LIBRARY NOTES

Now that we are having such long evenings, it is a good time to enjoy some first-side travels, cultivate a few more literary acquaintances or dip a little deeper into the history and affairs of our country and other countries too for that matter.

In the Portland Journal, Wednesday this week, there appeared an article on Thomas Condon's book, "The Two Islands," and the article was reprinted in the East Oregonian of Thursday, any one who happened to read either of the articles may be interested to know that the book is in the public library, and is well worth your consideration, it is on the subject of the geological history of Oregon as revealed by fossils and contains a number of engravings of the fossil remains upon which the descriptions are based.

Another book worth reading is "The Columbia River," by W. D. Lyman, with an account of the exploration and development of this great river is interwoven the history that is identified with it and the romance that is attached to the pioneer life of the Northwest, the illustrations are especially attractive, many of them being furnished by Major Lee Moorhouse, of Pendleton.

Francis Parkman's "Oregon Trail" sketches of prairie and Rocky Mountain life, is a popularly written description of early Western life.

Two decidedly interesting stories relating to the history of Oregon are "McLoughlin and Old Oregon" and "McDonald of Oregon." Both are written by Eva Emery Dye.

GOES TO WED MAN HAVING MOST CASH

Zanesville, O.—"Money is the only thing that will induce me to marry," is a remark which Miss Lorette Roberts is said to have made ten years ago at the conclusion of her $20,000 breach of promise suit against former County Auditor James L. Starkey. While the jury returned a verdict of $10,000 in Miss Roberts' favor, Starkey departed the night before the verdict was rendered and has never been seen in Zanesville since.

At this time Miss Roberts, an artist of more than local note, was one of the city's most popular young society women. As a result of the sensational developments of that trial she has lived a comparatively secluded life. Now, however, she is a principal in another romance and is speeding toward California for the express purpose of becoming the wife of H. A. Welty, a rich land owner of Grenville, Cal., while William Moore, a Crooksville electrician whom she is said to have been engaged to marry and who had even gone so far as to have his wedding suit made and many of the household furnishings purchased, also is speeding toward the Golden Gate, not, however, in pursuit of Miss Roberts, but to find solace for an aching heart.

Miss Roberts' friends say she has always asserted that she has never loved any one but Starkey and that if she ever married it would be for money.

Last September she met Welty, who fell in love with her and courted her ardently. She accepted his advances, but also clung to Moore, who had purchased an automobile for her and had lavished upon her presents to the limit of his financial ability. Last Wednesday Welty started for his California home, and Miss Roberts left for the same place, though on a different train. Their friends believe that they were married en route, though some aver that the ceremony will not be performed until they reach the Pacific Coast.

The first that Moore knew of Miss Roberts' departure was when he, with two friends, drove to her country home to see her and there learned that she had suddenly and emphatically exercised woman's prerogative and changed her mind.

BEHEVED WHOLE BRITISH EMPIRE FACES CHANGE

London.—The belief is growing that the government will present a measure providing for the remodeling of the British empire at the coming session of parliament. It is agreed that something must be done to meet the demand for the abolition of the house of lords. Many members of that institution are now convinced that they must make some concession if they are to be suffered to exist as a branch of the government. It is possible, as was suggested some time ago, that the government may present a bill providing for a legislative division of the government similar to that prevailing in the United States. That means that the colonies and dependencies would be treated as the separate American states are, each having a home parliament and a measure of that kind would insure the colonies and dependencies home rule. Ireland, Scotland and India would be the principal beneficiaries, Ireland in particular. Canada practically governs itself. So do Australia and New Zealand. Scotland is somewhat different.

ENGLISH QUEEN MOTHER IS REPORTED INSANE

Copenhagen.—Has the mind of Queen Alexandra of England been affected by the death of her husband, King Edward?

There are those who have been in a position to observe her majesty since she has been at Hoidore who are inclined to answer this question in the affirmative. The queen is exceedingly nervous, is restless to an alarming degree and is inclined to be querulous and faultfinding. This is so different to her calm, gracious manner before her bereavement that it is causing grave concern to her relatives.

He indisposition to accept the position of dowager, her refusal to be called queen mother and her determination to maintain a separate court of her own, which has caused more or less embarrassment in England, are additional evidences that grief for her husband, for whom she had a sincere affection rather unusual among royalties, has affected Queen Alexandra's mind.

Many school children suffer from constipation, which is often the cause of seeming stupidity at lessons. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are an ideal medicine to give a child, for they are mild and gentle in their effect, and will cure even chronic constipation. Sold by all dealers.

which you hear and read so much about, we offer a machine that is perfect, absolutely perfect, a machine in which not the smallest detail can be improved.

And in order to get you to realize this superiority as we do, we have decided three things.

First, that we cannot afford to advertise its low price—you would never imagine that you could get so perfect a machine for so little money. To appreciate its price, you must come to the store and see the machine first.

Second, we will offer you the chance to test The FREE, from treadle to spool pin, in your own home. The best way for you to become enthusiastic over its one point of superiority after another is to actually sew on The FREE for 30 days. - There is the rare beauty of its French design and the Japanese finish which never shows dust.
- There are the 8 sets of Ball-Bearings which make it the lightest running sewing machine in the world.
- There is the "Robesville" movement—Mr. Free's own invention which makes The FREE faster than the fastest Rotary and simpler than the simplest shuttle.
- We want you to experience all of these things yourself and our third decision is to make it extremely easy for you to keep The FREE by offering it to you at your own terms as low as
