The pool represented first and second crops.

The crop for the year is estimated at 15,000 tons, which at the above price will mean nearly $225,000.

Although the first crop of alfalfa was not as large as had been expected, the second cutting is making ample amends for the first deficit. Seldom has there been a heavier cutting than that now being taken from the fields, and the farmers who are engaged in alfalfa raising feel sure of a big crop on the last cuttings.

The first crop was much shorter than usual, and the severe, long drawn out winter is blamed for this. The long cold spell seemed to stunt the growth in nearly every field, and the second crop came so quickly and so profusely that the winter theory seems the correct one.

On some of the farms in the warmer parts of the valley the second crop has been put in the stack, and there is already a good growth on the third. If this comes along as well as the second there seems a probability of being four good crops this year. All expect the first should be heavy, and the yield will probably prove larger than that of last year.

SOCIETY QUITS LONDON.

Shutters Are Pulled Down in Fashionable West End.

London.—From the viewpoint of the society chronicler the world's metropolis will soon be empty. Members of the social swim disperse to the various continental cures at the close of Cowes week, while others go to the north of Britain for shooting and fishing. Then London's West End puts the shutters up.

One of the most memorable events of the latter part of the season was the entertainment given by Mrs. Miller Graham, the wealthy Californian, noted for her cotillions. This was a dinner party to 41 guests followed by a concert at 41 Grosvenor Square, a great London mansion Mrs. Graham has rented from Lord Nunburnholme. The rooms were beautified by an abundance of flowers, hydrangeas and ramblers being conspicuous in the scheme of floral decoration.

Mingling with the British aristocrats of the social swim, Mrs. Newhouse, Mrs. Anthony Drexel, Mrs. Newhouse, Mrs. Ronalds and Mrs. Frank Mackay. Over a hundred more guests augmented the company after dinner to see Mordkin and Pavlova, the famous Russian dancers, who had been engaged for the occasion.

Among New Yorkers who were in London before the season officially closed were Joseph Widener and wife, Stevenson Scott, Judge W. Gerard and wife, Judge and Mrs. E. H. Gary, E. E. Stewart, E. W. Longfellow, J. E. Fisher, Jr., Mrs. J. E. Fisher, Miss Fisher, David F. Manning and party, E. B. Springs, B. S. Castles, William T. Hardy, B. R. Baldwin, H. R. Gray, George R. Palmer and wife, R. Reynolds, Mrs. Boynton Moore and daughter, Michael Furst, Victor A. Young, J. S. Fassett and Mrs. A. W. Comstock.

Other Americans who have recently tested London's pleasure facilities include Hoge Patterson and wife, of Philadelphia; Sidney S. Conrad, of Boston; Edward L. Brooks and wife of Cincinnati; E. M. Kemp and party of Chicago; Mrs. S. L. Bartlett, of Boston; Miss M. Rhodes, of Chicago; Frank H. Stewart of Boston; Joseph Rose of San Francisco; George P. Whitell, of Norfolk, of Lancaster, Va.; Mrs. John J. Worland, of Chicago; Mrs. William Thayer of East Orange, N. J.; Henry van Bell, H. R. van Bell, Alfred Madoux of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Edward H. Keen, of Philadelphia.

SUFFOLK SIGNS JOYNER.

Whitney's Trainer Consents to go to Peccore's Stables.

London.—Joyner, who has charge of H. P. Whitney's horses, has consented to act as trainer to the stable which Lady Suffolk has decided to set up at Newmarket. It may be remembered that she is the youngest daughter of Lord Suffolk six years ago. Next year she intends to become a full-fledged racehorse owner. With Lady de Bathe, Miss Sadler Jackson and Lady Suffolk to the fore, British racing will have an interesting electric of women to support its many activities.

For the last year or two Lady Suffolk has been racing somewhat spasmodically. As her horses were run in her husband's name little was heard of her in the racing world. But next season will find Lady Suffolk in her own racing colors, with a string of horses that are expected to make racing history.

Strive to impress on your children that the only disgrace attaching to honest work is the disgrace of doing it badly.

to the height of nearly 100 feet, he was on the bowsprit of the brig, and was thrown to a narrow shelf of rock where he lay unconscious. On recovering he clambered to the top and reaching a blacksmith's shop at the copper mines, told his story to the skeptical smith.

In the morning the miners were convinced by the wreckage that the story was true.

The search is being made by John Gibney, of Liverpool, in the salvage steamer Lady Kate. The work is in charge of the grandson of a man who had been shown the exact spot where the brig struck.

The divers have not yet located the wreck, but still they hope for success.

Harvest Failure Hurts.
London.—British merchant shipping is in a bad way. Hundreds of tramp steamers are lying at various ports, their owners being unable to secure cargoes. The principal factor in the general depression is the failure of the harvest in Argentina, causing hundreds of large up-to-date tramp steamers to seek employment elsewhere, and bring about a general reduction in freight. The troubles at the British collieries and bad trade generally also contribute to the general dislocation of the steamship traffic.

The veil which covers the face of futurity is woven by the hand of mercy.
