

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

Death From Alcohol.

Spokane—Treated to raw alcohol by a trainman at Camden, Wash., last night, Albert Merritt, a 17-year-old boy, drank enough of the fluid to cause his death this morning. Two boys were with him, were ill all night but will recover.

Merritt is said to have taken eight glasses of the raw alcohol. He managed to reach the depot, trying to get to his home in Spokane, and died there.

Selecting Rhodes Scholar.

Whitman College, Walla Walla.—A committee composed of the president and registrar of the college and Professors Bratton and Todd, was appointed at the recent faculty meeting to take up the Rhodes scholarship. There are three eligible Whitman men, Yater and Milne who passed this year, and Neterer who took the examination last year. The faculty will choose one of the three and he will meet the committee, composed of the president of the Washington colleges, before whom a representative of each college will appear.

Discontinue Deeds to Reds.

Ronan, Mont.—The Indian commissioner at Washington, D. C., has ordered the discontinuance of the issuing of deeds to the Indians on their allotments on the Flathead reservation. The Indians are expecting to get their water free from the government irrigation projects, and as some of them have sold a part of their allotments as soon as the government gave them a clear title, the question came up, "Does the free water right go with the land when conveyed to another party?" This question will be adjusted before more deeds in fee are granted to the allottees.

Brother Dead; Girl Weds.

Ronan, Mont.—On the day after her brother's remains were brought from Willows, California, where he was stabbed to death by a drunken man, Miss Ada Dupuis and Phillip G. Hull, left for Missoula to secure a marriage license. Father Edward J. Griva will perform the ceremony. The young couple will make their home in Ronan, where Mr. Hull is employed in his father's store.

Alex. Dupuis, victim of the stabbing affray, was born in Chewelah, Wash., 22 years ago. Besides relatives here and in Washington, he leaves a wife and child.

Lumberjacks on Strike.

Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.—Complaining that they have received no pay for several months, 15 members of Sullivan & Cady's logging crew of Lane, Idaho, went on a strike Thursday, demanding a settlement of their wages. The 15 lumberjacks came to Coeur d'Alene this morning prepared to bring suit against their employers.

P. J. Sullivan and Cid Kady, the contractors, also came to town today, however, and after a meeting with the men they agreed to wait until this evening before starting an action. The camp is employed on a contract with the Idaho Pine company.

Pasco Wants Bridge.

Pasco, Wash.—The meeting of the Pasco Commercial club this week proved an interesting session. The most important matter discussed was on the proposed new bridge across the Columbia river to connect this city with Kennewick. A communication from B. B. Horrigan, member of the State Legislature was received, urging the united action of the Commercial clubs of Pasco and Kennewick.

This matter will be brought up in the legislature in the form of a bill. The Commercial clubs of the towns along the valley are realizing that co-operation in matters of this kind will result in mutual benefit, and Franklin and Benton counties are assured of the support of many other sections of the state.

$22,500 on One Deal.

Eugene, Ore.—T. A. Lavake, a former merchant of La Crosse, Wis., who arrived in Eugene three months ago with his family to make Eugene his home, has made a profit of $22,500 on his half interest in a thousand acre ranch on the McKenzie, which he bought of J. O. Storey of Portland, at the time of his arrival here. He paid $20,000 for his interest in the ranch and has just sold it for $42,500 to J. H. Steele, a wealthy stock raiser of Montana, who will place on the ranch a lot of blooded cattle.

Mr. Lavake is so well satisfied with his deal and quick profit that he is going to induce a large number of his friends in the east to come here and take advantage of many other opportunities of that kind that seem to be lying around in this vicinity.

Very Freakish Carrot.

Dayton, Wash.—Nature has devised a puzzle in the garden of Mrs. William Eades, a widow, who raises produce for market. Yesterday while digging her carrot crop Mrs. Eades unearthed a freak which must be accorded first place in the list of garden oddities grown in the northwest this year.

Interlocked and intertwined, six carrots have grown into a mass resembling an octopus. Although each is a distinctly separate growth, the six roots are united in such a manner as to be inseparable. One can slip the roots about, but so perfectly has Nature done her work that the "six twins" cannot be separated. All of the carrots have grown to large size and the lot weighs seven pounds. No reason is given for the peculiar growth, unless rocks under the soil interfered.

Shot at Wedding.

