

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF OLD NEW YORK

New York.—Estimates as to the number of turkeys that will give us their lives within the next few days to make a Gotham holiday vary as widely as the census returns from St. Joe, Mo. One market man who was interviewed on the subject said he really didn't know, of course, but guessed that the drumsticks of about a million birds would go into the discard. Another placed the figure at 250,000, while a third intimated that New Yorkers would have to struggle along on 150,000 or so.

It is certain that many thousands of poor people who have heretofore had turkeys on the Thanksgiving table will have to be content with smaller but more delicious fowls next Thursday. Very few of the charitable organizations that are arranging feasts and baskets of food for the needy will include turkeys on their bill of fare. Philosophical folk are likely to reflect that the turkey is a bun bird and an overpraised institution, anyway, and the shortage of the young turkey crop will cause little regret.

A ceremony of interest to Catholics throughout the world will take place on the morning of Thanksgiving Day, in Riverside Park, where a monument will be unveiled to the memory of Orestes Augustus Brownson, perhaps the most distinguished of American scholars and authors. A memorial meeting was held this week, and a number of the most distinguished Catholic clergy and laymen of the country will take part in next Thursday's exercises.

Brownson's religious career was unique. Born and reared in extreme poverty, he nevertheless succeeded in gaining an academic education, and prepared himself for the Presbyterian pulpit. Then the liberalizing influence of the times made itself felt, and he entered the Universalist ministry. In 1832, at the age of 23, he became acquainted with William Ellery Channing, and under the influence of that brilliant man was led into the Unitarian ministry. For six years, as pastor of a Boston church and founder of a periodical, he was one of the leaders of the religious liberals.

So far his life history was that of many men of earnest, inquiring minds, who, dissatisfied with orthodox, became Unitarians or agnostics. But the remainder of his life was the most effective lay propagandist of that church in the new world. He wrote numerous books, which, since his death at Detroit, April 17, 1876, have been collected and published in nineteen large volumes. The movement to erect a monument to his history was commenced a quarter of a century ago, but it was not until the present year that the Brownson memorial committee found its task nearing accomplishment.

Mrs. Hetty Howland Robinson Green, famed as the world's greatest reminiscence financier, will celebrate her seventh-fifth birthday on Monday. It is said that many of the financial operations to which Mrs. Green previously gave her personal and undivided attention have been turned over to her son, and her final retirement from active business is probably now a matter of only a short time.

Counterfeit $5 and $10 bills are more numerous in New York just now than ever before, and it is believed that thousands of such "queer" certificates are in circulation among the unsuspecting. Several hundred dollar bills have also turned up, and it is the part of wisdom to carefully examine all bills of that denomination before accepting them. This counterfeit is easy of detection, however, as the title reads "register of the treasurer." Instead of "register of the treasury." Otherwise the bogus bill is fairly well executed.

Perhaps the most highly honored school teacher of the country is Thomas Hunter, now nearly eighty years young, who will be the guest of honor at the annual reunion and banquet of the Thomas Hunter association, to be held tonight at the

A Word to the Wise Christmas SHOPPER

The wise Christmas shopper is the early one. The majority of mankind—and womankind, too—is prone to wait until the last moment—even until Christmas Eve—and then rush breathlessly from place to place, only to find the choice goods gone. The wise go early about this important task and find it, the earlier they go, the greater pleasure. Now is the time. Our stock is complete and new, and we can promise to all who come, that prompt and courteous attention which has made our store a pleasure to Christmas buyers.

Hotel Astor. Between 1850 and 1870, Mr. Hunter was the principal of public school No. 35, and every year his old pupils get together and temporarily forget the years that have intervened since they were "kids." Hundreds of Mr. Hunter's "boys" have been honored in professions, business and politics, but tonight they will cast all their dignity to the winds and the Astor will have a lively and ravenous bunch of youngsters to feed and keep out of mischief.

Many years ago Joe Weber, proprietor of Weber's theater, was a newsboy, and his "partner" was Charles S. Adler, who later became assemblyman and republican leader of the district known as "de Aate." Now Adler is ill and all but down and out and his former newsboy chum has come to his relief by arranging a big benefit performance for tomorrow. The east side will turn out in force and the house is already sold out. During his days of leadership, Adler saved thousands of families from being turned out of their homes for non-payment of rent, and his purse was always open to the needy.

Another case growing out of alleged careless automobile driving will be tried in New York next week, the defendant being John H. Tyson, of Stamford, Conn. More than two years ago Olaf Gunderson, launchman of the Columbia Yacht club, was run down and killed by a motor car. Tyson was alleged to have been the driver of the car, and he was arrested indicted and later released on $1,000 bail. The delay in the trial was due to trouble in locating the principal witnesses.

