SMALLEST REPUBLIC IN THE WORLD FOUNDED

London, Dec. 10.—Unconfirmed reports of a rebellion in the Principality of Monaco and the proclaiming of a republic by rebels was printed today in the Pall Mall Gazette. The dispatches say the Prince of Monaco has been deposed and that municipal council is now directing affairs. If true, Monaco is the smallest republic in the world.

Attorney Dan P. Smythe left this afternoon for Portland to make some arrangements for the coming convention of the Oregon Wool Growers' association and also to transact legal business.

OREGON CATTLE BREEDERS ARE INTRODUCING BLOODED STOCK

That cattle breeders in Oregon and the northwest are becoming more and more awake to the advantage to be derived from high standard stock is evident by the new blood which is being infused into the industry by the importation of thoroughbred bulls and heifers by men prominent in the stockraising business.

That this state is not backward in producing short horns of the highest grade was testified to by the remarkable record made by the exhibit of W. O. Minor, the Hepper stockman, at the recent livestock show in Chicago. Not only did his entries carry off their proportion of the prizes, but they were sold afterwards for exceptionally high prices.

Breeders of Jerseys are progressive also. According to Dr. S. W. McClure, northwest chief of the federal bureau of animal industry who has his headquarters in this city, much new stock is being shipped into the state. Recently, he says, J. B. Stump of Mon-

FIGHT BEGUN FOR PORTER CHARLTON

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 10.—The fight to prevent the extradition of Porter Charlton to Italy where he is wanted to face a charge of murdering his wife, Mary Scott Charlton has only begun, according to R. Floyd Clark, Charlton's chief counsel.

Secretary Knox's decision that Charlton can be extradited is not final, says Clark. He claims the treaty with Italy is void in this respect because Italy refused to return to America some prisoners wanted here. Clark says he will carry the case to the supreme court. Habeas corpus proceedings will likewise be taken in the circuit court to prevent extradition.

Habeas Corpus Started. Trenton, N. J., Dec. 10.—The fight to prevent the extradition of Porter Charlton to Italy to face the charge of murdering his wife at Lake Como, began today when Charlton's father through his attorneys asked for a writ of habeas corpus for the release and a writ of certiorari. Judge John L. Bellstab granted both and set the hearing for December 19. This follows the action of Secretary Knox who granted the extradition.

DIRECTORS OF COUNTY MEET

Third Annual Convention of Umatilla County School Boards Most Successful.

MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED DIRECTORS IN ATTENDANCE

Problems Confronting School Districts of County Being Discussed—Many Questions Asked and Answered—State Superintendent Ackerman and Superintendent Robinson of Multnomah County Among Principal Speakers.

With one hundred and eight directors and fifteen visitors in attendance at the morning session and more arriving every hour to be present this afternoon, the third annual convention of the Umatilla County School Boards was convened today in the circuit court room at the court house. These annual gatherings are arranged on a mutual benefit basis and will eventually become a leading factor in the solution of all the problems which confront school authorities.

While much of the time at both sessions today was consumed by addresses and musical selections, considerable time was devoted to a free discussion and the asking and answering of questions from which it was manifest that great interest prevailed among the directors.

County Superintendent Frank K. Welles opened the meeting with a short talk after which the Pendleton quartet rendered a selection. Superintendent R. F. Robinson of Multnomah county was the first speaker and he discussed in detail the qualifications of an efficient member of a school board, stating that such a man should be ready at all times to listen to the complaints from the parents of his district, should give such complaints thorough consideration and should be capable of reasoning with unreasonable people. Further, he stated, the board should meet at least once a month and should invite the teachers and public to such meetings.

State Superintendent Ackerman, who delivered the only other address this morning preached the doctrine of sanitation and health in schools. Pure water, pure air, and chastity in out buildings were the three things he was insistent upon as necessary in each school for securing the physical, mental and moral health and development of children.

Another selection by the quartet and a humorous reading by Principal J. W. L. Kaufman of Ione, both of which were greatly appreciated, completed the program at the morning session.

Afternoon Session. Both Robinson and Ackerman were again the principal speakers this afternoon, Robinson speaking along the line taken up by the state superintendent in the morning, that is on the question of the physical environment of the school. At the conclusion of his address he devoted considerable time to the answering of questions put by the directors.

Superintendent Ackerman took as the theme of his address this afternoon the more efficient supervision of 2d and 3d class schools, pointing out the advantages to be gained by such a method. "If supervision over city teachers is good, then supervision over country teachers is better," he stated, "and that is a task the educational authorities of this state must assume."

Two selections by the quartet and another reading by Principal Kaufman concluded the session, and adjournment was taken shortly after four o'clock.

DR. COE WANTS $1,400,000

Damage Suit Filed in Portland Against W. J. Furnish Charges Fraud.

LOCAL MEN WILL SOON FILE ANSWER

Until Full Statement is Prepared Withhold Reply to Attacks Made—Colonel Raley Denies Personal Charge That He Acted Simultaneously as Attorney for Coe and Furnish—The Coe Complaint in Detail.

Dr. Henry Waldo Coe has brought suit against W. J. Furnish in the circuit court in Portland for $1,400,000 actual and $300,000 punitive damages for an alleged conspiracy to defraud, defame and injure Coe in his handling of the affairs of the Inland Irrigation company and the Furnish Ditch company. Coe has also filed suit against the Inland Irrigation company, the Furnish Ditch company, Furnish and H. L. Moody for $800,000 damages because of the cancellation of the contract held by him for the handling and sale of the lands of the two companies. He also asks costs and disbursements.

