NEWS AND GOSSIP OF OLD NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 5.—Wouldst soar as a bird into the blue empyrean? Wouldst mount upward, as an eagle or a hen-hawk, into the azure, to fly amidst the clouds? Returning to earth, have you a hankering, son, to be an aerial chauffeur, and, risking life and limb, essay the conquest of the air? If so, a way is to be provided by the West Side Young Men's Christian association. This organization, which already teaches everything from the multiplication table to grand and lofty finance, will on Monday begin a course in aviation, whereby, in ten lessons, the earnest student will be grounded in the theory and practice of flying. In view of the numerous fatal accidents which have marked the development of aeroplanes, biplanes and other devices for soaring, the undertaking of such instruction by a Christian organization seems peculiarly appropriate. In one matter, however, the Y. M. C. A. aviation students would seem to be laboring under a handicap. It is a matter of record that all successful aviators are chronic cigarette smokers, and the use of tobacco is discouraged by the Young Men's Christian association.

The first lesson, on Monday, will take up the elementary principles of aviation and aeronautics, with a discussion of the inertia of matter, early kite flying, windmills and such simple matters. The course will be continued each Monday to January 9, the succeeding numbers dealing with experimental data, gliding machines, screw propellers, early experimental machines, comparative types of flyers, construction and statistical data, spherical ballooning, airships or dirigible balloons, and the internal combustion engine.

In addition to the lectures and discussions, illustrated with photographs and models, and the laboratory work, the members of the class in aviation will visit the various testing grounds, hangars and aerodromes in the vicinity of New York, inspect the various types of flying machines and observe professional flyers in actual flights. Wilbur R. Kimball, secretary of the Aeronautical society of New York and a high flyer of long experience, is in charge of the course.

It isn't often, as newspaper humorists so often allege, that all women beyond the age of thirty seek to suppress the facts as to the number of their years. Miss Ida M. Tarbell, whose history of the Standard Oil company was perhaps the most complete and searching exposure of its kind ever attempted, is today fifty-three years of age, and doesn't give a whoop who knows it.

Miss Tarbell's middle name, by the way, is Minerva who, in Roman mythology, was the goddess of wisdom and war of the liberal arts, science and learning. There are those, even at No. 26 Broadway, who believe that her parents had a wise hunch. Erie county, Pennsylvania, is Miss Tarbell's birthplace, and Allegheny college, Meadville, Pa., her alma mater.

Some of the qualities of wisdom imputed to Solomon, Zadig or Sherlock Holmes will be needed by the judge who attempts to hand down a just decision in a case soon to be tried in a suburban town near New York. A commuter rented a house in this suburb, but through an error moved into a house adjoining the one he had taken, and which, he alleges, corresponded better to the description furnished by his landlord. Neither house bore a number, so the mistake was a natural one. For ten months he remitted his rent money regularly to his landlord. Then the owner of the house he was in discovered that his property was occupied, and brought suit for ten months' back rent. The tenant is fighting the suit, as his own landlord has refused to return the money paid him on the plea that the empty house might have been rented. To a man up a tree, each of the three men concerned seems to have a good case. Doubtless the poor commuter, however, will get it in the neck, as usual.

When it comes to the fine art of hospitality, the man—or woman—from Georgia easily takes the cake, and also the remainder of the bill of fare from horse d'ouvray, via possum, to nuts. The expatriates who comprise the membership of the Georgia society of the City of New York easily take the lead in entertaining, among all the state societies of the metropolis, and the coming season promises much that will be delightful. A smoker and entertainment at the Waldorf-Astoria next Friday night will start the ball rolling, and will be followed by balls and receptions on December 8 and January 24, an entertainment for charity at the Plaza on February 6 and a smoker on April 23.

The currency, which always is to be, but seldom is, reformed, will be discussed (silent dis) next Friday night at a banquet to be given at the Hotel Astor by the Academy of Political Science. That sturdy old reformer, Senator Aldrich, will preside as chairman, and Mayor Gaynor, Dr. A. Platt, Andrew, Jacob H. Schiff, President Butler of Columbia and others will take turns in swatting our maligned old currency. The dinner will be a feature of the national conference for the study of the currency problem, to be held at Columbia University on Friday and Saturday.

Not Sorry for Blunder. "If my friends hadn't blundered in thinking I was a doomed victim of consumption I might not be alive now," writes D. T. Sanders, Harrodsburg Ky., "but for years they saw every attempt to cure a lung-racking cough fail. At last I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. The effect was wonderful. It soon stopped the cough and I am now in better health than I have had for years. This wonderful live-saver is an unrivaled remedy for coughs, colds, la grippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhages, whooping cough or weak lungs. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Koepfen Bros.

CHIMPANZEE IS GALLANT.

Grasps Girl By Waist in Paris Street. Paris.—The other day as 20 work girls came out of a dressmaker's shop in the Rue Boileau at midday an arm encircled the waist of one of them. The girl protested indignantly. The too gallant intruder was well dressed, but he was a hideous little person.

The girls began making fun of him when suddenly he caught hold of one and put his face close against hers. She boxed his ears and he dropped on all fours and bit her leg. There was a panic. The girls rushed off shrieking and two policemen arrested the aggressor. The creature was a chimpanzee, the pet of an explorer living near at hand. He was captured after a struggle and carried off by his master's cook, who went to fetch him to the police station, where he had spent the night.

