ACTIVITY IN ECHO RAILROAD CIRCLES

(Special Correspondence.)
Echo, Ore., Oct. 21.—The O. R. & N. Co.'s yards here are a scene of busy activity. P. C. Hunter, agent, reports that the business transacted here, while always good, for the past two months has been enormous. When it is not wool or grain going out it is lumber and cattle coming in. Yesterday twenty-one cars of cattle were unloaded and driven to C. P. Bowman's farm on Butter Creek, where they will be fed through the winter. Three of these cars belonging to Masterson & Willy, were shipped from Wallowa and eighteen cars belonging to Kidwell & Caswell came from Baker City. These cattle were billed for Portland with the privilege of being fed several months here while in transit.

Leonard Schrivier, the signal man of this place, met with a painful accident yesterday. When about a mile below town his motor speeder struck a torpedo, which threw his machine from the track. Mr. Schrivier was severely bruised but fortunately no bones were broken.
Chas. Hoskins returned this week from the mountains, bringing down the four bands of his father's sheep, which were pastured there during the summer. They will be fed this winter on T. J. Hoskins' place three miles from town.
Mrs. C. P. Bowman returned home last evening from an extended visit with relatives at Walla Walla.
Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Lisle left this morning for La Grande where they expect to visit a few days.
Earl Cates spent today visiting at Coe.

AMERICAN SCULPTURE SETS NEW FAD FOR CELEBRITIES

London.—An accomplished American woman is creating a new fashion among the celebrities of the London stage and incidentally building up a delightful profession of her own.
She is Mrs. David Longworth, originally of Boston, known in Parisian art circles as "Bert" Longworth, whose "impressions in sculpture" have for some years been familiar to residents in the French capital. The work which first brought her to public notice was a wonderful replica of the Great Sphinx at Ghizeh, the reproduction in bronze standing 14 feet high and presenting the most faithful copy of the original ever executed. This replica, which was one of the chief features of the Paris Salon of 1903, is to be sent to America presently by W. N. McMillan, who recently entertained Colonel Roosevelt in East Africa. He bought the figure after Rodin and other French experts had proclaimed it a triumph.

Since those days, however, Bert Longworth has turned her skill to the fashioning of lighter things. It occurred to her that the theatrical profession would present wide scope for the exercise of her gifts in modeling such members of it as might care to cultivate a new idea in home decoration. The notion caught on at once. Endowed with a quite remarkable memory for impressions gathered hurriedly from a seat in the auditorium, the sculptress presently turned out figures of some of the most popular players and singers at the moment. These, finished in representation of bronze or old ivory, commenced to find their way into the smartest resorts of the West End. In every instance the likeness, no less than the pose and the whole character of the figure, was wonderful in its fidelity, and people began to talk.
Among those who took early note of the new sculpture was H. B. Irving, who begged that Mrs. Longworth would devote a special sitting to his dual characters in "The Lyons Mail." Close upon this came studies of Maud Allan, Rejane and later of Pavlova, whom, in a moment, the sculptress caught in a pose of infinite grace and straightway committed the impression to clay and finally to bronze.

The innovation has now become a craze. From the leaders of the profession the desire for the American statuette in place of the photograph has spread to the humbler exponents of stage art. Nowadays the "thinking stars" of the Gaiety, the Shaftesbury and Daly's ask their admirers to have them turned out in bronze, silver or in old ivory with the colors of hair, eyes, skin and clothes faithfully painted in. So quick is she in catching the features and every detail of dress and carriage, that she is known in London as "The Human Kodak."
Now the touring managers have adopted the new idea instead of photographs of the stars the advance agent carries ahead with him statuette of the characters in various scenes of the play.
Portland Expenses Growing.
Portland, Ore.—Portland is growing so fast that the expense of running the city is increasing at a rapid rate as well. The budget for 1911, estimated by the various departments, will be 50 per cent higher than current expenditures during the present year. In actual figures the increase is $1,169,102. Next year's budget amounts to $3,248,411, while expenditures this year amounted to only $2,074,309.
"The city is growing so rapidly it is not possible to keep down its expenses," said Mayor Simon. "Various departments will have to be enlarged and maintained at a considerable increase over last year's expense."
"Oh, Peter, what have you been doing? Didn't you promise me faithfully that you would be a good boy?"
"Yes, mother, but something always happens to prevent me."

BREEZY NEWS NOTES FROM OLD UMATILLA

(Special Correspondence.)
Umatilla, Ore., Oct. 19.—D. C. Brownell has been confined to his residence with an attack of La Grippe. His many friends hope to see him around in a day or so.

F. L. Corkendall of Portland and T. Kearney of Walla Walla, are among the visitors here today.
The work on the new bridge is progressing rapidly and already four spans have the steel and floors laid. The contractors have hopes to have bridge ready for travel in three weeks.
Geo. H. Noyes of Walla Walla, is calling on the trade today.
Chas. Tung of Pendleton was here today making investigation in the shooting affray of Monday. He returned on the motor.
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Switzer were Hermiston visitors today.

MONEY FOR SERVANT IN REPEATED ATTENTIONS

Paris.—Amusing is the story which is related of the adventure of a Russian nobleman, who has been spending a few weeks in Paris. On the evening of his arrival he went to a theater, and thinking that it would be only polite to present a bouquet to the heroine of the play, he dispatched his servant with a very pretty one, and then forgot all about it. Great was his astonishment when, on the eve of his departure, a call from the actress was announced. Beaming with smiles, she said to the nobleman "I have come to thank you for your incessant and delicate attentions."
"You are extremely kind," he replied modestly, "as I only sent you one bouquet, and that a month ago, if I remember rightly."
"Why," the fair artist answered, "your servant has brought me one every evening."
A pull at the bell, and the man appeared. He was promptly questioned, and, this according to the story, was his frank answer. "When I took the first bouquet the lady gave me five francs, and as it cost me three, I went on." What followed on this candid confession is left to the imagination.

Never Worry.
About a cough—there's no need of worry if you will treat it at its first appearance with Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It will stop the cough a once and put your lungs and throat back into perfectly healthy condition. A. C. Koeppe & Bros.
