AT THE MOVING PICTURE SHOWS

The Orpheum.
Strong program for Tuesday's change.

1. The House of Seven Gables. Edison, 1000 feet long. Nearly everyone has read this story by Hawthorne. This picture succeeds in conveying what was in his mind when he wrote the book. The photography of this subject is exceptionally good and the acting accurate. Don't fail to see this picture.
2. A Life for Love. Pathe. A tragedy that has dramatic qualities.
3. Slippery Jim. Pathe. A trick picture full of lively scenes.
4. Pals of the Range. Essanay, 1000 feet long. A western dramatic film of unusual excellence. The story of the love of two cowboy pals for the same girl. The treachery of one and later his sacrifice of life and love for the friend and the girl he wronged. A strong feature is the Indian fight in the last scenes, which approaches realism more closely than anything of this nature ever produced.

Song—Dear Mayme I Love You.

Pastime Theater.
New program Tuesday as follows: "The Red Girl." Biograph drama. Another of those interesting Biograph pictures which seldom fails to please the most exacting audience.

"In the Golden Harvest Time." Selig drama. Young men seem to have a habit of becoming infatuated with dancers and actresses, and this excellent film presents one more instance of this malady. The setting for this picture is attractive, being in the golden harvest time, and the scenes are reproduced with fidelity. The pictures alone, without considering the story are worth seeing. The two together make a picture it would be difficult to surpass.

"45 Minutes from Broadway." Kalem. comedy. 100 good, hearty laughs in this real life comedy. Every mishap a big scream. "Laugh and the world laughs with you."

All the alley-ways and dark corners in the city of Washington are to be lighted at night for the suppression of crime.

BOOK TO EXPOSE STORY.

O'Brien to Tell Untold Part of Agrarian Affair Before Election.

Dublin.—Mr. William O'Brien has now in the press a book calculated to increase Mr. Redmond's troubles, and it will be out in time to do some damage in a general election next year. It tells the untold part of the agrarian story since the conference that founded the Wyndham act; how Mr. Dillon, left out of the conference tried to kill the Wyndham act from the start; how the sale of Mr. Redmond's estate astonished his colleagues; how Mr. Redmond agreed with Mr. O'Brien about the whole business until Mr. Dillon forced him to do otherwise, and how "Dillonism" stopped land purchase, leaving Mr. O'Brien the only party on the Nationalist side of the conference, who did not break through the joint obligations.

The chief causes, stopping sales under the Wyndham act, were the $25,000,000 a year being insufficient for the bargains arranged, the "bonus" running out, and the flotation losses through the continued depreciation of land stock, creating a liability which the treasury could not meet without a revision of its statutory authority. So far, Mr. Dillon's part in it is not directly apparent. It is this that Mr. O'Brien means to bring out.

MERCHANT GOES MAD OVER PARIS STREETS

Paris.—The municipal authorities here have much to answer for. These seven or eight years past they have torn up Paris streets until their condition has become a byword in Europe. The Place de l'Opera is now worse than ever. Every day or two fresh chasms are dug, and steam cranes ply their loads. Stones are piled up, roads and pavements are impassable, and foreign tourists look on in amazement. The municipality apparently takes delight in flouting public opinion, and at every fresh protest a new hole is dug.

Tradesmen, blocked in their stores by excavations for year after year, are literally going mad. An express from Le Treport-by-the-Sea to Paris was stopped the other night by a passenger pulling the communication cord. When the guard came, he said: "I am Falliers. I request the immediate presence of the Minister of Public Works, that he may report upon the state of the Paris streets. If he can't clear himself, I condemn him to death."

On arrival at Paris the poor man suddenly became violent, and a strait-jacket had to be put on him before he could be conveyed to an asylum.

The madman proved to be a shopkeeper whose shop has been cut off from all communication with the outside world for eight years, because his street has been torn up for that time. He brought action after action at law, claiming $20,000 damages, and the suits, of course still pending, eventually drove him out of his wits. He was sent to the seaside in care of keepers, but escaped from them to come to Paris.

Meanwhile Paris was disgraced and Parisians driven mad by the state of the Paris streets, but the municipality imperturbably continues its wrecking work. As I write I can see yet one more huge hole being dug in the Place de l'Opera.

DRINKING SHOWS DECLINE. Statistics Show Falling Off in Beer Consumption in England.

London.—The statistics of beer and spirit consumption contained in the latest annual report of the customs and excise commissioners must be gratifying reading to lovers of temperance. Although during 1909-10 the consumption of beer was only 412,000 barrels less than in the previous year—a decline of approximately 1 1/4 per cent—it makes a total decrease of 3,652,000 barrels in the last decade, every year of which shows a fall in the per capita consumption.

