AT THE MOVING PICTURE SHOWS

The Orpheum.

Fine program for Friday's change. 1. Extra—Selig's special. Mexican centennial celebration, 1900 feet long. An educational picture of real value, a marvel of beauty. Participated in by President Diaz, his staff, foreign diplomats and dignitaries.

2. Sunshine Sue. Biograph, 1000 feet long. Innocence protected from the wiles of a designer.

3. Generous Customers. Melies, 500 feet long. An original subject showing a party of automobilists playing upon the credulity of a restaurateur and induced him and his waiter to engage in a species of blind-man's buff which apparently proved costly.

4. Birthday Cigars. Melies, 500 feet long. A rattling comedy which is based upon the disagreement of labels upon two boxes of cigars.

The Pastime.

Three feature films for Friday's new program.

"Captain Barnacle's Chaperone." Vitagraph, comedy drama. This is a refined comedy with extremely good characterization. It shows how a bright young lover outwitted his girl's father and the chaperone employed to watch the young sweethearts. The question is whether it was quite square for even a lover to so cruelly deceive a chaperone.

"Blasted Hopes." Selig, drama. A love story representing a country girl deceived by a city man. He forgets her and marries another and when she seeks him and discovers the truth she falls insensible, heartbroken by his heartless action.

"The Strongest Tie." Kalem, drama. A dramatic production par excellence. "And a little child shall lead them." This picture shows clearly that mother love is the strongest tie and that former lovers count for little when set over against the little one.

BRIDE FAILS TO APPEAR.

Wedding Party Waits in Vain For Needed Presence.

And the bridegroom waited. The hour for the wedding had come, but the bride appeared not. Judge E. H. Sullivan donned his judicial robe, the bridegroom nervously brushed a speck from his cuff, the father of the bridegroom was quietly musing at the window, the best man offered his consolation, and the hymnal procession was ready to start, but still the bride came not.

The marriage of Annie Prusche to Royal Trusty had been announced in the judicial bans for high noon yesterday in the superior court, but the ceremony was halted by the unusual condition of a marriage without a bride. The time when the bridegroom has had a change of heart and mind have been innumerable, but for the sweet, blushing bride to cast off the marriage veil and shake her finger at Dan Cupid was a surprise totally unheard of locally.

Contractor Dan Cupid suffered from the shock, but did not lose hope as the hours passed. However, when evening came and the bridegroom was noticeably depressed, for he went back to his cell in the county jail.

The address given by the young woman as the one for the wedding carriage to call at in order to bring here to the scene of the ceremony was 410 Stevens street, but she was not found at that address yesterday and so far has not been located by those interested in the wedding.

The bridegroom was taken into custody four weeks ago on a charge preferred by the young woman. She was more than willing and the date was set, but the bride has failed him. The wedding has now been postponed until Tuesday and if the bride does not appear Trusty will call the wedding off and be permitted to go his way. —Spokesman Review.

WOULD SELL A KINGDOM.

Prince of Monaco Seeking Some Way By Which He May Disinherit His Son.

Paris.—Albert the First, Prince of Monaco, has been secretly negotiating with the emperor of Germany for the sale of his few square miles of territory. This old sea diver has a son by his wife, the daughter of the Duke of Hamilton. He has had no children by his second wife, who was a Miss Heine, daughter of the New Orleans banker.

The prince detests his only son quite as cordially as he learned to detest the English mother. The vatican declared this marriage null and void in order that Prince Albert might be free to marry the American woman, but he cannot, much as he would like, disinherit his son. Now if he could sell his principality to Germany for a round sum, there would be nothing for the young prince to inherit.

Divining Rod a Fake.

Washington.—In a cold and scientific report M. L. Fuller of the United States Geological Survey, has shattered the popular belief that the divining rod is a water finder. Faith in the dipping twig is based on a delusion, he asserts, and the man who says he can locate water supplies by its use is a pretender.

DIRECTORS' MEETING TO BE IMPORTANT

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT WILL ENTERTAIN DELEGATES

Superintendent Ackerman to Be the Principal Speaker and Occasion Will Be His Last Appearance—Directors Should Attend Gathering.

"School directors from all over the county are planning to gather in Pendleton December 10 for the annual school board convention," said County Superintendent Welles this morning.

State Superintendent Ackerman will be the speaker of the day, and as it will be his last official visit to this county, there is no question but that a record gathering will be in the city to hear him.

There will be singing by the Pendleton Male Quartet, and a number of literary features.

Superintendent Welles intends to treat the directors as his guests, and for that purpose has engaged J. W. L. Kaufman, a humorist, to give several of his side-splitting entertainments.

The school officers in this community are among the most progressive in the county, and there will be a large delegation from Pendleton and the surrounding districts.

The railroad companies are granting special rates for the meeting, thus insuring its success from an attendance standpoint. The motor car will bring those up from the west end of the county, the Walla Walla local will carry those from the east end, while the Northern Pacific will bring those in from the districts in the northern part of the county.

Speaking further of the meeting, Superintendent Welles said:

Meeting is Important. "Every school officer should make an effort to attend. Many questions of vital importance to the public schools are discussed at these meetings, and district officers cannot afford to miss this opportunity of becoming better informed regarding their duties.

"The taxpayers and voters of the districts elect these men to represent them in school matters, and they have a right to expect that their representatives will administer the school affairs according to law and for the best interests of the people. They cannot do this unless they keep themselves informed regarding the laws, and the conditions existing in other districts. Here is where the directors' convention helps. The exchange of ideas and the helpful suggestions given at these meetings means much to the schools. Times are changing. Improvements are being made in other lines, and the schools must keep up with the procession. The district officer who is too busy with his own affairs to properly attend to his official duties, or who through lack of enterprise or interest neglects to take advantage of the opportunities that are offered for the betterment of his school, is behind the times."

THIS CHILD'S HEAD IS SIZE OF DOLLAR

St. Louis.—The Million Population club has a recruit in Mrs. Charles F. Sells's 17-day-old son, Friedrich Wilhelm, who weighs one pound and 13 ounces. Mrs. Sells is the wife of the proprietor of the Elm hotel, 1445 North Broadway.

When Friedrich Wilhelm was born, his head was a little larger in diameter than a silver dollar and he could have been comfortably housed in a quart cup. He was wrapped in cotton batting and placed on a hot water bottle, where he has since dwelt. Thanks to his insatiable appetite, he has gained a quarter of a pound in weight, and has surprised his physician.
