JACKSON COUNTY SOLID FOR WEST

VOTERS OF BOTH PARTIES ENDORSE HIS CANDIDACY

Bowerman Got But 11 Votes in Ashland at Primaries—West Hands Out Some Facts on Railroads to Western Oregon People.

Medford, Ore., Oct. 27.—Jackson county is for Oswald West for governor. At Medford and Ashland and Jacksonville they all say so. Oldtimers who have been in line always and who are in line now and who say they are going to vote straight, nevertheless shake their heads unanimously and predict West's victory in Jackson county. And some of them go still further. "Now for goodness sake don't quote me," they say, when they get you some place out to one side, "but Bowerman hasn't got a show in Jackson county. He got only 11 votes in Ashland at the primary and he won't get many more than that on November 8. He is a dead one in that town and the rest of the county is for West. Jackson county's normal republican majority is about 300 votes and that is all in Ashland, so what the deuce are we going to do when Bowerman only draws 11 votes out of that majority?"

That is not a very optimistic oracle for a Bowerman viewpoint and it is not a single handed oracle. It is shown by men who stood out in the spotlight with Bowerman when he visited Jackson county and who went down to support him at Jacksonville when he made his address to his audience of 23, including five women and children, and these same men are gloomy, not only as to Jackson county, but as to the state results as well. All the Oregonian reports of the Bowerman tour were as far from the truth as that of his enthusiastic and triumphant stump through Jackson county.

Deals With Railroad Rates. West dealt with railroad rates from southern Oregon points on the Southern Pacific in his address in Jackson county and in Grants Pass. William D. Fenton, attorney for the Southern Pacific, in dedicating the new Medford depot had contended the rates forced on the company by the railroad commission were ruinous and that the Oregon & California line was operated at a loss. West showed why this was so. All the betterment of the lines had been charged against the operating expenses of the line, West said, when it should have been charged against the capital account and this was done for the purpose of showing a loss in operation.

Shippers Saved Much Money. The railroad commission had ordered its rates reduced after careful investigation. The Harriman lines were contending that this reduction would cost them $300,000 annually. This money was thus saved to the shippers of the state and a goodly portion to southern Oregon. The greatest reductions had been made for southern Oregon points. West contended, because the rates there were unreasonable. The lower Willamette valley had water competition and other natural advantages which enabled shippers to force a rate adjustment. If the earnings of the Southern Pacific were not as great as those of the O. R. & N. it was because the Southern Pacific was made a switching line for other Harriman lines and deprived of the long haul which went to the O. R. & N. This was due to the Harriman merger and the closing of the Sacramento gateway.

West cautioned the shippers of southern Oregon to save their shipping receipts pending the settlement of the present rate dispute between the Southern Pacific and the railroad commission. If the commission won in the courts, and West contended it would, then the railroad would be compelled to refund the differences between the old rate and the new.

In concluding his address, West called attention to his record as state land agent and as railroad commissioner and contended that he was running on his record, while Bowerman was running away from his. He went into the question of the assembly and showed that the movement had as its object the overturning of the Oregon system of popular government. The friends of popular government are in duty bound to vote against Bowerman, the enemy of the primary law, direct election of senators, initiative and referendum and recall, he argued.

CAST OF COMIC OPERA SELECTED

PARTS IN "PINAFORE" ARE ALL ASSIGNED

Prominent Vocalists of City Will Take Solo Parts—Chorus Will Be Well Balanced.

That "Pinafore" will be a decided success and the best local production ever given in Pendleton is an assured fact. Mr. Robinson has made a careful selection of singers to take the solo parts and a glance at the names of those taking prominent places is sufficient assurance that the opera will be well rendered.

"Pinafore" is the most popular of the operas of its class and is still drawing crowded houses wherever it appears in the larger cities. In fact it is running for the sixteenth consecutive year in one of the largest theaters in London, where it was first given under the personal direction of the composer, Sir Arthur Sullivan. Some of the performers are the same who took the parts so many years ago, when the opera was produced in the larger cities of the east with Sir Arthur's own company and orchestra.

The following is the cast of characters for the production to be given in the Oregon theater Thursday and Friday nights, November 3 and 4.

- Right Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., first lord of admiralty . . . Thomas H. Williams
  - Chaplain Corcoran, commanding H. M. S. Pinafore . . . Charles Hill
  - Ralph Rackstraw, common sailor in love with Josephine . . . Walter E. Rose
  - Dick Deadeye, common sailor . . . Wilfred Edmond
  - Bill Bobstay, boatswain . . . Brook Dickson
  - Bob Buckett, boatswain's mate . . . G. F. Edmond
  - Sergeant of Marines . . . Elmer Storie
  - Josephine, the captain's daughter . . . Mrs. A. L. Stusher
  - Hebe, Sir Joseph's first cousin . . . Miss Edna Zimmermann
  - Buttercup, a bum boat woman . . . Miss Edna Gates
  - Sir Joseph's sisters, his cousins, his aunts, sailors, marines, etc.
- Scene—Deck of H. M. S. Pinafore, anchored in Portsmouth harbor.