For every 50 glasses of beer drunk by John Bull in 1900-1 he consumed only 41 last year. The annual drop in the consumption of spirits is much more remarkable, amounting in 1909 and 1910 to as much as 33 1/3 per cent—one glass out of every three. In the 10 years the quantity of spirits drunk at home has fallen from 45,402,800 to 28,068,200 gallons, a decline of 43 per cent; while the consumption per head had fallen over 47 per cent—one glass of spirits in 1909-10, approximately taking the place of two in 1900-1.

ERROR OF PUNCTUATION COST HUSBAND $30,000

Paris.—Parisian tradespeople perhaps rather naturally love stories of American multi-millionaires. A jeweler tells how an error in telegraphic transmission brought him in several thousand francs.

The wife of an American "king" of something or other who was in Paris, while her husband had remained in the states, saw in the jeweler's shop a diamond tiara priced at $17,000 which she fancied. She called a description of the tiara, finishing up with "May I buy it?" The husband called back, "Never, too dear."

The telegram handed to the lady ran, "Never too dear." She thought it very nice of him and as he considered nothing was too dear for him to give her she went straight out and bought a $30,000 diamond tiara, which, on second thought, she liked better.

Czarina Is Still Ailing.

Berlin.—The "Berliner Tageblatt" publishes a telegram from Frankfurt stating that the czar and the Grand Duke of Hesse, after motoring from Friedberg to Frankfurt, lunched at a hotel opposite the station. After the repast the czar left the hotel by the kitchen, in order to escape the crowd which had gathered in front of the building.

Reports are current at Friedberg that the czar's cure is not having the desired effect. It is noticed that her majesty rarely accompanies her husband and her brother, the grand duke, on their numerous excursions, and is generally in a bath chair when she appears in public.

A Drinker's Longevity.

Geneva.—Dr. Isenbart a Swiss medical man, has just published some surprising statistics showing that a drunkard lives longer than a total abstainer if the former is not subject to any other "disease." The average age of a drunkard, he says, is fifty-three years; of an immoderate drinker, fifty-seven and of a moderate drinker, sixty three. The teetotaler, according to Dr. Isenbart, reaches the age of fifty with difficulty, and his average may be put down to fifty-one years, according to his experience.

Slowboy—Do you—think your father would kick me out if I was to—ask him for your hand?

Miss Willing—No, but I'm afraid he will if you don't ask him pretty soon.

A clean and careful shave always at Mark Patton's shop. Across from Alexanders. Phone for patrons.

More moving pictures shown than any other theatre in the city—the Pastime.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

Railroad Gives Mortgage.
Astoria, Or.—A mortgage given by the Astoria Southern Railway company of Illinois, was filed in the county clerk's office Saturday morning.

The mortgage covers the railway company's right of way, grade and rolling stock and is to secure $200,000, in ten years, 6 per cent bonds. The money is to be used for the construction of a railroad from Youngs river into the timber tract in what is known as the Klaskanine river district.

The mortgage consists of 57 printed pages, and the filing fees were $37.20.

Idaho Teachers to Meet.
Boise, Idaho.—The Idaho State Teachers' association will meet in Boise in annual session November 25 and 26, one month earlier than usual. It is believed that fully 800 school teachers and instructors from all parts of the state will be in attendance. This year's meeting will be featured by the large number of noted lecturers who will speak to the delegates on the vital questions involved in the task of teaching the child and older student.

The delegates will be elaborately entertained while in the capital city, every effort being made to make the convalescence one of the most pleasant, and along this line the convention reputation of Boise will be upheld. Drives about the city, special entertainments, concerts, etc., will mark the evenings and days of the week, and although the association is actually in session but two days the delegates will be entertained from the time they arrive until they leave, making almost a week of the meeting.

Baker Postoffice Done.
Baker City, Or.—One year, three months and 12 days after ground was broken, the federal postoffice was turned over to Postmaster Lachner by the contractors having been formally accepted by Inspector B. C. Adams, of the postoffice department today. The first mail was sent from the new office tonight, the fixtures having been moved this afternoon.

The congressional appropriation for the building was $55,000 and the whole amount has been used in the construction of the building, which is a beautiful edifice and will accommodate the needs of this city for a long time, even in the face of the present rapid growth. It is constructed of the light gray native building stone and is first class in its interior fittings, having all the latest equipment for the rapid and accurate handling of mail.

The acceptance of the building has been delayed a long time owing to a number of technical proceedings between the contractors and the government, and the people are highly gratified that at last the new post office is a reality. The contracts were the Campbell Building company, of Salt Lake City, and the foreman in charge was J. E. Delehanty.

Old Mine Proves Winner.
Boise, Idaho.—The Elk creek mining district is rich in placer mines destined to produce millions of dollars worth of gold, according to the prediction of Dr. H. E. Snyder of Stites, who says he looks for a stampede into the rich district. He is familiar with the country and character of ore.

