

TEACHERS WANTED THROUGHOUT STATE

U. OF O. TEACHERS' BUREAU CAN NOT SUPPLY DEMAND

Prof. L. R. Alderman Says He Can Place Seventy at Present Time—Seniors at University Will Make These Serve State of Oregon.

(Special Correspondence.) University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore., Oct. 22.—Professor L. R. Alderman, head of the Department of Education of the University, who has in his charge the University Teachers' Bureau, stated that the bureau was unable to supply half of the teachers demanded. Of last year's class of 26 graduates, 22 have already accepted positions in various high schools over the state, but Professor Alderman has over seventy vacancies to fill. This coming year the lack of high school teachers will probably be even more keenly felt.

The University Bureau finds no difficulty in placing all graduates in the department of education in responsible positions. The greatest demand is for scientific teachers and principals and for men who have had athletic or oratorical training.

Seniors to Help State. Seniors at the University of Oregon graduating from the Department of Economics are this year choosing the subjects of their theses from topics of vital interest to Oregonians. Professor F. G. Young of the Economics department of the state University, says that aside from the greater interest taken and consequently better work done by the students when handling a subject teeming with interest for Oregonians, much material benefit is given the state conservation commission, of which he is a member, in drafting bills to present to the legislature, by the research work of the students.

The Seniors who have thus far announced their topics are: Dean Collins, "The Forest Fire Situation, and Legislation Needed"; George White, "The Commission Plan of City Government"; Charles Koyl, "Water Power Legislation"; Chester Starbuck, "Road Legislation"; Tom Burke, "The Financing of Oregon Cities"; D. L. Doble, "Topographical Survey of the State Reserves"; Miss Fay Clark, "Effect of the Physical Regions on Oregonians," and Melvin Ogden, "A Budget for the Legislature."

LEGAL PRECEDENT A CURSE.

John Strange Thinks Laymen Should Be in Majority in Courts. Spokane, Wash.—Laymen should be in a majority on the bench of the supreme court of the United States, or for that matter, in all courts of the land. This would quickly remedy some of the conditions that confront the people today.

This reform in the judiciary is advocated by John Strange, lieutenant governor of Wisconsin, who is visiting relatives in Spokane. His reasons for the change are as follows: "The intent in determining all questions of law is based on the ground of common sense. What we seek in the courts is right, as interpreted by a horse sense view of law. This is exemplified by the jury system, in which the basis of the judgment is fixed by laymen. This is a substantial way of reaching final justice.

"As it is, legal precedents govern the determination of most cases at issue in the courts, not precedents that bear directly on the issue or are even similar to the case. The courts merely get some precedent that approaches nearest to the case and this basis is used in determining the matters at issue. Equity and right are ignored by the cold rules of law, which interfere with the exercise of horse sense and justice. I believe our differences should be determined by people who know the facts and circumstances.

"The supreme court is bound up and held down by legal precedent. The precedents in the Wisconsin reports differ from those in the New Hampshire reports, so the court takes an old Massachusetts decision and declares that the true law bearing on the case.

"Such decisions, based on abstract precedents and principles, work the grossest injustice in equity and ethics and yet they establish precedents which shall govern questions at issue where human rights and property are seriously concerned."

FIVE MEN KEEP STEADY WATCH OVER WEE BABY

Bar Harbor, Me.—That President Taft is accompanied by a guard of three secret service men has not aroused the slightest excitement in Bar Harbor. This village believes that it has the president beaten, for down on the shore at the Edward B. McLean cottage is a baby, seven months old, and there is a guard of five men, who divide the work day and night.

John R. McLean, the grandfather of the baby, laughs at the report and says the men are there to keep intruders away because of the illness of Mrs. Thomas B. McLean, mother of Mrs. Edward B. McLean and grandmother of the baby. Bar Harbor believes that the men are there to guard the little boy, and that is the way the men down at the McLean cottage understand it.

When the little fellow, who is too happy kicking up his heels in a crib to worry now, gets old enough he will be worth so many millions that you speak it in whispers. Mrs. McLean, the mother of the child, is the only child of Thomas F. Walsh of Colorado, the late mine owner. Mr. McLean, the father, is the publisher of the Washington Post and son of John R. McLean, owner of the Cincinnati Enquirer and dozens of other things.