"Beautiful Gladys, the Policeman's Daughter," might serve as the title for a thrilling romance by Laura Jean Libbey, with the heroine marrying a bona fide baron and living happily ever after. And the romance could be based on facts, for Miss Gladys Charlotte Murphy, daughter of Policeman "Mile-Minute" Murphy is soon to become the bride of Baron Frederick Arthur Rudolph Von Norman, who comes of one of the oldest families of Germany. He is a naturalized American citizen, however, and has dropped his title and his allegiance to the Kaiser. The baron has acquired considerable wealth since his arrival in America, but has no intention of ever returning to the fatherland.

ECHO NEWS AND PERSONAL NOTES

(Special Correspondence.) Echo, Ore., Nov. 19.—Mr. J. H. Durham, proprietor of the Hotel Echo is the proud possessor of a box of prize apples from the Spokane apple show. The apples were sent to him by Mrs. Reta Simms, who was in charge of a part of the exhibit. Fifteen years ago Mrs. Simms' father served with Mr. Durham on the police force in Pendleton.

The body of Robert Thom, a pioneer of Umatilla Co., was laid to rest here in the L. O. O. F. cemetery yesterday. F. T. George has about completed the removal of his stock of merchandise from the Koontz building near the west end of Main street to his own reinforced concrete building at the corner of Bridge and Bonanza streets. Mr. George bought this building of Frank Dorn some two months ago and has fitted up the second story for housekeeping apartments and now lives there. His large stock of goods occupies the first floor. This building is centrally located and is one of the best business corners in town.

Three hoboes were arrested here yesterday for disorderly conduct and put in the city jail. Just after dark they tore up the bed and with the timbers pried the bars off the jail window and made their escape. Miss Ina Watenburger left this morning for Pendleton where she will visit for a few days with friends and then go on to La Grande where she will attend the institute.

Miss Eunice Mudge is here from Portland visiting with friends. Mrs. E. M. Dyer of Hermiston was a visitor in Echo yesterday. She was here looking after the organization of a painting class. R. J. Yerxa and daughter Miss Tella Yerxa, of Umatilla, spent the day at this place yesterday.

Mrs. F. E. Everitt and Mrs. Emma Greszler visited in Stanfield yesterday. Miss Lenora Isaacson passed through Echo this morning on her way to La Grande. Miss Isaacson teaches at the Thomson school on Butcher creek.

Lulu Crayne visited today with her sister, Mrs. Jesse Cates of Coe. Miss May Balcolm made a business trip to Nolin this morning and returned home on No. 1, the local train.

A LOVE INCUBUS.

Washington Pastor Urges Parents to Watch for Plague. Washington.—"Look out for the love incubus."

Many Washington parents are seriously considering this warning delivered by the Rev. E. Hez Swem, pastor of the Capital Baptist church. "This incubus," he says, "may be universal. I don't know about that, but I do know that it creates havoc in Washington. Girls and boys in school, young people at theatres, misses and youths on the streets are afflicted with it. I see it everywhere. And oftentimes the parents do not discover the ravages in their own family until a secret marriage is divulged. We can't stamp it out, like typhoid or malaria, either," continued Mr. Swem. "The best we can do is to regulate it like the corporations and parents had better be considering the problem."

MILLIONAIRE WOULD BANKRUPT HIS SON

Berlin.—An application has been made in the city court for an official order declaring August Thyssen, jr., to be a bankrupt. August Thyssen, jr., is the eldest son of August Thyssen, sr. Thyssen, sr. is worth approximately $150,000,000. For many years there has been war between Thyssen, sr., and Thyssen, jr. Some time ago Thyssen endeavored to kidnap his eldest son and incarcerate him in a lunatic asylum as a madman. Thyssen jr. escaped that fate with the help of the publicity given to the case by the press, retaliated by financing the colliers employed in his father's mines in west Germany when they went out on strike. Thanks to his contributions the strikers were able to win. There have been many other recriminations between father and son and numerous public scandals. Thyssen, jr., lives in permanent fear of being kidnaped and placed in a lunatic asylum, and never has a fixed place of abode. He is hunted from corner to corner, and never feels secure and is always trying to cover his tracks. His troubles are increased by the fact that his father has long refused to give him a single penny. According to German law the Thyssen property must be divided in equal parts between his children at his death. There are four children, and each will therefore become entitled to approximately $37,000,000. On the strength of his future inheritance Thyssen, jr., has borrowed large sums from many usurers and has invested heavily in numerous speculations and enterprises, nearly always with absolutely disastrous results. The present application for an order of bankruptcy is the result of his unsuccessful operations.

Would Be Youngest Chief. Washington. — Should Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes be made Chief Justice of the United States, he will not only be the youngest member of the present supreme bench, but the youngest presiding justice, save two, in the history of the court. John Hay, appointed in 1878 by President Washington, was at that time 35 years of age, and John Marshall, appointed in 1801, was 46. Hughes is now 48 years old.