Albany, Ore.—While preventing his son, James L. Kinzer from shooting a neighbor boy, Henry Kinzer, a well known Linn county man received a severe wound at his home near Crabtree last night. The shooting occurred during a dance at the Kinzer home, given by young Kinzer in honor of his marriage last Tuesday to Maud Paul. In the course of the evening a quarrel arose between young Kinzer and Willis Foren, one of the guests, Kinzer saying that Foren was intoxicated and created a disturbance.

The two young men started outside to settle their differences but came to blows in the hallway and Kinzer pulled a gun, each man being armed with a revolver, according to the story of witnesses.

To prevent his boy from shooting, the elder Kinzer caught his arm and pulled it down and in the melee the weapon was discharged, the bullet striking the elder Kinzer in the thigh and ranging downward through the thigh and the calf of his leg. The wound is severe, but not dangerous. No arrests have been made yet as a result of the affray.

GREAT IRRIGATION WORK FOR EASTERN WASHINGTON

Spokane, Wash.—Preliminary surveys and actual construction work will begin early next spring on irrigation projects covering more than 1,000,000 acres of arid and semi-arid lands in eastern and central Washington. The total cost is estimated at $55,000,000, provided by private capital. This is exclusive of the federal government's projects in central Washington.

Most important of the irrigation plants to be installed is the Quincy valley project, 100 miles west of Spokane, where 500,000 acres of land will be brought under the ditch. The cost of watering the tract, which is owned by ranchers, is estimated at $25,000,000. The survey is now under way under the direction of the Quincy Valley Water Users' association and it is expected to have the work completed before the end of March, 1911. Water is available from two lakes in the district. Wenatchee lake will be the reservoir and a dam is to be built to make a fall of 2,000 feet, thus eliminating the necessity of expensive machinery.

Three hundred thousand acres of land in south central Washington is included in the Horse Heaven project. The Kliekittat Irrigation and Power company, which has charge of the work, announces that the cost will be about $12,000,000. Water rights are being sold to farmers own the land at a rate of $50 an acre, payable in 15 annual installments. A reservoir with a capacity of 240,000 acre feet will be built to store the flood water, which will be delivered to the land in cement-lined canals. The plan also contemplates the development of 10,000 horse power electrical energy, to be used in pumping additional water from the Columbia river.

PIG SWALLOWED MAN'S FALSE TEETH

Vancouver, Wash.—To see his only set of artificial gold teeth disappear into the mouth of a fat little pig was the ordeal of James Morgan, a farmer living a few miles out from Vancouver. Morgan does not know which little porker is guilty of the theft, so he has decided it would not be profitable to kill them all to recover his teeth.

Morgan came to town today to have another set made, although the teeth he lost were less than a month old and just beginning to feel comfortable.

Mr. Morgan was eating a delicious chicken dinner at his home on the farm Sunday. He got a small bone fastened in his new store teeth. Retiring from the table he went to the back door, where he gave the bone a jerk that hurled his teeth through the air.

In the yard were a dozen or more little porkers being fattened for sausage, and when they saw something shining fall they were all after it in an instant, and that was the last Mr. Morgan saw of his new set of gold teeth.

While waiting for his new set Mr. Morgan is eating soup.

SPOKANE TO SPEND FIVE MILLIONS ON POWER PLANT

Spokane, Wash.—Five million dollars will be expended by the city of Spokane upon a municipal power plant to be located on the Pend Oreille river, near Metaline, Wash., 100 miles north of Spokane. If the recommendations of a committee, having charge of fire, water and sewer matters, are adopted by the common council, Morton Macartney, chief engineer, and W. E. Moore, hydraulic engineer, say in reports to the council that between 5500 and 6,000 horsepower electrical energy can be delivered to Spokane from the site over a 100 mile high tension line with appreciable loss in transmission.

Mr. Macartney adds that the cost of development will be reasonable considering the amount of power available for manufacturing and other purposes. He estimates the cost of the plant and equipment at fully $5,000,000. The site and water rights are owned by Messrs. Ham, Yearsley and Ryrie of Spokane, who received permission from congress, several years ago, to build a dam and span the Pend Oreille river with a bridge.

SPOKANE LIKES IDEA OF CENTRAL BANK

Resolutions recently passed by the Spokane chamber of commerce endorsing the bill now pending for the increase of federal judges and favoring some form of a central bank of issue and discount have met with the hearty approval of Washington's representatives in the senate and house, says the Chronicle.

Letters were received by the chamber Monday from Representative W. W. McCredie, Senator S. H. Piles and Representative Miles Poindexter, all offering their support of the measure recommended by the chamber. The proposed increase in salaries of federal judges would place that of chief justice at $18,000, associate justices at $17,500, circuit judges at $10,000, and district judges at $9,000.