The American Eagle is not a property, but quartz. The placer was opened up about ten years ago by a Chicago syndicate, and capitalized for an enormous sum. The stock was listed in all of the mining exchanges throughout the country with the result that hundreds of dollars of the securities were sold. After the promoters had gone to great expense in installing machinery, and the mine had worked but a short time, the ore vein pinched out and the property was abandoned.

Billy Boyd was superintendent of the mine when it first opened. He had faith in it, but often declared that it was not being properly worked. This criticism cost Boyd his job. When the property closed, however, the stock was dumped on the market for practically nothing and Boyd bought it in, until he had control. He had confidence in the property.

Cross-cutting the tunnel of the old mine, Boyd worked out his own theory and was rewarded by striking a vein of ore the values in which assayed as high as $600 a ton.

MOTOR MAKERS FEARFUL.

British Manufacturers Dislike American Car Invasion.

London.—Automobilists are thronging London for the week end, having come to town to see the latest cars at the International Motor Car exhibit or Olympia that opened recently.

Britishers are delighted to find fully a third of the exhibits are home made, for British makers have been recovering lost ground of late. But they are nervous because a big contingent of cheap American cars has arrived for sale in the chief cities, and more are coming. They say America is "dumping" its surplus stock here at prices even below Am-

CATARRH A SYSTEMIC BLOOD DISEASE

Catarrah is not merely an affection of the mucous membranes; it is a deep-seated blood disease in which the entire circulation and greater part of the system are involved. It is more commonly manifested in the head, nose and throat, because of the sensitive nature of these membranes, and also because they are more easily reached by irritating influences from the outside. The symptoms of Catarrah, such as a tight feeling in the head, nose stopped up, throat clogged and dry, hacking cough, etc., show that the tiny blood vessels of the mucous membranes are badly congested and inflamed from the impurities in the circulation. To cure Catarrah permanently the blood must be purified and the system cleansed of all unhealthy matter. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It attacks the disease at its head, goes down to the bottom of the trouble and makes a complete and lasting cure by PURIFYING the blood. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, the head is cleared, breathing becomes natural and easy, the throat is no longer clogged, and every unpleasant symptom of the disease disappears. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and for this reason is the most certain cure for Catarrah. Ask on Catarrah and medical advice to all who write.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

erican quotations, to effect a clearance, and all sorts of inducements in the shape of free spare parts are to be offered during the next few months to stir up British interest in this enterprise.

The Olympia show, anyway, shows makers on this side are in a good position today. All-round improvements in engines are to be noted. It would seem that the popular cars next year will be from 12 to 100 horsepower. This is far less than formerly, but the greater efficiency of the engines enables ordinary motorists to get along with the decreased horsepower.

A funny side of the show is that though there is every kind of an auto horn in the stands nobody is allowed to sound them. For the management fear general deafness if the tests become frequent and free.

METHOD OF INDIANS PREVENTED FOREST FIRES

In the opinion of many timber owners and lumbermen, forest fires such as are now raging over the country could be averted by the adoption of the methods of the Indians. The red men set fire to the underbrush in the early spring or late fall when standing timber carries moisture, and the ground remained bare during the hot and dry months of summer.

Several large logging concerns have gone back to the way of the Indian and have found it practical. Among these are not a few on the lower Columbia river and in none of these camps have the owners had trouble with fire this summer in spite of the prolonged dry season and the danger from sparks from logging and donkey engines.

It is suggested that if the government forest service would adopt the method fire danger would soon be reduced to the minimum for conflagration could be checked in its incipency with comparatively little effort.

Edmond P. Sheldon, a lumberman, who, for three years, had charge of the State Forest Fire association of this state, coincides with those who have come to the conclusion that the forest fire danger can be reduced by burning underbrush before or after the dry season.

"The Indians know the secret of guarding against such devastating fires as are now sweeping over the state," said Mr. Sheldon. "In those days the woods were kept free from underbrush that it was possible to drive through a dense forest. This is now impossible, for in a few years the underbrush attains such size and density that it is in many places impossible to walk through it."

"Several large logging concerns are making systematic burns each spring or fall and have no trouble with fires. A small blaze may start, but it has no chance to spread and the loss is therefore confined to the time spent in extinguishing it and it can easily be put under control by a few of the camp employees."—Journal.

ROLLS MEMORIAL TO BE AERONAUTIC INSTITUTE

London.—All sorts of suggestions have been put forward for a memorial to the late Hon. Charles Rolls, the daring young aviator and motorist, who met with such a terrible death at Bournemouth. There was, of course, the usual demand for a statue, but the Aerial League has decided that the memorial shall take the form of a national institute of aeronautics. At present England is without any institution of this kind, while France, Germany and Italy all have their schools of aviation.

The first step to be taken by the Aerial League will be in the direction of finding a suitable site within easy reach of London. Several wealthy men have come forward and offered portions of their estates gratis, but so far the difficulty has been to find a stretch of country bare enough for beginners in the art of flying.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS. PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.
