TEXANS DISAPPOINTED WITH CENSUS COUNT

LARGEST STATE IN UNION FIFTH IN POPULATION

Generally Believed That Populace of Larger Counties Was Not Accurately Enumerated—Business Interests Not Discouraged.

Houston, Texas. — Disappointed, Texans may be over the figures given out by the census bureau which places this state fifth in population in the list of states, but not discouraged. That there is a sad failure to properly count the populace of the larger counties is generally accepted as true throughout the state but in typical western style, the business interests are moving ahead with plans for the future unshaken by the figures sent out from Washington.

That the homeseekers' movement this year is surpassing all records is demonstrated by the report of the railroads. Last Thursday was "Homeseeker Day" and the army of invaders from the north and east swept into Texas in companies, battalions, regiments and brigades. Houston, the state's railroad center, is the clearing house for the tourist movement and fully five thousand excursionists passed through the city in two days. This is but the beginning for after Christmas the tide of travel is expected to double and treble. Every railroad entering Houston is preparing for the grand rush. The millions expended in the development of southwest Texas are yielding dividends. Thursday night and Friday morning forty-two carloads of homeseekers traveled toward Brownsville by one line. Last year, 18,974 homeseekers' tickets were honored by that road, alone, and in the last five years 82,000 people have found homes in this land of promise.

Reports issued by the state railroad commission for the year ending June 30, 1910, show that out of the net operating income for the year, Texas railroads paid interest amounting to $14,225,000 and dividends amounting to $2,191,000 and have spent $1,600,000 in additions and improvements. Besides this the companies have remaining from operating income nearly a million dollars, which is more than 6 per cent of the taxable values of the roads for the year.

One of the best indices to business are post office and telegraph receipts. Houston's post office shows more than 50 per cent increase over last year and at a meeting of the managers of the Western Union Telegraph company it was shown that in volume of business by that concern based on population, Houston stands first in Texas and third in the United States. After his tour of the south-east a few days ago, B. F. Yoakum, the railroad magnate, declared there was no business depression in this section and he knew because he had seen for himself. In the face of this business activity and influx of new citizens, great things are predicted for the census reports ten years hence.

EMPTY VICTORY AFTER TWO YEARS

Here is a true story of a freight rate fight of two years which ended in an empty victory.

Two years ago the Interstate Commerce commission lowered the rate on five classes of freight from the Atlantic seaboard to cities situated on the Missouri river from three to nine cents a hundred pounds.

Railroads appealed to the courts to prevent the reduced rates from being enforced.

A few days ago the supreme court of the United States sustained the enforcement of the low rates on the ground that they were legal and reasonable.

It looked like a big victory for the Missouri river people but the fact developed that the time limit of the reduced rates expired two days before the court announced its decision.

The Interstate Commerce commission is authorized to fix rates for no longer than two years. In the Missouri river case the entire period was devoted to fighting in the courts. So the people interested, to get relief, must file a new complaint. If the commission should order a reduction the railroads will find that the courts are still open.

The supreme court decision upholding the commission's order of 1908, however, will bring some relief to the payers of freight charges. Officials of the commission said today that the railroads can be forced to refund the difference between the rates as fixed by the commission and the rates actually charged for hauling the freight. The obtaining of reparation, however, is a long and troublesome process. The claimant is required to file with the commission a detailed statement of every item of overcharge, and in case of opposition by the railroads, must defend his claim before the commission. All of this takes time and expense and only a big claim will justify it.

PUTTING BRASS COATING ON COPPER WIRE

This consulate is in receipt of an inquiry from an American manufacturing concern asking for information in regard to the process of putting brass coating on copper wire, which is afterwards drawn and flattened into what is known as "gold lath" a material used in the manufacture of gilt braids, ornaments, trimmings, etc.

Your consul has not the special knowledge that would enable him to give a technical description of this process. Generally stated, it consists in heating raw zinc in cast-iron retorts until it is reduced to a heavy zinc vapor. The copper rod or wire is then introduced into the retort and heated to a temperature of 560 to 1,020 degrees C. on the outer parts of the copper. At this temperature the zinc vapor combines with the heated copper, producing the desired result. The copper is allowed to remain in the retort until the brass coating attains the desired thickness.

The desired luster is then produced by burnishing and polishing during or after the drawing process. The brass coating follows the wire during the drawing process, which is the same as that employed for the ordinary drawn wire. The brass coating must be made thicker or thinner in accordance with the degree of fineness to which the wire is to be drawn.

HUSBAND AND WIFE HANG.

Sentenced to Die in Arkansas for Killing Their Landlord.

DeQueen, Ark.—In the circuit court here a jury returned a verdict of murder in the first degree against John Ford and his wife, Lelia Ford, tried for the killing of William Nicholas, near this place, on September 30th.

Judge Cowling sentenced both to be hanged on January 20th. The Fords were tenants of Nicholas, who was a former member of the Arkansas legislature.

The tragedy resulted from Nicholas driving across a pea patch belonging to the Fords to get to a hay barn which he had reserved.

The testimony showed that Nicholas was stabbed to death with a knife by Ford and that Mrs. Ford aided him in the crime.

If you are planning on doing something mean, just put it off until tomorrow. You know tomorrow never comes.
