Producers of Wool Feel They Are on Sucker" End of Wool Schedule— Will Take Action at Coming Meeting in Portland.

E. S. Walker, secretary of the National Woolgrowers' association at Cheyenne, writes to the Portland Commercial club that at the headquarters in Cheyenne arrangements are being made for the forty-seventh annual convention to be held in Portland, Ore., on January 5, 6 and 7,

"The woolgrowers of the country have known since the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich law, and of the Dinkley law before it," says the letter, "that they are not receiving 11 and 12 cents per pound tariff protection provided for in those laws, and instead, on account of the light shrinkage of the foreign wools imported to this country, and which ompete with American wools which shrink nearly 40 per cent more, receive less than 7 cents per pound protection and in the case of wool of the third class, less than 4 cents per pound protection on the average The woolgrowers are beginning to believe they are on the 'sucker' end of the and woolen schedule and an attempt is being made to get the two rival manufacturing interests together on the same platform at Portland, and have the controversy threshed out, the woolgrowers and sheep farmers constituting themselves a jury to pass upon the claims and

"The woolgrowers are submitting facts and figures to the tariff board showing the necessity of protecting the sheep and wool industry, both from the standpoint of cheaper clothing as well as cheaper food, believing that a withdrawal or even the present limited protection of less than 7 cents on the average the flocks of the United States will be wiped out, causing mutton as a food product to become an almost obtainable luxury and the importation of poor wools and shoddy to this country from foreign lands.

"It is expected the National Asso ciation of Woolgrowers at this Portland convention will place itself on record in the tariff controversy and prepare to protect the interests of the woolgrower, sheep farmer, breeder, mohair raiser and all others identified with this great American indus-A determined effort is to be made to gather under the leadership of the national organization a large majority of the 1,000,000 sheep farmrs of the United States, unite upon broad plan of action and be pre ared to fight it out in congress and efore the people of the country.

"The subjects of administration of ne national forests, transportation service, handling of sheep at the market centers, the predatory wild animal pest, better breeds of sheep, etc., will also be discussed by able speak. All ers representing the government deroducers.

"The railroads have joined tranting a rate of one fare and one third from Arizona, New Mexico, Colrado, Wyoming and Montana and tates west, and t is expected the conention will be the largest gathering pugnant, of livestock men ever held in the inited States"

WOULD REVISE AND CODIFY POSTAL LAWS

The reading was begun in the house Monday of a bill for the revision and dification of the postal laws. The bill provides for a practical eclassification of the postal service and for the appointment of a direct-or general of posts. The latter would a permanent government official, being subject to dismissal for cause only, and would be the practical manager of the entire postoffice depart-

This would not dispense with the ablnet position of postmaster general, and the latter would be the real ead of the department, giving his atntion, however, almost entirely to he broad questions of policy.

Rather slow progress was made with the reading of the bill, which a long one, because some of the members were anxious to have taken a pension bill providing for civil d Mexican war veterans more than 2 years old. Every parliamentary way these members could think o was resorted to but without result. The house did not adjourn, however, without a struggle, two calls or a quorum and three calls being necessary before it was decided to abandon for the day, at least, all ef-forts to get the pension bill up.

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. When Chamberain's Linknent is applied a cure may e effected in three or four days. This liniment is one of the best and most remarkable preparations in use. Sold by all dealers,
