HOW THE NORTHWEST CONFERENCE COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAMS LOOK IN THE EARLY SEASON

Oregon Is Fast and Foxy.
University of Oregon, Eugene.—Coach Warner has made his first pick of the men that will sooner or later compose Oregon's football team for the coming season. It must be understood that the players mentioned may compose the team only temporarily and new players, at the present are not considered likely candidates. The following men are being used by the head coach as Oregon's prospective team: Captain Taylor, Main, Mitchell, Bailey, Fenton, Hall, Jamison, Latourette, Walker, Chandler and Kellogg. On the second varsity the men are making the fight of their lives to dislodge the men that now compose the varsity. Some of them are Grout a promising freshman from Portland, Harding, a varsity sub of last year, Kay, the sprinter and drop kicker, Cobb of Portland academy, and Jones of Washington high.

Up to the present scrimmage work has been of a light nature, and has consisted of testing the first and second team line-men, when the teams are in formation for a punt. Coach Warner has expressed himself as being well satisfied with the stone wall blocking of the two lines, when a punt was called for.

Thus early in the season it can plainly be seen that Oregon is going to have a foxy and fast team and is going to make frequent use of the forward pass. Whether the team will average as much in weight as last year's aggregation, cannot be ascertained as yet as changes may be made in the line up which will result in either heavier or lighter men becoming regulars. The above mentioned lineup should average stripped about one hundred and seventy-two pounds.

So far Trainer Bill Hayward reports that no players have received any serious injuries. Chack Taylor has a charley horse and is trying hard to run it off. Ben Chandler has a brok that could have been desired. He knows the game, and more than that, knows how to teach it. His signals are better than any system that has ever been used here before, and his knowledge of the new rules is marvelous. He is without question the best coach Whitman college has ever had and he has inspired his men with a confidence that means winning.

His is not the method used by Blanchard, who in some subtle sort of way instilled a fighting spirit into his men without seeming to say anything. He has more the hammer and tongs method, although he does not rake a man over the coals with loud words, but in even, cutting words that seem to burn in like white hot coals, he impresses the men with their shortcomings in a way they will not easily forget.

Charlie Lewis of Spokane is making a good captain. He has every man out who can wear a suit, and the squad will get plenty of scrimmage practice. Lewis will show well at end this year. He has speed and a knowledge of the game, combined with accuracy in catching forward passes that should land him on the Northwestern all-star aggregation this year.

Borleske's loss has been supplied. R. Niles, as heavy as Borleske, as fast as strong and as good a runner, is taking his place at half back. He is doing more than that too, he is kicking the ball 55 and 60 yards regularly; and McCaa says he will do better before the games begin. He kicks wicked spirals, and he could not have a better teacher in this department than the coach, who held his own with Coy among the eastern colleges and universities.

Another big help this year will be Cox at quarter. He is heady and quick. He is a better man with the ball than Belt, and under the new rules can be counted upon for some big gains with the pigskin.

Benning is showing up well at center, with Sam Huzhart as alternate. Both are Ritzville men. Proudford will be in school again next week and will play the other end. Neill and Blomquist are doing great work at tackle, and Cole, Cleman, Huzhart and McCoy will try for guard positions.

The backfield will be fast, mighty fast. Cox Niles and two more to be picked from Johnson, Kinder, Dresser and McCoy will make a hard quartet. Dresser has not returned yet but will next week.

The first intercollegiate game will be played at Seattle with the University of Washington.

Baker to Play With U. of W.
University of Washington.—Washington's hopes for a championship eleven rose when the faculty announced that Tracy Baker, the Pendleton, Ore., fullback, had settled his difficulties over studies and would be permitted to play.

The addition of Baker to the backfield will offer an abundance of fullback material. Diether and Sparger "W" winners last year, are out for the position. Bill Cook, Pike and Febiger of Spokane are the only new men trying out for berths behind the quarter.

Many new men are out now. Vere Harvey, who played tackle for Whitman two years ago and on the sophomore class team last fall, is into a suit! The ex-Missionary lineman lost 20 pounds during vacation, so is not expected to do much this season. Dillard Beck, who played center on Lincoln high school of Seattle for three years also made his debut as scrub snapperback.

The tentative first team lineup was as follows: Presley center; Sherrick and Pullen, guards; Polly Grimm and Eakins, tackles; Warren Grimm and Husby, ends; Coyle, quarter; Cook and Pike halves, and Sparger fullback.

7 Old Men at Idaho, University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho.

Forty suits have been given out to the players, old and new, of the University of Idaho. At present practice is not so rapid because the men do not turn out regularly. From last year's team seven men have been out to practice: Hillman, fullback; Hayes, guard; Williams, tackle; Curtis and Perkins, quarters and Edmondson at end. The positions of these men may, according to Coach Griffith, be changed to suit the new rules. Coach Griffith seems satisfied with the showing the men have made and although the team may be light he thinks they are speedy enough to handle the new rules.

Under the leadership of Thornton and coaching of Griffith, who turned out the 1905 championship team, Idaho will make a good fight this year.

Manager James Gwinn has reported the football schedule as follows: October 22, W. S. C. at Pullman; October 29, Oregon at Moscow; November 5, Washington at Seattle; November 12, Whitman at Walla Walla. The Thanksgiving game is not settled.

W. S. C. Has Hard Schedule.
Washington State College, Pullman, Wash.—According to the present prospects, the W. S. college football team will this year head into the heaviest games of the schedule without the usual practice games with high schools and normals of eastern Washington. No practice games have been scheduled thus far, the first game being with the University of Idaho, on October 22 at Pullman. O. A. C. follows on the 29th at Corvallis, and possibly there will be a game with the Multnomah Athletic club on the 5th of November. Then comes what is expected to be the big game of the season, that with the University of Washington in Spokane. The Thanksgiving day game will be with the Whitman Missionaries in Walla Walla.

Football practice has commenced on Rogers field, a few of the old timers having got in early. Among them is Fred Hunter, captain, and Jack Nelson, W. S. C.'s crack sprinter, who this year may be seen in a football suit. Last year he had a bug that he could train up for the 100 in 9 3-5 but failed, taking the first place in the middle west conference meet at Urbana in 10 1-5. Nelson weighs close to 170 pounds and is muscular in proportion, but heretofore has kept out of football, preferring to develop his speed as a sprinter and middle-distance runner.

Asa Clark will be in the game and will probably try for center, though at present P. J. Laird, last year's center, has the edge on this proposition. P. J. Cherry, alias "Chub" Cherry, the well-known Pullman center may return to college, and Skeels, Cornwall, Matlock and Galbraith are certain to be back but the new material to be drawn upon is yet unknown.