The two suits, in which Coe asks aggregate damages of $1,400,000, have grown out of the dispute between Coe and Furnish over the transaction of the business of marketing the Furnish lands near Pendleton in Umatilla county.

Will Answer Charges. "At this time I do not want to reply in detail to the charges made by Dr. Coe, neither does Mr. Furnish," said Colonel J. H. Raley to the East Oregonian this afternoon. It is a case that involves so many things that must be set forth at length in order to be properly understood. Within a short time we will file a formal answer to the complaint filed in Portland and until that answer is ready we will have no statement to make.

Answers Personal Charge. However, upon one feature of the charge brought by Dr. Coe, Colonel Raley was willing to speak at once. It was to deny emphatically the accusation that he served simultaneously as attorney for Dr. Coe and for W. J. Furnish. According to Col. Raley the charge is wholly unjustified. He says that when the Furnish-Coe contract was drawn up the work was done at the Imperial hotel in Portland. He was present as attorney for the Furnish Irrigation company. Dr. Coe was represented by George S. Shepard and Charles H. Carey, while A. C. Spencer was present as attorney for the Hibernia Savings bank. Colonel Raley also represented W. J. Furnish in connection with the bond issue that was made.

The following story from the Oregon Journal sets forth in detail the charges in the complaint filed by Dr. Coe.

Sensational Charges. In the complaints filed Coe makes sensational allegations against Furnish, owner of the lands, J. H. Raley of Pendleton, attorney for the companies, and H. L. Moody, president of the irrigation companies.

It is set out in the complaints that up to July 2, 1910, the business and social relations of the plaintiff and Furnish were pleasant, and that Coe had every confidence in the friendship and integrity of Furnish. He did not believe, he says, that Furnish would enter into any plan or scheme to injure the plaintiff, damage his reputation, defraud or defame him. Furnish took advantage of this trustfulness, Coe alleges, and conspired to wrong and defraud him.

Coe alleges that he entered into a contract with Furnish February 25, 1909, to handle the lands of the two irrigation companies. When he entered into the fulfillment of the contract, Coe says, he found that the project was in a badly tangled and disorganized condition. Furnish had been unsuccessfully trying to market the lands. The project was greatly indebted, sales were at a standstill and the property apparently had no market value.

Sold Much Land. No provision had been made by Furnish for the construction of dams or reservoirs, the system of ditches was defective and inadequate, and things were in a bad state generally. However, Coe sets out, between the date of the contract and July 1, 1910, he had sold upwards of $500,000 worth of land, for which $275,000 had been paid as a part of the purchase price on the contracts of sale. Reservoir sites had been purchased, dams had nearly been completed, ditches had been reconstructed, and the price of the land had jumped from $40 to $80 an acre to $200 and $300 an acre.

COUNTING VOTE ON STRIKE ISSUE

REPORTED THAT ENGINEERS WILL TIE UP RAILROADS

Believed That Refusal of Western Roads to Grant Increase of Fifteen Per Cent in Wages Will Result in Tying Up of Many Western Lines.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 10.—The count of the votes on the strike question by the engineers of sixty-one western railroads, unless a wage increase is granted, was started today by the officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers gathered here. The counting is under way at the Great Northern Hotel.

While the ballot was taken secretly it is believed the engineers voted to strike. It is intimated that the votes may not be all counted before representatives of the railroads meet the general managers of the railroads Monday to negotiate for the fifteen per cent increase in wages. It is probable the negotiations will take much time.

The engineers' representatives intimated that they will use every persuasion possible before orders are given the men to strike.

POULTRY SHOW WILL OPEN IN ARMORY TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Everything is now in readiness for the opening of the big poultry show in the armory building on Court street next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Entries are now being received by the secretary and the birds will be received up until noon Monday. Some may come Monday afternoon and evening but the management must be notified to that effect before hand or they will not be received. This action is necessary in order that there will be no delay in the opening.

Entries were received this morning from as far east as Cove, Oregon, and as far north as Winona, Washington.

Among the entries already made is an exhibit of white crested black Polish. These very striking looking birds have never been seen in Pendleton before and will therefore be viewed with interest by the hundreds of visitors at the show. These came from Freewater.

Another new bird which will be seen at this show is the Black Java, which is to be exhibited by Earl Williams of Milton, who will again be present with a large exhibit of Columbian Plymouth Rocks.

A. B. Haswell of Pilot Rock, will also be here with a trio of Mottled Anconas. This breed is entirely new to Umatilla county breeders.

All those who attended the meeting of Knights Templar last night are loud in their praises of Director T. R. Barks, who will have charge of the United Orchestra during the show and will direct each of the evening concerts.

Mrs. Barks, the violinist, also created a profound impression last evening and elicited for herself many favorable comments from the judicial critics present. The rehearsals are progressing most satisfactorily and it is now apparent that the evening concerts will be the most enjoyable series of orchestra concerts ever given in this city. Chairs will be provided for the audience this year and there will be enough heat so those who wish to sit and listen to the music will be comfortable. The next rehearsal will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the armory hall.
