MAN FIGHTS DUEL IN BARBER'S CHAIR

with topaz setting. Finder return to Carter & Smythe's office. Reward.

Berlin—A real duel was fought here recently. The parties to it were a baron, who is something of a wine shop statesman, and a bank clerk. The cause of the duel was a lady. The affair took the clerk by surprise, as he was reclining in an easy chair in his bedroom in a west end flat, being showed.
Suddenly the progress of the razor was checked by a vigorous rattling at the handle of the locked door that led to an adjoining apartment, and peremptory demands for admittance, coupled with a threat that the intruder would shoot unless his wishes were instantly complied with. The bank clerk replied coolly that he, too, had a revolver at hand and if it came to a question of shooting would probably prove to be the better marksman of the two. To this defiance he added an inquiry as to who the stranger was and what his business might be.
The intruder then announced himself as Baron von E., ex-cavalry officer, and said that he had come to reclaim a young woman who had formerly acted as his housekeeper and left his service to enter that of the bank clerk in a similar capacity.
To this the lady's new employer responded that his interest in her was not of a nature to justify him in embarking on an affair of honor on her account, and he called upon the infuriated baron to leave the premises without delay.
Crack went the baron's bullet through the door, whereupon the clerk also fired. The baron fired again, and the duel continued through the riddled door until both had exhausted all their ammunition.
Meantime the agonized barber, flourishing his soap brush had been screaming loudly through the window for assistance. A squad of police arrived and arrested the infuriated duelists. They were taken to the police station, where they found the lady who was the object of the quarrel. She was a former favorite of the baron, who suspected her of having transferred her affections to the clerk. The baron said as he was pushed into a cell: "The end of this is not yet." No blood was shed.

100,000 ACRES WILL SOON BE RECLAIMED
Crescent, Ore.—Actual work of reclaiming several thousand acres of land near Crescent will be inaugurated early in the spring. All the necessary surveying has been completed.
Some 100,000 acres of land will be irrigated with water to be taken from Crescent and Fish lakes. The project is understood, is fathered by the Hunter Land company of Portland, who own about half of the land affected. The rest will be watered in conjunction with the government reclamation service. About 100 miles of canal will be required. All the land lies west of Crescent, and it now is covered for the most part, with black pine. The country is said to have great promise as a dairying region.
When Cleopatra aspired to die, what did she do? Why, she obtained an asp with which to realize her aspirations.

Schwab's Large Hotel.
Bethlehem, Pa.—The Bethlehem Steel company is giving a great deal of attention to the appropriations for extensions in 1911, which will amount to about $5,000,000, including shops, storage houses, assembling buildings, coke plant and blast furnaces.
This amount does not provide for a $500,000 hotel which President Schwab proposes to erect for South Bethlehem, plans for which have been prepared.
Mr. Schwab intends that the borough shall have a hotel which will serve as a home for superintendents and other employees of the higher grade, and government representatives, and also permit him to do such entertaining as necessary to the business in proper style.

Magnificence for Prince.
Pekin. — The preparations for the visit of the German crown prince have already begun, although he is not expected before March or April. Fifty bearers have already been selected for a magnificent palanquin, which is to be placed at the service of the prince. The original intention of the court marshal to transform the West Castle into a Celestial residence for the imperial visitor has been abandoned at the instance of the German minister at Pekin, who objected to the distance, and feared that the protection afforded might be insufficient.

Insures Against Jury Duty.
London.—England has a thousand times and in nearly all languages been charged with a lack of originality; that it never adopts anything until the rest of the world has tried it for 50 years. The charge is often justifiable but England now and then startles the world by doing something original. For originality the idea of insuring men against loss by reason of jury serving may be said to be "going some."
A corporation here is advertising the fact that it writes that form of insurance.

BOGUS OFFICERS GET LOOT.

Pretended to Arrest Jeweler About to Make Sale.
Berlin.—German policemen, who are permitted to laugh now and then, are roaring over a story which one of them brought over from Paris. It is "one" on the detectives in the French capital, who ridiculed the German police a few years ago when the famous "Captain" Koepenig held up soldiers and a burgomaster. The story he brings is that of robbery in Paris of the most audacious kind, which in some respects reminds one of the exploits of the famous Captain Koepenig. A jeweler named Seyper received the visit of a man who told him that a M. Rolland, living in a hotel near by, had commissioned him to sell some valuable jewelry, worth 700 pounds. Rolland would show the property to any likely buyer. Not willing to invest in the jewelry alone, Seyper spoke of the matter to a friend named Garaud, and they agreed to find the money between them and have the profits. They called on Rolland and inspected the goods. The price was agreed upon and just as Seyper and Garaud were handing over the money two men entered.
"We are detectives," they said. "This is stolen property and we arrest you in the name of the law." They grabbed both money and jewels and took the three men to the Palais de Justice. There the "prisoners" were told to remain in the waiting room while the "detectives" went to interview the magistrate on the matter. They returned presently. The magistrate will see you first," they told Rolland, and away went the three. To their stupefaction they learned that nothing had been heard of the case. As to the "detectives," the two men they described were totally unknown. Then it dawned upon them that they had been cleverly led into a carefully laid plot, and now they are wondering if they will ever see their 700 pounds again.
The French police are not saying much about the affair.

AT THE MOVING PICTURE SHOWS

The Orpheum.
Sunday's change as follows:
1. The Clown and the Minister. Drama. Lubin, 1000 feet. The minister took the clown's place when the crisis came and to leave the sick child would mean her death. His substitution enabled them to gain the precious hour and the camp applauded his deed.
2. Betty Is Still at Her Old Tricks. Pathe. 500 feet long. Madcap Betty manages to get the entire neighborhood into an uproar with an assortment of tricks that result in mortification to the persons affected.
3. Moulouca Islands. Pathe. 500 feet long. A scenic film that is interesting.
4. For a Wife's Honor. Biograph. A good drama.
5. A Smoked Husband. A farce comedy. Biograph. This is certainly a laugh getter.
Song—If This Rose Told You All It Knows.
Sunday music program:
March—Sounds from the Orient.
Waltz—Friendship.
Overture—The Belle of the Village.
March—Imperial.
Waltz—Sounds from Erin.
Mexican Dance—Cantar Llorando.
Characteristic March—Dixie Twilight.—United Orchestra, Karl Guilt, director.

The Pastime Theater.
A program of interest for Sunday:
"On Her Doorstep." Vitagraph. drama. A refined society drama. How a persistent young lover refuses to be dismissed and finally wins forgiveness from the girl of his heart.
"Uncle Jim." Melies. drama. A story that is different. Because a girl loved by two men accepts one the other does not get jealous and become the enemy of the couple. Quite the contrary. In an unromantic way he maintains his old friendship and is rewarded in time.
"Just His Luck." Selig. drama. A story of absorbing interest, replete in every detail to insure an enjoyable picture. One set travelogue.
One illustrated song.

Civic Club Thanks Friends.
The ladies of the Civic Club desire to heartily thank all those who so kindly and generously gave their time and talent to the production of the opera Pinafore. Also to all who in various ways contributed to the success of same.

The Southern Power company at Great Falls, S. C., will begin the manufacture of atmospheric fertilizer on a large scale. $200,440 worth of machinery will soon be installed. Air is to be forced through an electric furnace producing nitric acid and this acid applied to limestone will give nitrate of lime, an excellent fertilizer.