OBITUARY.

Madison Jones was born Jan. 16, 1832, near Memphis, Tenn. Within the next two years his father's family settled in Missouri, which remained his home to early manhood. Here as a boy of eleven, having become an orphan, he began life's rigorous battle for himself. At fourteen he raised and harvested his first crop of corn. The boy had become a man. Only four years later he joined the rush for California, and for three years east in his lot with the gold seekers of the west.

At the age of 21 he returned to his home in Missouri, where he soon married Elizabeth Virginia Chastain. To them were born twelve children, nine of whom survive their father. They are J. S. Jones of Pendleton; E. W. Jones of Spokane; G. W. Jones of Pendleton; Mrs. Margaret Matilda Haight, of Salt Lake City; R. B. Jones of Haines, Calif.; Mrs. Emma A. Davis, of Buhl, Idaho; J. M. Jones of Starkey Prairie; M. L. Jones of Dale, Ore.; and W. J. Jones of Pendleton.

Mr. Jones left Missouri again for the west in 1864, coming to Lane county by ox team and settling near Eugene. Three years later he came to Eastern Oregon to cast his lot with the pioneers of Umatilla county among whom he remained a citizen till his death. He first made his home in one of the beautiful groves of Butter creek; but three years later in the spring of 1870 came to Birch creek near Pilot Rock. Here he made his home and conducted his business which was that of stockraising, until he retired from active work. He yet held this property at the time of his death.

In 1890 he was married the second time, his first wife having died nine years before. This marriage was to Mary A. Lee whom he buried 14 years later, in the spring of 1904. The son of this marriage is E. G. Jones of Portland.

Upon retiring from business, of which Mr. Jones had made a great success, he with his family came to Pendleton and made their home at 1101 E. Court street where for the past 13 years he lived. The character of strong integrity, that upheld the good and hated evil, won for Mr. Jones the hearty friendship of a wide circle of acquaintances. He was a member and for many years Deacon of the Baptist church, held in high esteem by his brethren. He was active in Christian service and a strong advocate of temperance measures. The only near relative outside his own family which survives him is a half brother, A. L. Jones, of Bates county, Missouri.

HIS SIREN VOICE IS PROOF.

Man Attests Relationship by Vocal Peculiarities.

Fulton, Mo.—Peculiarities in the voice of the late Hugh Smith of Gallaway county figured largely in proceedings today by which J. W. Smith of Lynchburg, Va., established his claim to the Hugh Smith estate, valued at $10,000. Hugh Smith's voice was peculiar. One minute his words were spoken in a whisper and the next in a high piercing shriek. When J. W. Smith presented his case in the circuit court old residents of the town could hardly believe they were not listening to Hugh Smith's voice. There was the old familiar variation in pitch, now up, now down. The witness said Hugh Smith was his uncle and his voice, with other evidence he gave, satisfied the court the claim was good.

Hugh Smith died last year in this city. No one knew of any relatives and his estate has been in the care of an administrator appointed by the court.

WOULD HAVE UNDERGRADUATES LEARN OF HOUSE MORALS

Chicago.—To encourage undergraduates of universities and colleges in more extensive study of questions of house morals, state and municipal government and party politics, N. W. Harris, a Chicago banker, has established an annual prize fund of $500 to be awarded the writers of the best essays on political science. The subject for 1910-11 is "The prevalence of Crime in the United States; its extent compared with that in the leading European states; its causes and best means of remedy."

The competition is confined to undergraduates of universities and colleges in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa. A prize will be awarded the writer of the best essay from each state, provided at least five essays are submitted from each state and the competitor presenting the best essay from all institutions will receive a prize of $250.

WHO CAN BLAME HIM?

Hymowitz Would Simplify His Name.

Bernard Hymowitz has decided that he does not like his present name at all; besides, he says, it is not his real true name, and he wants to adopt another, and be known hereafter as Bernard Hymes, says the Atlanta Constitution.

He apparently has a multiplicity of names already, but liking none of them, wants to create for himself an entirely new name.

He says that he is a Russian, and that his Russian name is Sklarow; but that when he came to America, for reasons satisfactory to himself, and acting on the advice of friends, the father was naturalized under the name of Hymowitz, which his son now bears. Hymowitz assures the court that he does not wish his name changed for the purpose of concealing his identity in any way, and that the change can affect nobody but himself. He says that the original patronymic of his family was Hyman, and that the name Hymes, which he now wants the court to make legally his own, is near akin to the old family name and more in keeping with the general nomenclature of this country.