Little Vincent McLean, only son of an only son and an only daughter, will be worth, it is said, anywhere from $20,000,000 up to so much money that it seems foolish to talk about it. When the young McLeans were married one of the wedding gifts was a Bar Harbor cottage. They are living in it this summer.

John R. McLean told a reporter that there was nothing in the story. He calls it silly and regrets it. Mrs. Walsh, who is a guest at the McLean cottage and for whose comfort Mr. McLean says the guards are maintained, has not been well since the death of Mr. Walsh in Washington.

NORTHWEST WILL PROFIT BY FLORIDA HURRICANE

Portland, Or.—Damage wrought to the Florida orange crop by the recent hurricane that swept the fruit districts is reported to be one of those ill winds that do good to others. The northwest, it is likely, will profit by the misfortune of the southeast. W. F. Gwin, manager of the Northwest Fruit Exchange, believes the destructive storm will prove a great benefit to the fruit growers of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, for the short orange crop will be supplemented in eastern markets by northwest apples.

It is estimated the Florida orange crop was damaged to the extent of $1,000,000. Prices of oranges will necessarily be higher in the eastern markets and on this account consumers will turn more generally to apples instead. This will create a strong demand for northwest fruit and prices are expected to be better than usual as a result.

SPORTS

COAST LEAGUE.

Vernon 7, Los Angeles 1. Los Angeles, Oct. 22.—One run scored in the second inning on Kennedy's triple and Hallinan's single saved the Angels from a 7 to 0 shut out at the hands of Vernon yesterday. It was the third straight victory of the Villagers who hammered Criger today as hard as they pounded Thorsen yesterday. Score: R. H. E. Los Angeles 1 7 4 Vernon 7 1 2 Criger and Smith; Willett and Brown.

Portland 0, Frisco 0.

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—In the 13th inning, after a game that went its exciting way without a run being scored, San Francisco worked three men to places on bases and those who had sat in the bleachers huddled together in the cold through the afternoon waited for the finish. With two men out, Melchior was at bat and any kind of a hit would have scored the deciding run. But the run was never scored. Outfielder Shaw was at second playing off just a bit. The ball went to Shortstop Olson and he worked the time honored sand lot "hidden ball" trick, tagging Shaw while the latter's teammates were willing to him to get back on the bag. The inning was over and the game was called on account of darkness. Sutor and Seaton pitched fine ball. The San Francisco twirler struck out 14 men and did not walk any. The score: R. H. E. San Francisco 0 4 1 Portland 0 9 2 Batteries—Sutor and Williams; Seaton and Murray.

Sacramento 6, Oakland 4.

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 22.—Terrific hitting by the Sacramentoans gave them a victory yesterday over Oakland, the final score being 6 to 4, which gives Sacramento three out of the four games of the series played to date. Two home runs and four doubles were ripped off by the locals. Willis was taken from the mound after pitching one and one-third innings and Harkins, who relieved him, was hit hard and often. Fitzgerald pitched good ball. Maggarr and Burns were the home run hitters. Score: R. H. E. Oakland 4 10 1 Sacramento 6 11 3 Batteries—Willis, Harkins and Lewis; Fitzgerald and La Longe.

Indians at Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 22.—Wearing fur paint and armbands, expressions signifying a determination to sell their lives dearly, the Carlisle Indians invaded Princeton today with the intention of showing the Tigers how the new game of football is played. Although the Redskins will play Cornell, Pennsylvania and Annapolis, they look upon today's contest as the most important on their schedule, and the spectators are anticipating a lively game.

Penn Plays Penn State.

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—The ancient rivalry between the University of Pennsylvania and the Pennsylvania State College football players will serve to make today's game an exciting one.

Play Southern Eleven.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 22.—It will be south versus north this afternoon on the Yale gridiron. The Elis have as their guests the crack eleven of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, and to prove that New England hospitality is up to the boasted Dixie brand, will try to keep the score down to a point that won't be too humiliating to their opponents.

"Do you think Mr. Roosevelt, that if you accepted the call to China you could adapt yourself to Chinese ways?" "Oh, some statesman over there would give me a queue," replied the colonel, visibly affected.
