NEW PROFESSOR OF FORESTRY AT O. A. C.

TECHNICAL FORESTER JOINS COLLEGE FACULTY
E. O. Sleske of Government Forest Service, is Sutured—Department Completely Reorganized—Prof. Peavy Explains Purpose of Course.

Corvallis, Ore.,—E. O. Sleske, for the past five years a member of the U. S. government forest service, has been added to the faculty of the Oregon agricultural college as assistant professor of forestry.
Professor Sleske came in contact with forest conditions in practically every section of the United States while in the federal service. During the past year he has been assigned to work in this state, so that he is peculiarly fitted to take up his new work at the State Agricultural college.
The forestry department, which was formerly a part of the botany department, has been separated and completely reorganized under Prof. George W. Peavy. Both he and Prof. Sleske are technical foresters with years of experience in federal service previous to their college appointment. Prof. Peavy is a graduate of the forestry school of the University of Michigan and Prof. Sleske of the University of Nebraska.
"The purpose of our course, first of all, is to train young men to deal with the peculiar forest problems of the northwest and particularly those of Oregon," said Prof. Peavy, in discussing the new work. This is one of the regions of the United States where forests can be quickly and economically grown; in other words, virgin forests of the east and middle west have been practically exhausted, the demand for timber is being centered more and more upon the Rocky mountain region and the northwest. This, of course, is resulting in an increased price for timber holdings, and

ATHENA FARMER HAS 2D FAINTING SPELL

(Special Correspondence.)
Athena, Ore., Oct. 9.—A. J. Willaby, a prominent wheatgrower of this community, had another fainting spell or epileptic spell this afternoon about 2:30 while walking with his wife down by the City park. At last reports he was in a very serious condition.
Mr. and Mrs. Willaby had just started out for a little walk and had only gotten down to the park gate, when Mr. Willaby was overtaken by the spell and fell unconscious to the ground. A hack and stretcher were hastily secured and the sick man was soon at home, with Dr. Newsome in attendance. This is the second of the spells that Mr. Willaby has had in the last few months and it was thought that he would not live through the one last summer, but he recovered almost entirely and appeared in good health. This last attack is therefore very sudden and the whole community is awaiting reports as to his condition with very much anxiety, and all sincerely hope for his recovery.

EFFORTS TO ORGANIZE DOMESTICS' UNION FAIL

Spokane, Wash.—Efforts to organize a domestics' union in Spokane, under a plan outlined by Mrs. May Arkwright Hutton, part owner of the Hercules mine in the Coeur d'Alene district in northern Idaho and prominent in the equal suffrage movement in Washington, have failed. The chief reason assigned is that the women refused to wear tags or badges.
Mrs. Hutton advocated an eight-hour day with pay for overtime and an organization to protect the domestics' interests, as a solution of the servant problem, saying the plan was to put the home on a business basis. The working women talked at this on the ground they have no desire to become identified with a labor union, declaring also, however that the chief objection now is they are classed as servants. They desire to avoid this rather than the long and irregular hours.
Mrs. M. A. Owens of the Pioneer Guild, said in an interview that a servant girls' union will not work in Spokane, "and," she added, "I do not believe it is possible to find a girl willing to wear a tag to show she is a house servant."
"They may talk about the badge of decent living and all that sort of thing, but no American girl is going to submit to that kind of nonsense. Most of the so-called house servants in this city are graduates of high schools; they are ambitious and willing to work and thus frequently take positions in homes simply because there are not sufficient positions open in lines for which they are fit-

EDUCATION FOR WOMEN

Most of them are qualified for office or school work.
"There are many positions awaiting competent domestics in Spokane, but many of these will never be filled. This is largely the fault of the employers. It is up to them to get together and work out a plan to solve the problem. The union plan is a failure."
OLD NOBILITY GETTING RID OF DUCAL ESTATES
London.—There is a prospect that ducal estates in England will soon be going begging. That exclusive section of English society which social reformers alluded to in sneering accents as the "old nobility" seem to be anxious to realize on their estates and intend to dispose of the greater portion of their acreage to the highest bidder.
Already the Earl of Perth has disposed of Strath Allan and Tullibardine. Baron Furness of Grantley, in spite of his wealth, has sold five villages in Salisbury and Devizes, which had previously been the property of Lord Ashburton. Lord Abergavenny has got rid of Kildbrooke Park, his Ashdown Forest estate. Lord Numburholme's town house has been sold, together with the Earl of Crewe's famous house in Curzon street. Mayfair, Lord Brampton's house and the residence of the Marquis of Conyngham, and within the last few weeks the Duke of Bedford and Lord Onslow have disposed of several great estates. Now we are to see Lord Amherst's Norfolk home, Diddlington Park, disposed of and Lord Manver's estates in Nottingham.
Besides these, several other peers are contemplating going to the auction room for money, so that any enterprising American millionaire who wants a Tudor or Carolean residence may find plenty to choose from in England. At the same time every one wonders why the "old nobility" is disposing of its properties.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY

Scientists have figured out that the peat bogs of Sweden alone are capable of producing 10,000,000 tons of air-dried peat, suitable for fuel.
Wash That Itch Away.
It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to eczema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?
But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town!
A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child.
If you have not already tried it, get at least a 25 cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief.