An amusing item of the story is that the magistrate got very angry with the chimpanzee when he was first brought in, because he refused to answer questions. He was highly indignant when told that he was talking to a chimpanzee. His honor being near-sighted did not know that.

INCRIMINATING PAPERS FOUND.

Russian Officers Thrown Into Court for Irregularities in China. St. Petersburg.—To the many sensational arrests recently made in Russia is now added that of M. Vonliarsky, a master of horse of the imperial court, who is well known, together with MM. Bezobrazoff and Abaza, in connection with the famous concession on the Yalu river which was one of the factors in the situation immediately preceding the war with Japan. M. Vonliarsky follows his own son, a staff captain, into prison, primarily as being involved in the case of the alleged forgery of the will of a millionaire, Prince Oginsky, but in the course of the search of his residence the police seized some most important documents, throwing light on the Yalu, which contributed to bringing about the Russo-Japanese conflict.

BEEF BARONS MAY BE SENT TO PRISON

WILL FACE JUDGE AND JURY NEXT JANUARY

Multimillionaires Have Employed Nation's Greatest Lawyers to Prove There is no Beef Trust.

Washington.—The historic names that have been associated with the beef industry in Chicago for a couple of generations will be called out in a criminal court in the Windy City some time next January. The month but not the day has been fixed. Then will be placed under way a giant struggle in which the best resources of the government will be used to settle the question whether there is a beef packers' trust and, if so, whether any of the multimillionaires who control it can be made acquainted with prison work and other routine. With unlimited cash at hand the barons will have the brightest lights in the law business in court to convince the solemn judge and frowning jury that there is no trust, or if there is one, that the eminent defendants have done nothing that would justify their banishment to Leavenworth.

A contest over technicalities will mark the opening of the battle and long and weary days may pass before the actual trial of the barons is begun. Motions to quash and demurrers to indictments will be offered and are likely to be subjects of long consideration.

Indictments were returned against the packers last summer after an investigation conducted by Assistant Attorney General Kenyon, of Washington and United States District Attorney Sims, of Chicago. The best men in the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice probed the affairs of the alleged trust and produced a mass of evidence, that, in the opinion of the highest law officers of the government, justified criminal prosecution. Kenyon and Sims will conduct the case on behalf of the government. National interest will center in the case for the reason that the men on trial will be the biggest, in wealth and influence, that have been attached in any trust hunt.

Several years ago a number of the packers were indicted but they escaped trial by claiming and receiving an immunity bath. Their lawyers argued that they had given full information regarding their business to James R. Garfield, who as Commissioner of Corporations made an investigation of the "big four" in the packing business, and that that information could not be used in a prosecution of the packers in court. The claim was in accordance with law and the charges against the accused men were dismissed.

PRIEST ABSOLVES A DROWNING MAN

Dublin.—Father Walsh, a priest, wept at an inquest at Dalkey as he told the story of the drowning of his companion, Father English, a professor at St. Mary's college. He almost perished in his effort to save him. Both were bathing. After swimming about 50 yards he turned to come in, when Father English cried, "Help me!" "I seized his arm and dragged him to within 10 yards of the rocks," said Father Walsh, "when the heavy backwash swept us out again. Three

RHEUMATISM PAINFUL & DANGEROUS

Rheumatism is due to a diseased condition of the blood cells and corpuscles, brought about by an excess of uric acid in the circulation. It is not only a very painful disease but an extremely dangerous trouble. The briny, acid state of the blood gradually forms a coating over the muscles, and by depositing a cement-like substance in the joints frequently terminates fatally, or leaves its victim a hopeless cripple. It is natural to "doctor" the spot that hurts, and it is quite right to use liniments, hot applications, etc., to get temporary relief from a painful joint or swollen tendon; but Rheumatism is not a skin disease, and such things, when depended on alone make one careless, and the disease gets a firmer hold on the blood. S. S. S. cures the disease because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation, and removes every particle of the irritating uric acid, builds up the blood, makes it rich and oily, and in this way prepares it for the proper nourishment of all joints, muscles, nerves and bones. If you have Rheumatism, get the uric acid out of the blood by taking S. S. S., a purely vegetable medicine, and enjoy freedom from its misery. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

A Total Eclipse of Lard Troubles

Cottolene LARD. Lard is the fore-runner of indigestion. The hog-fat soaks the pastry through and through, fills meats inside and out with a thick, unhealthy grease that the digestive juices cannot penetrate. The result is a call on the doctor whose advice is to go on a diet and avoid all rich food. You can eat pies, cakes and all kinds of pastry if they are cooked with Cottolene, for it is a pure, healthful, vegetable-oil product that contains no trace of hog fat, and does not make food the least bit greasy. From Cottonfield to Kitchen—human hands never touch the oil from which Cottolene is made. The result is that when you buy Cottolene you get a cooking fat upon whose purity and cleanliness you can absolutely rely. Made only by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY.

times I endeavored to bring in my friend, and each time we were hurled back.

At last, becoming exhausted, seeing it was only a matter of moments with his fellow priest, the witness saw the priest raise his hand and gave him absolution. Father English disappeared. Father Walsh was flung on a rock a moment later. He was swept off again, but at length secured a safe landing in an exhausted condition.
